MARTIN ASSAILS CIO REDS IN WAR TO RULE UNION

Defies Foes on Eve of Convention.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., March 3.—[Special.]—Homer Martin hurled final defiance at John L. Lewis and communist influence in the C. I. O. today as he prepared for tomorrow's convention, in which he will seek rank and file support in his fight for control of the strife torn auto workers' union.

Martin is basing his fight on an appeal to the union of more than 300,000 members to free itself of communist intrigue. He charged today that Lewis, by threats and intimidation, twice balked a communist purge which Martin sought to institute in the union—once at the Milwaukee convention and once when Martin suspended five executive board members. The members were reinstated by a mediating committee.

Hint at Purge Within Purge.

Martin's opponents, supported by Lewis and the C. I. O., charge him with an attempt to betray the union to Henry Ford.

Behind these issues, however, is an amazing and complicated picture. Its sectors include the Gilbert and Sullivan comedy of suspensions, counter-suspensions and re-suspensions of union officers.

There is a grim picture of goons [sluggers], of steel lattice barriers, and sawed-off shotguns. Adding to the dizzy whirl, there are reports that the anti-Martin faction is split into factions which may start purging each other, thus making a purge within a purge.

Dispute Over Strength.

And in the foreground of the convention picture are the conflicting claims of the two factions as to strength in the union's locals. Martin and anti-Martin groups agree that the union has about 370,000 members on its books, and that perhaps a quarter million of these have kept up their dues and are eligible to vote.

Martin said today that the delegates to his convention will represent a clear majority of the union—more than 200,000 members.

In reply his rivals issued a statement contending that they have the pledged support of locals numbering 315,000 members. They concede Martin only 21,000 members; 34,000 are listed as suspended or neutral.

Both Sides Are Maneuvering.

Their announcement included a list of all the locals supporting them. Martin said that the list of his supporting locals will come out tomorrow in the report of the convention credentials committee.

Back of the rival claims lies the fact that both sides have been engaged in maneuvers that would do the wiliest political county chairman proud. In numerous instances where Martin has won support of a local a rump meeting has "rescinded" the action and pledged allegiance to his foes. Where the anti-Martin faction has been victorious Martin supporters have used similar tactics.

The present fight opened in January. Martin suspended fifteen of the twenty-four members of the union's executive board, charging them with various offenses, including coöperation with communists to wreck the union.

Bitter Struggle Goes On.

This fifteen, with three other board members, then suspended Martin and four of his supporters, won the support of the C. I. O., named R. J. Thomas president in Martin's place, and called their own convention to meet March 27 in Cleveland.

Recently two Martin supporters, Loren Hauser and Charles Madden, joined the opposition. With the three board members whom neither faction has suspended, this gave the anti-Martin group five of the nine members of what Martin contends is the legal board of the union. So today these five met, suspended Martin once more, voted to call off his convention, and "fired" the attorneys he has hired to press a court fight for union control.

Back of this legal comedy a more bitter struggle went on for control of local unions. Martin traveled with bodyguards. His opponents had bodyguards. Officers themselves went armed. Local unions barricaded their quarters with steel fences, stacked shotguns and clubs to repel attacks.

The goon era now is dying out, since locals have lined up on one side or the other. A number of the headquarters still are fortified, however.

CHRISTEN QUEEN OF AIR FOR NEW ATLANTIC ROUTE

Giant Clipper Shows Flying Prowess.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Picture on back page.)

Washington, D. C., March 3.—[Special.]—Pan-American Airways' new Boeing plane boat today was christened Yankee Clipper in solemn ceremonies at Anacostia naval air station just across the Anacostia river from Washington. But the chief interest of the day for aviation followers was the flight demonstration of the forty-one ton air queen which soon will launch regular trans-Atlantic service.

Preceded by highly laudatory reports from the Seattle, Wash., factory where the plane was designed, built, and test flown, the clipper was ferried by air three weeks ago from there to San Francisco, New Orleans, and thence to the Pan-American Airways base at Baltimore. Since then the ship has been undergoing a thorough inspection and refurbishing.

Carries First Passengers.

Today, however, she carried her first passengers and proved beyond doubt that she represents the greatest forward step in practical aeronautical engineering and sound transportation economics that has yet been taken. While only short flights were made—between Baltimore and Anacostia and a second flight of an hour over Washington before landing again at Anacostia—the flying abilities of the ship were shown.

Several newspaper men, among them this writer, were aboard on the flight from the Baltimore base, which is Pan-American's chief repair and maintenance terminal for the trans-Atlantic line. The Clipper was scheduled to leave there at 7:30 a. m., but at that hour a low hanging fog cut visibility to less than a mile. Reports from Anacostia also were that mist obscured the river.

Size Is Awe Inspiring.

The delay gave the passengers an opportunity to examine the craft. She is slate gray in color, with huge wings spreading 152 feet from tip to tip. The hull, flat sided, and riding like a duck high out of the water at the moorings, is 109 feet long. The thick wings carry the four 1,500 horse power motors.

The Clipper seemed large, viewed at a distance, but her size became overpowering as one stepped on the stubby water wings that balance the plane when it is on the water. The left stub forms a loading platform, and a door in the hull leads into the main passenger saloon from this point.

Eight passenger compartments from the nose back to the tail are richly decorated in various colored upholsteries. Comfortable lounging seats line the walls on both sides of a main aile. The compartments form a series of steps from the tail down toward the nose.

Room for 74 Passengers.

There are accommodations, including sleeping berths, for fifty passengers on trans-Atlantic flights. For shorter hops, however, there are seats for seventy-four, and the ship could carry more than 100 on a two hour flight. A completely equipped galley has an electric stove and refrigerators. The boat was built for comfort and has ample space for each passenger. Access to the crew's quarters on a deck above the passenger cabins is by a circlar stairway.

Forward are the flight controls, a simple instrument panel, and rudder pedals. Behind the pilots' quarters is a space for the navigator and radio operator. The flight engineer has a desk and instrument panels. There are berths so that those off duty can rest. Cargo space is at the rear.

Ship Takes to the Air.

At 9 a. m. the fog had lifted and the crew began working to start the motors. By 9:20 all four engines were turning. They were warmed up until 9:45, when the moorings were cast off and the big boat began taxiing out into the channel.

When the Clipper reached open water the throttles were opened. The ship immediately began to plane "on the step," as pilots call the pre-takeoff run. In the passenger cabins there was no noise, except far forward immediately below the motors, but the acceleration pinned the passengers to their seats.

After an eight second run the plane was in the air. So smoothly had it

MOSES LOST IN THE MOUNTAINS

JEEPERS! 4 PEEPERS GIVE THE NEIGHBORS A CASE OF CREEPERS

Four mysterious strangers have been infesting the alley behind 2939 and 2943 Logan boulevard for several days. Hour after hour they peer at the sky.

Residents complained to the Shakespeare avenue police. Some say their children are getting cricks in their necks imitating the strangers. Others are merely curious; they wonder why the sky should attract peepers.

Yesterday Desk Sergeant Patrick Broderick sent a squad to investigate. The leader, Sergt. Stephan Frankowski, found the four men lined up in single file, cloud gazing. When he asked what it was all about the first man, without moving, said "Shush." Frankowski was insistent.

"We're smoke inspectors for the WPA," the mystery man finally said.

"Have you seen any in the last couple of days?" asked Frankowski.

TRY ONCE MORE TO BREAK PAVING CURSE ON BRIDGE

Motorists who complain that the pavement of the Michigan avenue bridge resembles a patchwork of bumps will be glad to know, city engineers said yesterday, that next month a third attempt will be made to break the curse on the pavement. First the bridge, which was completed in 1920, was paved with wood blocks. These popped out of place nearly every time it rained. Then rubber blocks were used. But it was found that they wore out too quickly.

The new surface will be asphalt of special strength, according to City Engineer Loran D. Gayton. For additional strength near the end of the leafs where they join the approaches steel grill work reënforced with concrete will be used. A new subsurface of creosoted planking will also be installed. To complete the job of dressing up the bridge it will be given a coat of aluminum paint. Estimated cost of the project is $65,000.

Act to Restore School Term of 10 Months

A definite plan for restoration of ten month [forty week] school year is being considered by the board of education, it was learned last night. At the present time the schools operate on a thirty-eight week term.

The school year was shortened to nine months [thirty-six weeks] in 1932. This shortened term was continued under the rigid economy program instituted in 1933. The school term was lengthened to thirty-eight weeks for the 1937-'38 school year.

Tax Levy Increase Proposed.

The addition of two weeks restoring the school term to the original ten months, would cost the board $2,775,000. The school board hopes to get the amount of money by increasing the proposed $47,500,000 tax levy for 1939, to $50,275,000.

School board attorneys have been instructed to draft the proposed pegged levy bill to permit the tax increase for presentation to the state legislature on Tuesday. The bill is to be introduced by Senator Harold G. Ward [D., Chicago], majority leader in the senate and Mayor Kelly's legislative spokesman.

The adoption of the 10 month term would be the final move in the school board's program to get the schools back on a pre-depression level and to restore pay cuts to teachers and other school employés made necessary under the economy régime.

Would Reduce Pay Slash.

The addition of the two weeks to the present school term would reduce the 23 per cent pay slash [including the four weeks cut from the school term] taken by the teachers in 1933 to about 7 per cent.

An additional $4,000,000 would be required if teacher's salaries were restored in full to the pre-economy level. This is to be the next objective of the board, it was said.

The tentative school educational [operating] budget, including the proposed additional $2,775,000 appropriation, now stands at approximately $58,060,400, compared to the 1938 budget of $54,194,880. In 1937 the educational budget was $47,632,000.

The increase in this year's estimates is due to the normal growth and expansion in the school system, officials said. Enrolment is shifting from elementary schools to the high schools, where educational costs are higher, they added.

CROWN PRINCE AT CAIRO; FAWZIA FINALLY SEES HIM

CAIRO, March 3.—(AP)—Princess Fawzia's prince charming reached Cairo today while thousands cheered, airplanes roared, and artillery boomed a twenty-one gun salute.

Tonight the princess met for the first time the man to whom she will be married. He is Crown Prince Riza Pahlavi, 20 year old heir to the peacock throne of Iran [Persia]. The meeting took place at a family dinner given by the queen mother on her yacht on the River Nile.

Princess Fawzia is the sister of King Farouk of Egypt.

The wedding will take place in Teheran, Iran, on April 21.

Clark Hits New Deal Warlike Attitude in Debate on Defense.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 3.—[Special.]—Assailing the warlike attitude of high New Dealers, Senator Bennett Champ Clark [D., Mo.], told the senate today that the United States has no business arming itself to police the world in order to save the British and French colonial empires.

Bennett C. Clark.

"I do not believe it is either necessary or justifiable for the congress of the United States to be appropriating huge sums of money for the purpose of brandishing our fists in the faces of other nations or thumbing our noses at any other power in the world," Senator Clark declared.

The Missouri senator was speaking on his amendment to limit the number of airplanes authorized by the pending 358 million dollar army expansion bill to 5,500, as passed by the house. The senate military affairs committee increased the authorized limit to 6,000 army planes.

Pass Half Billion Bill.

Meanwhile the house, without debate and without a record vote, passed the $499,857,936 war department appropriation bill for the fiscal year 1940. This measure authorizes contract obligations up to $19,505,988 for the immediate acquisition of airplanes authorized by the bill pending in the senate. It includes direct appropriations for the army air corps, to be spent in the fiscal year beginning July 1, of $94,737,281.

The bill provides for acquisition of 784 planes, mostly of the combat type. Of this number 219 are intended as replacements for the authorized air corps strength of 2,320 planes. The other 565 planes, contemplated by a supplemental budget estimate, are intended to be the first increment in the air corps expansion program, up to 5,500 or 6,000 planes, as authorized by the bill pending in the senate.

Favors 5,500 Planes.

Senator Clark said he favored the airplane procurement program, with a limit of 5,500 planes, but that he didn't want his vote construed as an indorsement of the belligerent speeches recently made by Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, William C. Bullitt, ambassador to France; Senator Key Pittman [D., Nev.], chairman and administration spokesman of the foreign relations committee, and Senator Marvel M. Logan [D., Ky.], chief administration spokesman on the military affairs committee.

Clark said he didn't approve the notions of these speakers "or any other American citizen who has been announcing to the world that we are tacitly in alliance with certain countries against certain other countries."

As a member of the military affairs committee, Senator Clark attended the secret White House conference a month ago when President Roosevelt placed the American first line of defense in France. Since that conference, all administration spokesmen have aligned the United States with France and Great Britain in the event of war between those countries and Germany and Italy.

Attacks Logan's Speech.

Senator Clark, who volunteered at the outset of the world war, went to France and became a colonel, said in a reply to a previous speech by Senator Logan:

"I heard it said on this floor by an eminent senator: 'I am not afraid to fight a foreign war. I am not afraid to send all the boys in the United States to fight on foreign fields.'"

Continuing his reply Senator Clark said:

"I am not afraid to go again myself, but I am afraid of the suggestion being made on this floor and in other places that it can be justifiable to send America's boys half way around the world to die to protect England or France or any other country in its suzerainty over subject peoples."

Clark ridiculed the idea that the air forces of Germany or Italy could attack the United States.

Congress to Reject Move to Legalize 50 Billion Limit.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 3.—[Special.]—A determined drive for government economy by a coalition of conservative Democrats and Republicans has forced the administration to drop attempts to increase the public debt limit.

It was learned that unless President Roosevelt personally demands it there will be no further agitation by administration leaders to raise the legal debt limit from 45 to 50 billion dollars.

Requested by Morgenthau.

When he testified before the house appropriations committee in January, Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. asked that the limit be raised. He expressed an opinion that a debt of 50 billions would not endanger the nation's financial structure.

This indication by the administration that it intended to continue its policy of borrowing and spending aroused so much opposition in congress that administration leaders decided to abandon the idea.

Today the treasury disclosed that on March 1 the federal debt had reached another all-time high of 39 billion 915 million dollars. This represents an indebtedness of $307 for every man, woman, and child in the nation.

By the end of the fiscal year the debt is expected to reach more than 41 billions. In his budget for 1940 the President predicted a debt of 44 billion 458 million dollars by July 1, 1940. This was the reason for Morgenthau's request that the barrier be lifted.

Democrats Assail Spending.

Four conservative Democrats today figured in attacks on the administration's spending policies and antagonism toward business. Two of them hold key committee chairmanships. This supports an earlier report that conservative Democrats had banded together for a planned drive on the "spending toward prosperity" theory.

Senator Harry F. Byrd [D., Va.], long a leading critic of the administration's extravagance, blasted the proposal to raise the debt limit.

Senator Frederick Van Nuys [D., Ind.], asked withdrawal of the President's nomination of Thomas R. Amlie to the Interstate Commerce commission, on the grounds that Amlie's radical leanings are detrimental to business confidence. Amlie's nomination is now pending before the senate interstate commerce commission and it is expected that it will be rejected by the senate.

"The withdrawal of Mr. Amlie's nomination, with no repetition of similar nominations in the future, will do more to start private capital to work than all the post-prandial oratory of this effervescent age," said Van Nuys in a statement issued tonight, in which he also urged repeal of the undistributed profits tax and further modification of the capital gains tax.

Joint Letter to Morgenthau.

A further drive on taxes was made in a joint letter by Senator Pat Harrison [D., Miss.], chairman of the senate finance committee, and Representative Robert L. Doughton [D., N. C.], chairman of the house ways and means committee, to Secretary Morgenthau.

They told the treasury head that they "stand ready and anxious to coöperate" in the removal of any taxes as a measure to aid business and stimulate reëmployment. They called upon Morgenthau to submit to their respective committees, which handle tax matters, as soon after March 15 as possible, recommendations for revising taxes.

They had taken up Morgenthau's invitation of last week when he suggested that congress examine the present tax laws to see if revisions could be made which would encourage business to make and invest money.

Only last night Harrison had demanded in a formal statement that the administration drastically reduce spending to stave off higher debt and increased taxes, which, he said, were leading to national bankruptcy.

"Senator Harrison has sounded a timely warning of the inevitable disasters to follow continuance of the reckless effort to spend ourselves into prosperity on borrowed money," said Senator Byrd in his statement tonight.

Bryd said that if the administration persisted in asking an increase in the debt limit it would be rejected by the congress "as a first step towards retrenchment and economy and at the same time put on notice the government spendthrifts to cooperate in reduction of deficit spending."

"The fiscal philosophy announced with administration approval by Chairman Eccles of the federal reserve system that the greater the deficit the greater the prosperity, and the recent active resistance of the President of the United States to congressional efforts to economize have done much, in my judgment, to impair a revival of business confidence necessary for prosperity," said Byrd.

"We all know that the deficit is too vast to be able to balance the budget immediately, but a sincere and determined effort to conduct the business operations of our government on a sound basis and gradually to approach pay-as-you-go financing will do much to restore business confidence and remove the fear that in later years confiscatory taxation will be essential to discharge the debt being created in the discredited attempt to restore prosperity on debts and deficits."

Fake Kidnaping

Ignatius Bianco and his sweetheart, Tina Gaddini.

Ignatius Bianco, 19 years old, disappeared early yesterday from his uncle's restaurant at 950 Crosby street, where he is night watchman. A note on a table near an open window said: "The kid knows to [sic] much. Taking him with us. Let him go soon." Sixteen dollars was missing from the cash drawer, and on the floor was a piece of Bianco's shirt. Chicago avenue police began searching for him.

Yesterday afternoon Bianco met a friend, Carl Massini, 21, on the sidewalk at Oak and Crosby streets, and collapsed. "I just broke my way out of the basement where they kept me," he gasped. Then he went to the Chicago avenue police station.

There, under questioning by Detectives Robert J. McCarthy and Walter Carrigan, Bianco changed his story. He hadn't been kidnaped, he said. He had just pretended so to impress his girl friend, Tina Gaddini, 18, 339 Evergreen avenue. The money was recovered from under a rock near the restaurant. Ignatius' uncle, Jack Venturino, was so happy to see Ignatius that he didn't sign a complaint.

GREEN LAUNCHES CAMPAIGN; ASKS COURTNEY'S AID

Demands End of Alliance of Crime and Politics.

BY PERCY WOOD.

Dwight H. Green, Republican nominee for mayor, opened his election campaign last night with a two-fisted attack upon Mayor Kelly and the entire Democratic organization.

Green declared that the alliance between crime and politics in New York had been broken by the conviction of Jimmy Hines, Tammany Hall New Dealer, and the same thing can be accomplished in Chicago. He charged that the Nash-Kelly machine forced WPA workers to vote its ticket last Tuesday. He devoted almost half his speech to an offer to State's Attorney Courtney, the mayor's primary opponent. Green promised that if elected mayor, he would aid Courtney in driving organized criminality from the city.

Green took to the radio just 72 hours after his nomination had been assured. He announced on Wednesday that he proposed to begin the election fight immediately, without taking the customary post-primary vacation. Mayor Kelly is taking a week's rest in Florida before taking the stump again.

Charges Wild Spending Spree.

The G. O. P. candidate charged that the Nash-Kelly organization spent $2,500,000 on Tuesday for the 604,190 votes polled for Mayor Kelly.

"Leaders of the machine," Green declared, "engaged in the wildest spree of spending Chicago has ever seen. They forced every man and woman of their entire political machine into action. That machine consists of tens of thousands of pay rollers, yard heelers, and virtually all of the county and state employés in Chicago. Chicago saw the most brazen demonstration of coercion and plunder Tuesday in its century of history.

"The Kelly-Nash machine forced men in the ranks of the WPA, the PWA, and people on relief to vote its ticket. They made a chain gang of the unfortunates of our city and under the lash made them protect their bread by voting Kelly-Nash.

Get One-Third of Votes.

"They spent $2,500,000 and forced out every vote they could obtain, but they received only one-third of the registered vote. Six hundred thousand voters did not go to the polls.

"They spent $2,500,000 to win the nomination because they fear to face the investigations which the public will demand when they lose power.

"They are afraid because they know that if some one outside their machine goes into the city hall, they can no longer hide their padded pay rolls. The story of their political contracts will be spread before a grand jury. They are afraid somebody may audit their books. They are looking forward to four more years of pillage and plunder, immune from any outside scrutiny."

Alliance Between Crime, Politics.

Green then turned his remarks to the state's attorney.

"In his crusade against the machine," he said, "Tom Courtney told you that Chicago is overrun with organized racketeers and hoodlums. He told you of the alliance between crime and politics. He told you our board of education is steeped in politics.

"Tom Courtney told you how the Democratic machine had blocked all efforts to give this community law and order. He also told you how the machine leaders sell promotions in the police and fire departments, and how they sell principalships in our public schools.

"Mr. Courtney, a Democrat, vigorously condemned this monstrous, graft-ridden machine. I want to tell State's Attorney Courtney right here, that when I am elected mayor of Chicago, I will work shoulder to shoulder with him to rid this community of organized criminals.

"I am taking the state's attorney at his word. He has a year and half of his present term to serve. I will be mayor during a large part of that time. Here is my assurance to him and I am making it unconditionally with no strings attached.

Bring Criminals to Justice.

"As mayor of Chicago, I will not only give him 100 per cent coöperation, but I will personally aid him in every way possible to bring all major criminals to justice.

"As mayor of Chicago, I will turn over the books and records of every department in the city. This undoubtedly will disclose the manipulations of the Kelly-Nash machine, all their thievery and all their scandals.

"I will direct the corporation counsel and the city prosecutor to work hand in hand with Mr. Courtney. You, Mr. Courtney, as state's attorney, and I, as mayor of Chicago, working together, can and will release Chicago and Cook county from the domination of a ruthless government that has scandalized our city and imperiled the welfare of our people."

TAKES POISON; DIES IN HOSPITAL.

Mrs. Anna Stankiewicz, 56 years old, 1758 West 21st place, died last night in County hospital a few hours after she had swallowed poison. Police were told she had been despondent.

Miss Rosemary Rapp kissing Douglas Fairbanks Jr. as part of sorority initiation.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 3.—[Special.]—It's initiation week among the sororities at the University of California in Los Angeles. One of the novel assignments for "pledges" went to Miss Rosemary Rapp. "Kiss a male movie star," the sisters demanded of Miss Rapp. She sighted Douglas Fairbanks Jr. arriving in town by train, and shyly kissed him on the cheek. Her witness was Miss Kathleen De Witt, an upper class member of the sorority.

CANVASS SHOWS 67 PCT. VOTED IN MAYORAL RACES

Chicagoans cast 1,236,456 ballots, or 67.66 per cent of registration at last Tuesday's mayoral primaries. In the aldermanic elections 1,242,288 ballots were cast, resulting in the election of 34 members of the city council and necessitating runoff elections on April 4 for the remaining 16 seats.

The board of election commissioners made public these figures late yesterday after it had completed the official canvass. No changes in the list of winners apparent Tuesday night were made by the canvass.

Mayor Kelly defeated State's Attorney Courtney for the Democratic nomination by 287,136, polling 604,190 votes to 317,054 for Courtney. Dwight H. Green's majority over W. H. Thompson for the Republican nomination was 149,471. Green drew support from 212,011 Republicans while Thompson polled only 62,540.

3 DAYS REMAIN TO REGISTER FOR APRIL 4 ELECTION

Three thousand new voters registered yesterday at the board of election commissioners in the city hall. This brought the total in the permanent files to 1,830,362. About 3,500 voters made a change of address.

Monday night is the registration deadline for Chicagoans wanting to vote in the mayor election on April 4. Election board offices will be open from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. today, tomorrow, and Monday for registrations. Change of address cards will be honored if they are mailed before midnight Monday. There will be no city-wide registration before the election.

March 17 and 18 are the dates for filing objections to registrations. Hearings on suspect notices sent out as a result of the objections will be held March 20, 21, and 22.

SUMMIT FINDS VILLAGE FUNDS SHORT $11,500

Withhold Criminal Action Pending Recovery.

Officials of Summit admitted yesterday that a recent audit of village books had uncovered a shortage of $11,500 in the accounts of the village treasurer. The shortage was accumulated, they said, from 1931 to 1936 in connection with payments by local taxpayers on special assessment bonds.

Attorney Charles N. Goodnow, counsel for the village trustees, said the person responsible for the shortage is known. He asserted, however, that no criminal action will be started until the money is recovered. The village is bonded by the National Casualty company, 910 South Michigan avenue, which is investigating the case.

Seek to Repossess Funds.

"We don't want to file any criminal complaint with the state's attorney's office against this person," said Attorney Goodnow. "We are interested primarily in getting the money that is missing, so that we will not face any suits by the taxpayers."

The bonding company began its investigation last December, when the deficit was discovered. It must make its final report to the village within a week as to whether it will make up the shortage.

At State's Attorney Courtney's office yesterday it was said that no complaint had been received by either the village trustees or individual tax payers.

Report on Audit Monday.

The official report of the audit will be made at a meeting of the village trustees Monday night. The audit was ordered by the trustees last December after the First National bank of Lemont, which held several thousand dollars' worth of the special assessment bonds, threatened to file suit against the village. The bank charged that taxpayers' payments on the bonds had been used for other purposes.

The treasurer during the period in which the shortage was amassed was Charles L. Genesen, a local banker. Attorney Goodnow said he is not involved in the scandal. The present village treasurer is Joseph Freund, who took office in April, 1937.

CONVICT STABS MICHIGAN CITY PRISON GUARD

Roy L. Thompson, a guard at the Indiana state prison in Michigan City, was stabbed several times and seriously wounded Thursday by a convict whom he had reprimanded, it was learned last night.

The convict, William Wright, a Negro, appeared to be shirking at work and Thompson scolded him. The convict suddenly drew a knife with a one inch blade and lashed at Thompson. Thompson was cut in the side, the neck, chin and forehead.

The stab in the side cut Thompson's lung, and he was taken to St. Anthony's hospital. He is 29 years old, and his home is in Cloverdale, Ind. The Negro was serving a term of one to five years for escaping from the Putnamville state prison farm in 1935.

Miss Lois Daily with her young ocelot.

Gatito, an orphan at four weeks old, came to Chicago last night after traveling from Honduras in a small cage. Gatito, who is about eight inches long, is an ocelot, which is a member of the cat family. He was traveling with his owner, Miss Lois Daily, 7617 Essex avenue, and her traveling companion, Miss Thelma Kessler, 1608 Sherwin avenue.

Gatito was born in the bush near Rio Lindo, which is near La Lima, Honduras. His mother, a tawny beauty about 30 inches long, was shot by natives and Gatito was captured. Since then he has been living on milk and, lately, a little meat.

Gatito posed for pictures nonchalantly, biting gently anything placed within reach of his sharp if tiny fangs. Miss Daily was asked how large he would get.

"I'm afraid to think of it," she said.

Her mother, however, had the final word.

"Lois Daily," she said, "you're not going to keep that poor little thing."

The poor little thing snarled in a friendly sort of way. He doesn't know yet Miss Daily has his mother's pelt.

WPA GANG SLUGS TWO U. S. BOSSES IN DECATUR FEUD

City's Fight with Federal Agency Causes Stir.

Decatur, Ill., March 3.—[Special.]—A gang of WPA workmen today severely slugged two WPA officials. The trouble grew out of a long standing feud between the government agency and the city of Decatur.

The men slugged are J. D. McKechnie, Decatur supervisor of the WPA, and W. H. Davis, timekeeper on a city street improvement project on which their attackers were employed. The injuries of the two victims were treated at a hospital, and then they were taken to their homes and confined to bed.

For months representatives of the city and of the WPA have bickered over the responsibilities of starting projects, over the blame for failures, and over the amount of money and equipment each side should contribute to improvements.

City Officials Resentful.

City officials resented having their town "run from Washington," as exemplified by the authority of WPA in supervising the spending of federal funds. The city has had little sympathy toward federally financed public works, but has been forced by political expediency to accept them.

Ill feeling became more intense last Tuesday when Charles Schultz of Decatur, foreman on the street improvement project, was discharged by WPA officials and A. S. Alderman of Joliet was appointed to take his place.

The WPA accused Schultz of incompetency and said he had been "working too much in the interests of the city and not enough for the WPA." They would not elaborate publicly on their charges, but it was reported WPA men had been used for city work not designated as WPA projects.

Beecher Hughey, city commissioner of streets, called Schultz' dismissal unjustified. He immediately withdrew all city equipment from the WPA project, forcing work to be halted yesterday.

Speech Arouses Workers.

This morning McKechnie and Davis went to the Decatur city yards, where seventy WPA workmen had gathered, to explain to them why their foreman was discharged.

The mood of the workmen became increasingly belligerent toward the two representatives of what they regarded as an unfriendly Washington burocracy. When McKechnie completed his speech, in which he criticized the ousted foreman for siding with the city, the men moved threateningly toward the two officials.

McKechnie said a dozen of the workmen attacked him, knocked him down, and kicked him. When Davis came to his aid, he also was beaten.

Commissioner Hughey sent a request to Charles E. Miner, state WPA head, at Chicago, asking him to investigate Schultz' dismissal. Arrangements were made for Decatur city officials to confer with Miner in Chicago tomorrow.

NEW POPE MAKES PEACE PLEA; SETS CORONATION DATE

Pleads for World Amity in Radio Address.

BY ARCH WARD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, March 3.—Rome today was celebrating the election of its first home pope in 218 years. Until Cardinal Eugenio Pacelli was chosen successor to Pope Pius XI. in the conclave of the sacred college yesterday, no Roman had been made head of the Catholic church since 1721, when Cardinal Conti was crowned as Innocent XIII.

Crowds of sightseers moved around the old home of Pacelli throughout the day. It is situated on Via Vetrina, close to the market place in what now is a poor district around St. Peter's basilica, where yesterday the new pope appeared before 200,000 persons as Pius XII.

It was announced at the Vatican today that the coronation ceremony would take place on March 12. There had been some effort by the Italian cardinals to set the coronation for March 19, the feast of St. Joseph, which is a holy day of obligation in Italy.

Difficult for Some Cardinals.

It is understood that the new pope, who was elected by unanimous vote, considers this too great a sacrifice of time on the part of the non-Italian prelates, some of whom traveled thousands of miles to attend the conclave.

The new pope, almost simultaneously with the setting of the coronation date, pleaded for peace among all the nations in an unprecedented radio address from Vatican City. As Pius XII., he called "for that peace, sublime gift of heaven, which is desired by all honest souls and which is the fruit of charity and justice."

A Flood of Telegrams.

Congratulatory telegrams poured into the Vatican today from prominent church and state officials in all parts of the world.

There is no individual more enthusiastic over the elevation of Cardinal Pacelli to the papacy than Cardinal George Mundelein of Chicago. Cardinal Mundelein would make no statement for publication, but he was overjoyed with the result when visited by this correspondent this morning.

The cardinals paid their third obeisance to the new pontiff this morning. The ceremony, conducted in the Sistine chapel where he yesterday became their shepherd and father, was in acknowledgment of the pope's universal and absolute jurisdiction.

A Colorful Ceremony.

Today's ceremony was more colorful than the two yesterday, because the cardinals had set aside their purple cappa magna vestment of mourning and wore red robes and red slippers. The cardinals approached a faldstool, on which the pope was seated in front of the regular altar, in the order of their precedence in the sacred college. The trains of their garments were allowed to stretch out to full length.

Instead of being carried to his place in the Sistine chapel on the fede gestatoria [great chair], as had been the custom of recent predecessors, Pius XII. walked to his chair. He was extremely gracious and considerate of the seminarians, priests, and laymen outside the chapel who attempted to kiss his ring as the procession was in progress.

Attired in Full Papal Regalia.

Only the cardinals and masters of ceremony were permitted inside the chapel. The pope was attired in full pontifical regalia with gold mitre, white cassock and and red cape.

At the conclusion of the ceremony Pius XII. delivered his radio talk on peace. In this he eulogized the efforts of Pius XI. in that direction.

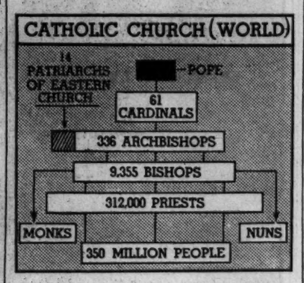
There are rumors that the coronation will take place at St. John Lateran basilica, the mother church of the Catholic world, or in St. Peter's square. We have authoritative information it will be held inside St. Peter's. The Vatican basilica accommodates almost 70,000, but requests for tickets will exceed 500,000.

It is planned to install amplifiers in St. Peter's square to inform the overflow crowd of the ceremony inside.

Pope Pius XII. took his last walk as cardinal on the Via George Washington in Villa Borghesi, Rome's famous promenade in the heart of the city on Tuesday, the day before opening of the conclave. His holiness sent special blessings to the United States today through Cardinal William O'Connell of Boston, dean of the American cordinals.

Catholic Hierarchy

These diagrams of the organization of the Roman Catholic church and the accompanying text are based upon information obtained from Msgr. D. F. Cunningham, superintendent of Catholic schools in Chicago; from the Catholic Church Extension society, and from the Official Catholic Year Book for the United States.

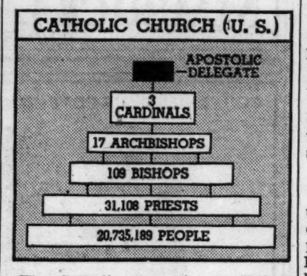


Supreme authority over the Catholic church in the world is vested in the pope [from the Greek, pappas, meaning father]. Immediately below him in authority is the Sacred College of Cardinals, limited to 70 members. There are 61 now. Cardinals [from the Latin, cardo: hinge or support—the pope depends upon their counsel and aid] have precedence over all other primates and patriarchs.

Next are the archbishops [from the Greek archos: chief; episkopos: bishop]. They preside over one or more dioceses forming an ecclesiastical province. The heads of the dioceses are bishops.

Each diocese is divided into parishes. Over each of these is one or more priests [from the Latin presbyter: elder]. The title monsignor [Italian: my lord] is conferred upon some priests.

The religious orders for men and women—brotherhoods and sisterhoods—are under the direct supervision of the bishops, but are of lower rank than priests.



The Catholic clergy in the United States, though under full jurisdiction of the pope, are directly answerable to the pontiff's representative in this country. He is Archbishop Amleto Giovanni Ciognani, the apostolic delegate, whose official residence is in Washington, D. C.

His position in the American church corresponds roughly to the pope's position as head of the world church. If a priest should want to appeal a decision of his bishop, for example, the appeal would be made to the apostolic delegate in Washington. Only if the apostolic delegate should hold against the priest would an appeal be taken to Rome.

Immediately below the apostolic delegate come the three American cardinals [there usually are four], then the archbishops, the bishops, and the priests.

BARBARA HUTTON SURRENDERS HER SON, 3, TO COUNT

Titled Mate Will Rear Lad Just as He Wishes.

LONDON, March 3.—(AP)—Count Court Haugwitz-Reventlow, estranged husband of the former Barbara Hutton, heiress to the Woolworth millions, today obtained custody of their young son, Lance.

The count and countess, legally separated, apparently had agreed on this course. The application to Justice Sir Charles Bennett of the chancery division of the high court of justice, who issued the order, was made on behalf of both.

Lance, now 3 years old, is at St. Moritz, Switzerland, where he has been staying with his father since early in January.

The Danish nobleman will have "custody, care and superintendence" of Lance during his minority. He will have the right to choose the boy's "religious instruction, education and upbringing."

The countess will have the child with her during periods specified in the Reventlows' Danish separation agreement.

Charges Hurled in Court.

The former Barbara Hutton and Count Haugwitz-Reventlow were married in 1935, a day after she won a divorce in Reno from Prince Alexis Mdivani, her first husband. They parted last summer after a dispute over finances and the education of their son, Lance.

Charges and countercharges marked a legal battle in which the count and countess then engaged. There were reports that threats had been made to kidnap Lance. Armed guards patroled the grounds about the countess' home, Winfield house, in London.

The count eventually went to trial in London on charges of his wife that he had threatened her and that she was in fear of her life.

Barbara Drops Charges.

Other angles were brought out—that Count Haugwitz-Reventlow had called his wife and a certain suspected love rival, a "gentleman in London," obscene names; that Barbara had offered to settle $1,250,000 on her husband but reduced the amount to $250,000 and later raised it to $500,000 "to let bygones be bygones" and that the count spurned the offer as "an insult." On July 13, Barbara suddenly withdrew the charges and the count went free.

A separation pact was signed in London on July 30 after the acting Danish minister of justice had announced that a petition for separation had been signed. Under Danish law a divorce can be granted eighteen months after separation has been granted if neither party objects. If one disagrees thirty months must elapse.

PRINCESS ANNA.

MAIDSTONE, England, March 3.—Princess Anna Iylnskaya, the former Anna Emery, Cincinnati heiress, who was married here to Prince Dimitri Djordjadze of Georgia, and her husband are on their honeymoon. It was the second marriage for both, the bride having been previously married to Grand Duke Dimitri of Russia. Prince Dimitri formerly was married to Elizabeth Brown.e, Canadian heiress.

EXPECT CARDINAL MAGLIONE TO GET PACELLI'S PLACE

VATICAN CITY, March 3.—(AP)—Vatican prelates predicted tonight that Cardinal Luigi Maglione, former nuncio to Paris, would be the next papal secretary of state. Pius XII., as Cardinal Eugenio Pacelli, held the post for eight years and will make the appointment.

Cardinal Luigi Maglione.

Prelates said selection of Cardinal Maglione to carry out the pope's peace policy was almost certain for three reasons:

1. His diplomatic experience.
2. His comparative youth among the cardinals—he is 62 years old.
3. His intimate friendship with the new pontiff since they were classmates at Capranica college in Rome.

Cardinal Federico Tedeschini, former nuncio to Madrid, was most prominently named as the second choice.

NO PAPAL NUNCIO, DEMAND SCOTCH PRESBYTERIANS

DINGWALL, Scotland, March 3.—(AP)—While Great Britain's Catholics joyfully celebrated the election of a new pope, Scottish Presbyterians demanded today that the government resist "any endeavor to foist a papal nuncio on this country."

The statement, made by the northern presbytery of the Free Presbyterian Church of Scotland, followed its recent protest to Viscount Halifax, British foreign secretary, against the appointment of Archbishop William Godfrey as apostolic delegate to Britain.

The presbytery had expressed itself as satisfied with Halifax's assurance that the archbishop had no diplomatic but only ecclesiastical status. In the demand against appointment of a papal nuncio, however, it declared: "Let us bear in mind that our legislators will be brought to account sooner or later if they tamper with the bill of rights or act of settlement."

NEW POPE REVEALS WHY HE SELECTED PIUS XII. AS HIS NAME

ROME, March 3.—(AP)—Rome newspapers said today that Cardinal Eugenio Pacelli, after his election as pope, explained his reason for assuming the name Pius XII. as follows:

"I wish to be called Pius XII. because all of my ecclesiastical life and my career have developed under popes of this name, and especially as a sign of gratitude for Pius XI., who always favored me with his affection."

Cardinal Pacelli accepted election as supreme pontiff of the church with these words:

"It seems God's will that this burden should fall on me. In this sense I accept it."

Cardinal William O'Connell of Boston, who described the new pope's words and the scene immediately after the election yesterday, said the pontiff was very pale but very calm.

PRESIDENT SENDS GOOD WISHES IN MESSAGE TO POPE

Charleston, S. C., March 3.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today sent a message of congratulations to Pope Pius XII., upon his election to succeed Pope Pius XI. The President and the newly elected pope met during the summer of 1936 when the latter, as Cardinal Eugenio Pacelli, papal secretary of state, toured this country.

The message was addressed to "His holiness, Pope Pius XII." It read: "It is with true happiness that I learned of your selection as supreme pontiff. Recalling with pleasure our meeting on the occasion of your recent visit to the United States, I wish to take this occasion to send you a personal message of felicitation and good wishes." The message was signed "Roosevelt."

It was sent by the radio of the cruiser Houston as the warship, with the President aboard, neared this city.

BIG NAVAL GAME TESTS BRITAIN'S GIBRALTAR GRIP

107 Warships Engaging in Maneuvers.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 3.—On the heels of American naval operations off the West Indies, the British admiralty today sent 107 warships, including battleships, cruisers, submarines, and aircraft carriers, into large scale maneuvers to test the possibilities of protecting Gibraltar and closing the Mediterranean sea.

The first phase of the maneuvers will last from today until March 6 and the second phase from March 10 to 18. The maneuvers are being carried out by fifty-five ships of the British home fleet commanded by Admiral Sir Charles Forbes and fifty-two ships of the Mediterranean fleet under Admiral Sir Dudley Pound.

In the first phase the maneuvers of the home fleet [blue enemy fleet] will attack Gibraltar, and the Mediterranean fleet [red] will defend the area. The operations also will test the effectiveness of British bases at Madeira and the Azores, of which this country enjoys the use by virtue of its centuries old military alliance with Portugal.

Use Bases of Portugal.

The fleet will also presume to use the newly overhauled bases of Portugal itself, which have been brought up to scratch since the effectiveness of Gibraltar became less than it once was.

The attacking blue fleet, under Admiral Forbes, steamed south toward Madeira some days ago and lost itself in the Atlantic.

The fleet exercises also will test the possibility that Germans and Italians, through their relations with Gen. Francisco Franco, might have submarine and air bases in the Canaries and use them for attacking purposes.

That presumably will be the theme of the first phase of the maneuvers which, however, also will test the possibilities of blockade running to learn if enemy raiders would be able to get through the British fleet patrol and attack trade vessels.

More Shooting Ordered.

The exercises, which will cost the admiralty about $2,500,000, because an unusual amount of target practice and shooting has been ordered, will be devoted in the second phase to solving the problem of whether a warplane with a high explosive torpedo can sink a battleship. A new type torpedo and a new type anti-aircraft gun, details of which are a guarded secret, will be tried out.

These exercises also will include convoying of food ships. In this exercise last year only three ships out of eight got through the paper blockade.

Before the British maneuvers are completed warships of the French Atlantic squadron also will be carrying out large scale maneuvers in the Atlantic off Brest, France. The French war fleets will steam out of Brest on March 7 and return on March 17. The theme of their games is a secret, but a problem will be worked out in coördination with the British fleet.

Britain is spending $3,000,000 this year on fortification of the port of Aden, in the Red sea, and $2,500,000 on an air and naval base in Ceylon.

JAPANESE POUND CHINESE ARMIES ON TWO FRONTS

SHANGHAI, March 4 [Saturday].—(AP)—Two powerful Japanese armies, using tanks and bombing planes, pressed campaigns today on widely separated fighting fronts in China.

A fierce battle was reported in inland Hupeh province, where the Japanese were attempting to advance up the Yangtze river west of Hankow. In Kiangsu province, on the coast north of Shanghai, another Japanese army was waging a mopup drive against 60,000 Chinese north of the Yangtze river in an area bounded by the Yellow river, Yellow sea, Grand canal, and Lunghai railroad. The invaders' objective, apparently, was Haichow, the only port north of Shanghai still in Chinese hands.

On the inland front, Japanese reported they were attacking Shayang, 100 miles west of Hankow in the Han river sector, preparatory to an assault on Shasi, an important Yangtze river port, thirty miles to the southwest.

SHOOTING IS HELD SUICIDE.

A coroner's jury returned a verdict of suicide yesterday in the death of William Puddy, 54 years old, who was found shot to death Feb. 12 at the Mission Hills Country club, Northbrook, where he was a greenskeeper.

FRANCE LOOKS TO PETAIN TO MAKE FRIEND OF SPAIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 3.—The French government was given credit today for having made an astute move in naming Marshal Henri Petain, the "hero of Verdun," as the first French ambassador to Nationalist Spain. Petain was commander in chief of the French forces in the world war under Marshal Ferdinand Foch, generalissimo of the allied armies.

Petain, to most observers, seems well qualified to act as diplomatic representative to a nation which probably will include many military men in its government. Petain, now 82 years old, was an instructor in the French war college many years ago when Generalissimo Francisco Franco, Nationalist commander, was a student there. Besides this, Petain played a significant rôle in the Spanish-French collaboration which led to the defeat of Abd El Krim, Riff leader, in Morocco in 1925 and 1926.

Petain, at that time, went to Madrid, negotiated an agreement with the government of Dictator Primo de Rivera, and led the French forces which, combined with the Spanish, conclusively defeated Abd El Krim and his powerful Riff army.

The French are hopeful that the keen appreciation of the Spanish military mind which Marshal Petain acquired during this expedition, plus his friendship with Franco, will work to France's advantage in its struggle to displace Italy and Germany as the new government's foremost friends.

LOYALIST ARMY STIFFENING ITS MADRID DEFENSE

Nationalists, Expecting Fall, Rush Food.

LONDON, March 3.—(AP)—Spanish loyalists were holding stubbornly today to Madrid and to the fourth of the country still in their hands, although leaders of France and Great Britain, which formally recognized the nationalists on Monday, had believed Madrid would soon fall and the civil war come to an end.

Instead of capitulating, the loyalists appear to have stiffened their resistance.

Dolores Ibarruri, woman communist fighter known as "La Passionara," declared at Madrid the loyalists would win the war yet.

Food Rushed Toward Madrid.

At Burgos, the nationalist capital, Pilar Primo de Rivera, daughter of a former premier, declared "entry of our troops into Madrid is near." Chief of the nationalist women's organization, she appealed to the nation for supplies for "the starving people" in the territories under loyalist rule.

The nationalists rushed truckloads of food toward Madrid, counting on an early surrender.

Nationalists offered as a sign of early republican collapse reports of mass desertions from Madrid to nationalist siege lines half way around the city.

Tell of Hunger Deaths.

Nationalists said the refugees told of scores dying of starvation each week in Madrid.

The Madrid cabinet prepared to elect a successor to President Manuel Azana, who resigned this week.

Generalissimo Franco sent to Pope Pius XII today a message expressing "filial felicitations" in the name of a Roman Catholic Spain fighting "against the enemies of the faith."

Appointment of Sir Maurice Peterson, who has served in Madrid and Washington as ambassador to Franco's Spain, was approved at London today by King George.

Flee Madrid

Arrows locate points at which many loyalists are reported fleeing from Madrid, braving loyalist gunfire to reach nationalist forces (heavy broken line) across No Man's land.

RULES AGAINST SERRITELLA IN RACE NEWS SUIT

Charles McDonald, master in chancery in the United States District court, yesterday refused to dismiss State Senator Daniel A. Serritella as a defendant in a suit alleging he conspired with M. L. Annenberg and others to obtain a monopoly in the dissemination of racing news. Attorney Joseph Rosenberg asked for Serritella's dismissal on the ground that the Bulletin Record Publishing Company of Chicago, the plaintif, had failed to prove that Serritella's Madison Publishing company was controled by Annenberg.

During the hearing before McDonald it has been testified that when Serritella organized his company with a $1,000 capitalization in 1937, the Regal Press, said to be controled by Annenberg interests, furnished him with $14,000 worth of machinery, accepting unsecured notes in payment. Joseph Savage, counsel for the plaintif, contended this indicated that Annenberg was interested in the Madison company. The plaintif rested its case yesterday. Master McDonald reserved ruling on motions to strike nearly 100 miscellaneous exhibits in the case. The defense will open its case on Monday.

taken off that the exact moment it left the water was unknown to the passengers. Rapidly, at a surprisingly steep angle, the giant boat climbed away to 3,500 feet, where she was leveled off.

Sitting in the cabin watching the wings, it was noticeable that the plane responded quickly to the movements of ailerons [wing controls] that banked the plane for turns. Turns were very slow, however, and it was estimated the ship flew five miles making a 180 degree change of direction.

Ease of Handling Praised.

"For a big ship, she is surprisingly maneuverable," said Capt. Harold Grey. "But no big ship answers her controls like a pursuit plane. It takes space to maneuver her—in the water and in the air. But she flies beautifully and is feather light on her controls."

First Officer Charles S. Vaughn and Second Officer Adam S. Kalkowsky handled the controls. The air speed meter showed a speed of 145 miles an hour. Corrected for altitude [above sea level indicators always read less than actual speeds] this showed a speed of 156 miles an hour.

This is almost thirty miles an hour faster than the Martin China Clipper, it was explained. The China Clipper flies the Pacific ocean routes, the Yankee Clipper, Capt. Grey explained, is one and a half times larger than the China Clipper, carries almost twice the payload, and can fly half again as far with only a slight increase in operating cost.

Outdistances Other Craft.

Fifteen minutes after leaving Baltimore the clipper had covered the forty miles to Washington. As she wheeled in stately circles, photographic ships rose toward her.

It was noticeable that the Clipper gradually outdistanced the accompanying ships, even though some of these planes went into shallow dives to gain more speed. The landing was accomplished with the same smoothness as the takeoff.

A huge wing flap or airbrake was lowered to cut the speed and gliding angle, and the Clipper sank steeply but slowly toward the water. The glide was flattened and the keel touched. Then the plane slowly sank into the river, gradually transferring lift from the wings to the hull.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt christened the boat during the afternoon, breaking over the bow a bottle filled with water collected from all the earth's seven seas by Pan-American publicity corps. After the ceremony some sixty-five congressmen and their wives, aviation officials, and army and navy officers rode for an hour over Washington.

CLIPPER REACHES HONGKONG.

HONGKONG, March 3.—(AP)—Pan-American Airways' new forty ton, seventy-four passenger clipper today completed its maiden trans-Pacific flight, alighting at Hongkong on the final leg from Manila. The clipper carried mail, express, and twenty-eight persons, all members of the stafs of Pan-American Airways or the Boeing and Wright companies. The clipper, known as No. 18, is scheduled to begin the return flight tomorrow.

NAZIS LAY DOWN TWELVE RULES IN WAR ON DRINKING

Youth Told Not to Imbibe, Be Like Hitler.

BERLIN, March 3.—(AP)—The Nazi leadership today called on German youth to assume a new "national duty"—abstinence from alcohol and tobacco in emulation of Reichsfuehrer Hitler.

Baldur von Schirach.

Opening a campaign against intoxicants and smoking, Youth Leader Baldur von Schirach and other orators held up Hitler, who neither drinks nor smokes, as the example for all good Nazis.

Since beer was not mentioned, it was assumed that the campaign was directed only against hard liquor. Under the auspices of the national health department of the Nazi party, a congress is to meet in Frankfurt-on-Main on Sunday to consider the topic of "public health and harmful indulgences."

List Twelve Commandments.

Twelve commandments were listed by the Nazis to back a slogan urging that "wholesome life is a national duty." These objectives were set:

1. Abstinence of youth from alcohol and tobacco.
2. Abstinence of pregnant women and nursing mothers.
3. Alcoholic abstinence whenever carrying special responsibilities, such as driving an auto.
4. Control of alcohol and tobacco advertising by a German business council in close coöperation with Nazi leaders.
5. Prohibition of advertising that promotes alcohol or tobacco as beneficial to health or useful in preventing disease.

Taxes for Settlements.

6. Use of at least a third of alcohol consumption taxes for establishing settlements for hereditarily sound families comprised of numerous children.
7. Establishment of public restaurants which do not serve alcoholic drinks.
8. Increase in manufacture of non-alcoholic drinks at low prices.
9. Promotion of scientific experiments on non-alcoholic drinks.
10. A publicity campaign on the nature of alcohol, the misuse of tobacco, and their dangers to the people and the race.
11. Education of youths in wholesome conduct as a national duty.
12. Physical exercise for the entire nation.

LITTLE WOMAN CUTS SWATH IN HIS WEDDED LIFE

Edwin C. Nelson, a machinist living at 4546 North Kenton avenue, is 6 feet 7 inches tall. His wife, Dolores, 19, is 5 feet 2 inches tall. But, according to Nelson's attorney, Harry X. Cole, Dolores tried four times to end her husband's life, twice by turning on the gas and twice by wielding a butcher knife. Attorney Cole asked Judge Rudolph Desort to restrain Mrs. Nelson from collecting $10 a week recently awarded her pending the outcome of Nelson's divorce suit. Judge Desort continued the hearing to next Friday.

New Army Litter

Private First Class Frank Derstine of the army medical service school at Carlisle Barracks, Pa., demonstrates a new carrier for wounded soldiers.

(Picture on back page.)

A new army four wheel drive ambulance and a model of an ambulatory surgical field hospital for army use were displayed yesterday at the 132d Infantry armory. They were brought here from the army medical service school at Carlisle Barracks, Pa., to be shown to reserve medical officers attending a 6th army corps area medico-dental training school. The program is under the supervision of Col. Roy Heflebower, medical instructor for the 6th corps area.

Col. Roy Heflebower.

The new hospitals, one of which is to be completed this summer, travel in large trailer vans and trucks. Four trailers are completely equipped, air conditioned operating rooms; one is a sterilizing room, and a sixth carries instruments and supplies.

Staf Sergeant Howard B. Reed, in charge of the display, said that the new hospital will make it possible to give seriously wounded men surgical treatment close to the front line in war time. The equipment will be shown at Fort Sheridan today.

GOERING ON WAY TO ITALY; HE MAY SEE MUSSOLINI

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 3.—Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering and close advisers left Berlin today for Italy, where Goering is expected to stay several weeks. Officially, he departed for a holiday, but it is believed he will see Premier Mussolini, Italo Balbo, governor of Libya, and other Italian leaders following the expected fall of Madrid. It is argued that after the collapse of loyalist Spain, Mussolini will see himself in a position to make claims on France.

Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, former president of the Reichsbank, will soon go to Rumania on a trade mission. He will seek especially to get Rumanian oil, which Germany needs for her growing air force.

Nazi circles are joyful over the first Ukrainian sound film, now being produced in Chust, capital of Ruthenia [sub-Carpathian Russia]. The film is in the Ukrainian language and will be called "Ukraine on Fire." It is intended to fan Ukraine nationalism.

FREES SPIRIT HEALER.

Judge Oscar S. Caplan ruled yesterday that the city ordinance against fortune telling does not apply where religious belief is involved. He dismissed a charge against Emma Slapp-Kohr, accused of violating the ordinance. She lives at 7 East Walton place and is pastor of the First Church of Spirit Healing, Paulina and Monroe streets.

JOHN ICKES GETS COURT ORDER FOR $45,188 CITY PAY

Wins Award for 7 Year Enforced Layoff.

Mayor Kelly and the city council yesterday were ordered by Judge Francis B. Allegretti to pay $45,188 in salary and interest to John Ickes, chief clerk of special assessments in the board of local improvements. Ickes, who is a brother of Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior, sued for that amount, which he claimed due him for a seven year enforced layoff from his present position.

John Ickes.

Ickes relinquished the post on Aug. 1, 1926, under mysterious circumstances. The late John J. Sloan, then head of the board, filed charges against Ickes with the civil service commission, but they were never tried. Copies of them were kept secret.

Regains Job in 1933.

On June 30, 1933, after Harold Ickes was made secretary of the interior and became head of the Public Works administration, John Ickes regained the chief clerkship through mandamus proceedings. This established the legality of his claim to the job. He then demanded salary and interest for the seven years he was out, charging his removal was unlawful and that he was replaced by non-civil service employés.

In 1936 he sued the city for $51,462. The case went to trial the following year before Judge W. Joe Hill of Benton, sitting in the Superior court.

During the hearing Judge Hill received an anonymous letter suggesting it would be to his advantage to rule in favor of Ickes. While stating he didn't believe any one connected with the case had sent the letter, he nevertheless declared a mistrial and the suit was transferred to Judge Allegretti.

Claim Upheld by Judge.

In January of this year the city council finance committee wrote into the city budget an item of $20,000 which was to be used to settle the Ickes case. He refused to accept it, however.

Yesterday Judge Allegretti issued a writ of mandamus holding Ickes' removal from office in 1926 illegal and ordering the city to pay $31,125 back salary and $14,063 in interest. No witnesses were called, the court using the transcript of evidence given before Judge Hill. Ickes acted as his own lawyer.

Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes declined to say what course the city will take regarding the mandamus order. It was generally understood at the city hall, however, that nothing will be done until Mayor Kelly returns from his vacation in Florida.

If the city pays Ickes immediately without appealing Judge Allegretti's order, it was explained, $25,188 will have to be transferred from other funds. This is the difference between the amount which he claims and the $20,000 appropriation in the 1939 budget. The money transferred into the Ickes account probably will be taken up by salvage at the end of the year.

Leroy Ryncker, 31 years old, 2437 North Avers avenue, was in Judge Frank M. Padden's court on a charge of stealing some automobile tools. That disposes of him, but not of his attorneys. There were two of them, Sarah S. Sandor and Donald D. Rogers, who have offices at 10 South La Salle street. A court worker asked her why she was wearing a wedding ring. She announced that she and Mr. Rogers had been married for three months and were still carrying on their law business as partners.

Diphtheria Is on Rise; Urge Immunizing Small Children

Diphtheria is on the increase in Chicago, Dr. Robert A. Black, acting president of the board of health, warned yesterday. In the first two months of this year there were 163 cases in the city, 17 of them fatal, compared with 93 cases and 9 fatalities in the first two months of 1938. Dr. Black urged that children 9 years old and younger be immunized, since most cases occur in the first nine years.

THE RULES

1. This offer is open FREE to everyone everywhere, excepting employes of the Chicago Tribune and their families.
2. A new crossword puzzle containing the name and nickname of a famous American will be printed in the Chicago Daily Tribune each week day until 42 have appeared. You are invited to solve these puzzles and find the names and nicknames.
3. Puzzles are to be submitted only in complete sets. DO NOT send in each puzzle separately. Hold until you have the entire set of 42. Then send to: "Nicknames," Chicago Tribune, Post Office Box 1539, Chicago, Illinois. Entries must be in by midnight one week after Puzzle No. 42 has been printed. Send by First Class Mail, postage prepaid.
4. The Chicago Tribune will pay 430 cash prizes, totaling $5,000.00 for the most nearly correctly solved complete sets of puzzles submitted in accordance with these rules. (See Prize List.) You do not have to solve ALL puzzles correctly to win. Prizes will be paid to those whose entries rank highest. No person may submit more than one entry and no one shall be entitled to more than one prize.
5. Each entry will be checked for accuracy and rated accordingly. Your entry must be accompanied by a letter giving your name and address and completing, in 25 words or less, a statement telling which Nickname you like best and why. Such statements will be considered only if two or more persons submit equally correct solutions to the puzzles, in which event, further judgment will be based on the originality and sincerity of the thought expressed. Answers must be the original thought of the contestant. The judges shall have the right to disqualify any entry which, in their sole judgment, appears to be the thought of another person.
6. You need not buy the Chicago Tribune. You may copy or trace the puzzles. The Tribune may be examined free at its offices or Public Libraries. The judges will be appointed by the Chicago Tribune and their decisions will be final and binding. In case of ties, duplicate awards will be paid to tying contestants.

"Was that new furniture I saw going into your house?"
"Yes, we thought we had better fix up the place a little. I couldn't say no because it was Mary's idea that made the furniture possible. You see she had been after me for a long time to take a course of study in my line. I did, and was soon able to step up to a much better job, at a great deal more money."

Opportunity is usually as big as the man—and just that big. If you want a better job, better pay, better security for the future, make yourself more valuable through training and study in your line.

RUSH MEASURE FOR CITY MILK DICTATOR RULE

Seek Early Passage for Price Fixing Scheme.

The final draft of a proposed state law to establish a price fixing dictatorship over Chicago's milk supply was being shaped yesterday. Representatives of twenty-eight milk producing and agricultural organizations approved the measure Thursday at a meeting in the office of the Illinois Agricultural association. It is expected that it will be presented in the legislature within two weeks.

In general the proposed law is similar to the New York state milk regulation act that was declared unconstitutional Feb. 22. It has many points in common with the Florida law that has caused court fights and so far has been found impossible of enforcement.

Board Would Rule Milk.

Its most important provision would set up an Illinois milk board of seven members, six to be appointed by the governor. Three would represent and be drawn from the ranks of producers of milk, and three would be milk dealers. The seventh would be the state director of agriculture. Consumers would have no representation.

This board would be empowered to fix milk prices from the producers' farms to the city consumers' doorsteps. It could require milk dealers to pay a percentage of the money they spend for supplies into a fund for administrative expense.

Leaders of the group which approved the measure were frank in stating that the law they seek is a means to an end; that such a measure must be passed before the federal government can come in as the all-powerful ruler of the Chicago market. Federal control is the ultimate aim of the planners. It is believed it will come soon if the state law is passed.

Only Means to Dictatorship.

Only through a state-federal combination can price dictatorship become effective here. The federal organization could rule interstate shipments and the state board intrastate supplies. In combination they could set any prices they wished.

The Pure Milk association, composed of producers who send in the bulk of Chicago's milk supply from three states, for weeks has been campaigning to get Secretary of Agriculture Wallace to step in as boss. The P. M. A. officials, indicted for conspiracy to maintain a monopoly in the local milk market, hope that this surrender to the government will free them from prosecution.

So far Wallace has not been enthusiastic. He is reported to have asked local producers and distributors to draw up a definite agreement. Supposedly he also demanded a state law to implement the federal legislation permitting him to set prices, provided two-thirds of the producers vote for him to take over control.

Consumers Bear Toll.

New York's state law dovetailed with the national law. It went into effect, and the dual control took over, last September. Charges were made that it benefited only the dealers.

Consumers protested when they were compelled to pay 16¾ cents a quart for grade A milk, which sells in the free Chicago market at 12 cents. Like all other price fixing laws, this one boosted the toll on the consumers. Farmers also protested.

The protesting elements won. A New York state court held the state law unconstitutional. A federal judge ten days ago ruled that the national law was improperly and illegally put into effect. The whole milk market of the metropolis now is in confusion.

Earlier Regulation Fails.

Wallace's hesitance about Chicago is due, it is believed, to previous experience here. His AAA tried to regulate retail and wholesale milk prices in 1933. The experiment failed because there was no way to keep independent dealers from selling at cut prices. For a year, beginning in 1934, the secretary tried to regulate the price paid to producers, but the effort was so unsuccessful that the producers asked, and were allowed, to go back to making their own contracts. Wallace withdrew.

The proposed Illinois milk board would have extraordinary powers to investigate methods of storing, transporting, and distributing milk and to examine dealers' records. It also could set the limits of so-called milk sheds from which Illinois cities draw their supplies.

WPA Drops 2,000 Aliens from Rolls in Chicago

The WPA has dropped from its Chicago rolls about 2,000 workers who are not citizens, Harold K. Seltzer, Chicago WPA head, revealed yesterday. He said that approximately 500 more will be dropped by the time the investigation of all WPA workers, now being made, is completed. The last congressional appropriation for the WPA provided for the discharge of all aliens who have not obtained citizenship papers.

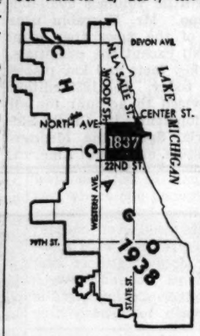
HAPPY BIRTHDAY TO YOU, CHICAGO! YOU'RE 102 TODAY

Today is Chicago's 102d birthday. On March 4, 1837, the village government of a board of trustees and a president was replaced by a city charter providing for the election of a mayor, a high constable, ten aldermen and four assessors.



Black area in map shows Chicago in 1837.

The city limits then were North avenue, Wood street, Cermak road and the lake. A tract, now part of Lincoln park, which was north of the river, was also specified in the charter. In those days it was a cemetery. The city had an area of ten square miles and a population of 4,170. There were 705 votes cast in the first mayoral election on May 2, 1837, when William B. Ogden, a Democrat, defeated John H. Kinzie, the first settler, who was a Whig.

Now Chicago's area is 211 square miles; its population approximately 3,677,700.

WOMAN BURNED IN FLAT BLAZE; PET DOG SAVED

When Mrs. Josephine Caldwell returned to her second floor apartment at 4451 Ainslie street yesterday, she smelled smoke. She opened a closet and flames burst out, burning her head and shoulders. Mrs. Caldwell, who is 34 years old, ran screaming to the street. Firemen were on their way when she recalled that she had left her dog inside. She would have run back into the flaming apartment, but Policeman John Krupp, who had just arrived, held her. Turning her over to neighbors he entered the apartment and rescued the dog. The fire caused $1,000 damage.

HIT-RUN DRIVER'S VICTIM DIES OF ACCIDENT INJURY

Tailor Is Killed by Auto on South Side.

August Wismar, 54 years old, 5515 South Kildare avenue, a shoemaker, died in County hospital yesterday of injuries incurred early in the day when he was struck by the automobile of a hit and run driver at 58th street and Pulaski road.

Geraldine Cavanaugh, 14 years old, of 2549 West 49th place, Evergreen Park, was fatally injured when she was struck by an automobile at Western avenue and 94th place. The driver of the car, Roger Brown, of 147th street and Francisco avenue, Harvey, took the child to the Little Company of Mary hospital, where she died. The Evergreen Park police held Brown for the inquest.

A man tentatively identified as John Cullinan, 50 years old, was found dead last night in Roosevelt road, near the Des Plaines river, in Proviso township. Police said he appeared to have been struck by a hit and run automobile. The victim is believed to have been employed at the Hines Veterans' hospital.

Tailor Killed by Car.

Emil Brown, 75 years old, 501 East 71st street, a tailor, was killed when he was struck by an automobile driven by Charles R. Lytle, 7645 Drexel avenue, in South Chicago avenue at 69th street.

Christoph Schilling, 85 years old, a retired farmer, was killed last night when he was struck by an automobile in 159th street, one mile west of Oak Park avenue, near Tinley Park. He lived at 2053 Grove street, Blue Island. The driver was Herman Uthe of Orland Park.

Mrs. Eva Johnston, 54 years old, 1927 South Trumbull avenue, died in St. Anthony's hospital of injuries incurred Jan. 20 when she was struck by an automobile driven by Robert Walters, 6320 South Knox avenue, in front of 3410 Ogden avenue.

Taxi Driver Exonerated.

Claire Lewis, 8042 Floral avenue, Niles Center, driver of a taxicab which killed two CCC youths walking along Harms road in Morton Grove Thursday night, was exonerated yesterday by a coroner's jury. The youths were Charles A. Raley of Detroit and Clifford Brodbury of Beason, Logan county.

A man killed by an automobile Thursday night at 47th street and Raymond avenue, Brookfield, was identified yesterday as John Bozik, 69 years old, 2946 East 96th street.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 146 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 118 were killed in Chicago, where 3,036 were injured in the same period.

Holdup Slayer Sentenced to 20 Years in Prison

Judge William J. Lindsay yesterday sentenced Jack Moro to serve twenty years in the penitentiary for the holdup murder of John T. Parker, a filling station owner, on Nov. 13, 1937. The sentence was fixed by a Criminal court jury on Feb. 21. Attorney Robert Romano, counsel for Moro, withdrew a new trial motion.

BILL TO REQUIRE SYPHILIS TEST OF MOTHERS PUSHED

A bill requiring physicians or other persons attending women during pregnancy to take blood samples of the patients for use in tests for syphilis will be introduced in the general assembly at Springfield Tuesday.

The bill, to be presented by Representative Edward P. Saltiel [R., Chicago], incorporates recommendations for the prevention of pre-natal syphilis made public yesterday by the health committee of the City Club of Chicago.

The report estimates that the proposed law would reduce the incidence of congenital syphilis in the state by at least 50 per cent. Of 115,000 babies born in Illinois yearly, it is estimated that about 3,000 are congentially syphilitic. Complete prevention of congenital syphilis would require compulsory examination of all mothers early in pregnancy and compulsory treatment of those found infected, the report says.

JOHN H. NORTRIDGE DIES AT 62.

Freeport, Ill., March 3.—[Special.]—John H. Nortridge, 62 years old, founder and head of the North Ridge Brush company of Freeport, died today.

LEGISLATORS PROMISE WOMEN THEY'LL SOON BE SERVING ON JURIES

Chicago and Cook county women were assured at a meeting in the Chicago Woman's club yesterday that a bill to authorize women on juries would become a law shortly. Similar meetings, all sponsored by the Illinois committee for women on juries, were held throughout the state during the day.

Senator Harold G. Ward, majority leader in the senate and sponsor of the bill there, said the bill may come up for a vote in the senate within a few days. Representative Robert M. Woodward [R.], Representative Benjamin S. Adamowski [D.], minority leader in the house, and Representative Edward P. Saltiel [R.], chairman of the house judiciary committee, also expressed confidence that the measure would be adopted.

Miss Matilda Fenberg, attorney, chairman of the campaign, urged the women to write letters to legislators asking for a favorable vote.

THE LETTER AND THE SPIRIT

By CALEB

MEETING a friend of mine who had severed an old connection, some months before, to enter the employ of a long-established business house, I naturally asked him for particulars about the new work and new associations.

"Never," he assured me enthusiastically, "have I had a more enlightening experience. Somehow, I expected to find myself thrust into a very formalized aggregation of people. You know what I mean: an establishment running mainly on the momentum of its impressive past. Bigness, reputation—a great, complicated machine of a place, with everything about it cut-and-dried and standardized. An institution with more red tape than red blood, so to speak, in its operations.

"But instead of that type of background and procedure—coldly corporate, impersonal routine—I have been immersed in one of the warmest-mannered, radiantly cheerful and human organizations you could possibly imagine! Those old, overworked words we used to hear preached in sales manuals, pep-talks and editorials: cooperation, service, consideration, and the like. Why, man, they're actually practised in my company! And all the proof I need is personal experience. The acid test of any business, when you sift the facts, is how its management and personnel receive the strange employe. Nothing speaks more loudly for or against a firm than its newcomer's first day on his new job."

"Then there is such a thing as a Spirit of Service—definitely implanted in, and expressed by, a whole business?" I suggested.

"Most emphatically," he replied. "And not a static spirit, either—but one that actively grows and acquires cumulative force, increasing influence. We have had old, old customers repeatedly tell us they recognize this phenomenon; know it to be real—and say it becomes more discernible as the days pass.

"It's very easy," he concluded, "to lay down the policy law to one's personnel, and outline the letter of successful business operations. Plenty of 'efficient managements' can do that—and do do it. But the spirit of considering, serving, cooperating with superiors, associates and customers—that's something else again! We've got it in our organization . . . and it's worth more than the company's capitalization!"

SATURDAY NEWS OF NEW BOOKS

Spring Gets Off to an Early Start in Book Realm

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

This week has seen the early blossoming of spring fiction. It has brought to the reviewer's desk three important novels—one about present day life in war torn China and in Japan, another dealing with existence in a small Vermont town, and a third telling the story of our country from 1754 to the early part of the 19th century. A fourth book, not a novel, tells of modern life in Germany.

New Pearl Buck Novel

"The Patriot," by Pearl Buck. [John Day, $2.50.] Published Thursday. March choice of the Book of the Month club.

Pearl Buck convinces the reader again in this new story about China, her first novel dealing with the orient in several years, that she is one of the greatest living American authors. She has the gift of understanding both the Chinese and the Japanese temperament so that she makes them completely real and human.

Pearl Buck.

I-wan, son of Wu, the banker, is first of all a human being and second a Chinese. And Tama, the lovely Japanese he marries, is a true oriental, but her thoughts and emotions are the same as those of any young woman in any country. Even her father, old Mr. Muraki, a dictator in his home, controling the destinies of his children according to the Japanese tradition, is also just a kindly old man.

The story concerns the young I-wan, who is sent to Japan to escape a decree of death for activities with a group of young rebels. In Nagasaki he falls in love with his host's daughter, and, due to fortunate circumstances, Tama is wed to him instead of to a fat, middle aged war lord, as first intended by her father.

The little home in which they are so happy and into which two children have been born is broken up, however, when Japan starts its war on China. I-wan sees his favorite brother-in-law made a beast by the army, while Tama's second brother commits suicide rather than take part in killing. He himself finally decides to return to his father.

The last scenes of the book are laid in China, where Chiang Kai-shek has just gained the support of the very rebels he had fought when I-wan had joined them ten years before. The desperate struggle with Japan has united all factions. I-wan fights for his country, hoping, in the end, when peace shall come, to have his wife and children with him.

The whole story is as restrained and cool as a precious piece of carved jade, as beautiful and appealing as the cherry blossoms mirrored in the pool of a Japanese garden.

Life in Nazi Germany

"Reaching for the Stars," by Nora Waln. [Little-Brown, $3.] Published Wednesday.

Nora Waln, like Pearl Buck, spent many years in China and absorbed the philosophy of the orient. She is a Quaker, and hence a love of peace is instilled in her very being. When the author of "The House of Exile" went with her musician husband to spend four years in Nazi Germany she was bound to have many disheartening experiences. She saw liberty destroyed, freedom of the press and even of speech gone. In "Reaching for the Stars" she tells in a quiet, simple way of the life she lived, the Germans she came to know, and of their ideology.

Because of the popularity of the German translation of her book about China she was able to meet all types of people—workers, farmers, tradesmen, aristocrats, musicians, professors, owners of vast estates, and Nazi officials. She describes them faithfully, as she does present day life in Czecho-Slovakia and in Austria.

Germany, she says, is living in "the twilight of the gods." But she believes that in the end the German people will restore their country.

New England Setting

"Seasoned Timber," by Dorothy Canfield. [Harcourt-Brace, $2.50.] Published Thursday.

Clifford, a little Vermont town not unlike Dorset, where the author lives, is the setting of Dorothy Canfield's new novel. It is the delicate story of a man for whom romance dawned too late and the sturdy tale of a group of Vermonters who can't be bought even when the price is raised to a million dollars.

Timothy Hulme is the head of the academy about which the life of the town revolves. He is a gentle, mild, philosophical, sensitive person, completely devoted to the school and its welfare. He falls in love with a young teacher in the grade school, but stands aside when his young nephew, Canby Hunter, enters the scene. He fights, however, when a wealthy trustee dies and leaves a million dollars to the academy provided a new ruling is passed to exclude all Jewish students, to limit the enrollment, and to raise the tuition.

Old Mr. Dewey, another trustee and a believer in democracy and the traditions of freedom for which the town has always stood, joins Timothy in his campaign to elect a new member of the board who will vote their way. The whole town is upset and has some of the liveliest weeks of its life before the die is finally cast.

"Seasoned Timber" is an excellent picture of a New England village. It is drawn with salty humor, dry wit, kindly understanding, and sentiment.

Carl Crow Sheds Light on a Hero Who Opened Up the Door of Japan

"He Opened the Door of Japan," by Carl Crow. [Harpers, $3.]

The Japanese are so prominently with us these days it is easy to forget that less than ninety years ago the islands of Japan were taboo to explorers and merchants of the western world.

Not discovered by westerners until Portuguese sailors, blown off their course, sighted the islands in 1542, the empire was jealously guarded by the Japanese for 300 years. The Dutch for more than 200 years had a trade monopoly with the Japanese, but were virtually prisoners on their ships in the few ports which they were permitted to enter. Admiral Perry is generally credited with opening Japan to American trade, and indeed obtained the first trade treaty.

When the Japanese signed the document with Perry in 1853, one of the first things they noticed was that the admiral had several gunboats in the harbor. The Japanese hoped the whole thing would be forgotten, but Townsend Harris, a middle aged New Yorker who had spent most of his life in a china shop, spoiled all that by getting himself appointed consul general to Japan in 1856.

Carl Crow's book tells the story of the extraordinary personal hardships Harris bore in winning the friendship of the worried Japanese. Harris is a hero, nearly a god, in Japan. There are public monuments to him there. In the United States he is less well known than next year's movie star. Crow's book should change all that. Harris' story is truly one of the most romantic and adventurous in the world's history of commercial diplomacy. F. S.

Advice for Business

"Public Relations for Business," by Milton Wright. [Whittlesey House, $3.]

Milton Wright's book is packed with useful advice for the business executive. His thesis is that if a business is to have successful public relations it should so conduct itself that a completely honest statement of its operations and functions would meet with public approval. A business adhering to that formula must find a basic solution of its public relations problem, he contends. L. W.

The Puritans Made Real

"Stately Timber," by Rupert Hughes. [Scribners, $2.75.]

Puritans, to Rupert Hughes, were not the marble statuary usually found in school book, histories and legend. They were flesh and blood, burning with the same desires as mankind today, and, like mankind today, haunted by bigots and tyrants. But, above all, they were human.

Seaborn Fleet was one of them, a lonely pagan figure, a rebel against prudery, cruelty, oppression, chicanery, and tyrants, an ancestor of men who later fought for liberty in the American revolution. Into 638 pages Hughes has packed a fascinating, picaresque historical novel pulsating with life in the 1650s at Boston, Mass.

Hughes carries the story through many of the other New England colonies, to Barbados, Virginia, and the England of King Charles II. J. H. T.

Renaissance Panorama

"Tuscan Spring," by James Cleugh. [Reynal & Hitchcock, $2.50.]

Alessandro dei Filipepi, tanner's son, was a spearhead of the Italian renaissance despite his vague, wistful demeanor. To posterity, however, he is known by his nickname, Botticelli or Little Barrel, given him in tribute to his brother's great paunch.

This is a novel about that tall, lumbering Botticelli, a man of loneliness and of dreams, a man who painted again and again the dead face of his only love. He befuddled contemporary painters by his soft, quiet colors and the mystic tinge to all he painted, yet his closest friends were such vivid contrasts as Lorenzo de Medici [the Magnificent] and Leonardo da Vinci, strange, brilliant, and aloof.

The book more properly should be called a panorama of the golden era of Florence, for as a novel it is thin and seemingly plotless. Yet as a picture of an age it is alive, colorful, fresh. Through its pages roam such opposites as Michelangelo, Machiavelli, lusty Fra Lippo Lippi and ardent young Raphael, the fire breathing prophet, Savonarola; lecherous cardinals and beautiful courtesans; the motley group which thronged the gay, chaotic streets of Florence at the height of its glory. M. W.

Another Long One

"The Tree of Liberty," by Elizabeth Page. [Farrar & Rinehart, $3.] Published Monday. March choice of the Literary Guild.

Lovers of "Anthony Adverse" and "Gone with the Wind" will flock to read this new elephantine novel of more than 900 pages and 500,000 words. It's about the size of five ordinary books, and its author spent five years in writing it.

Elizabeth Page, in telling the story of one family and its ramifications, tells the story of this country from 1754 to 1806. Matt Howard, the hero, represents the pioneer, the toiler, the self-made man, while his wife, Jane, of Tidewater aristocratic lineage, depicts the folk of gentle breeding. The reader will be more interested, however, in the real people in this lengthy drama of a republic—in Thomas Jefferson, Alexander Hamilton, Washington, Lafayette, Madison, Gallatin, and many others. And in the descriptions of Williamsburg and the customs and costumes of the time.

The plot is never as exciting as that of "Gone with the Wind" or "Anthony Adverse," but it is interesting and believable. And the meticulous care with which Miss Page depicts the political movements and the revolutionary war, as well as the most minute detail of dress, dialect, and manners, is nothing short of marvelous.

Exile Recounts Story of Nazis' Rise to Power

BY CARL WIEGMAN.

"Inside Germany," by Albert C. Grzesinski, translated by Alexander S. Lipschitz. [Dutton, $3.50.]

"Prewar German policy closely mirrored the mentality of the officers' mess. Today it mirrors the mentality of the sergeants' mess."

This quotation, attributed to Sir Harold Nicolson, British M. P., summarizes one of the principal points made by Albert C. Grzesinski in "Inside Germany," a useful book for all students of Germany's problems.

Mr. Grzesinski, the son of "Aryan" working class parents, became a leader in the trade union movement and the Social Democratic party, and after the war helped to organize the republic. He rose to become Prussian minister of the interior and president of the Berlin police. While holding the latter office he once signed a warrant for the arrest and deportation of Adolf Hitler. The warant was never served because of the objections of President von Hindenburg.

Now Mr. Grzesinski is an exile in America. He writes the story of the German republic's downfall with a restraint that is somewhat astonishing, considering his experiences. But he makes it terribly plain that we can't dismiss Nazi Germany's behavior as a temporary aberration of a great people misled by a fanatic.

"It is necessary," he says, "to realize the collective responsibility and the collective guilt of the German people; that collective guilt which can perhaps best be explained by the lack of political instinct and political common sense of the Germans."

Explanation for Hitler

"Why Hitler Came Into Power," by Theodore Abel. [Prentice-Hall, $2.75.]

"Why Hitler Came Into Power" is an extraordinary piece of research by an associate professor of sociology at Columbia university. Unsatisfied by existing explanations for the spectacular rise of the Nazi movement, Prof. Abel went to the Nazis themselves for an answer. In the summer of 1933 he announced a contest, with 400 marks as prizes, for the best personal life history of an adherent of the Hitler movement.

Loyal Hitlerites turned in 683 essays, of which Prof. Abel uses 600. He classifies the writers according to ages, occupations, and class affiliations, and makes an effort to analyze what they were trying to say. The book closes with six selected life histories, written by a worker, an anti-Semite, a soldier, a middle class youth, a bank clerk, and a farmer.

On the basis of his findings Prof. Abel rejects the Marxists' assertion that the Hitler movement was a capitalistic plot. He concludes that the Nazis were successful largely because their flexible party program appealed to a large number of popular views at a time of general discontent.

A Gloomy Outlook

"When There Is No Peace," by Hamilton Fish Armstrong. [Macmillan, $1.75.]

"When There Is No Peace" gets its title from some words of the gloomy prophet Jeremiah, and it's a gloomy book. Mr. Armstrong, editor of the magazine Foreign Affairs, recounts the day by day story of the confusing events that reached a crisis at Munich. Then he tells about some less publicized events, what happened to Czecho-Slovakia after Munich.

Mr. Armstrong raises some interesting questions. "How," he asks, "will what was done at Munich affect the sanctity of international contracts? What consequences will the recent application of the principle of self-determination have for nations like England and France, which can establish no possible ethnic claim to ownership over their far flung possessions?"

He concludes that the situation prevailing in Europe does not seem to be so much peace as an armistice.

Hitler Utterances

"Lunacy Becomes Us," by Adolf Hitler and his associates, edited by Clara Leiser. [Liveright, $1.25.]

"Lunacy Becomes Us" is a collection of excerpts from the speeches and writings of Adolf Hitler and his henchmen. The editor, Clara Leiser, takes responsibility for the captions placed over each of the quotations. As a study of the absurdities and inconsistencies of Nazi propaganda, the book is a good job.

Current Affairs Atlas

"An Atlas of Current Affairs," by J. F. Horrabin. [Knopf, $1.50.]

This is the fifth edition of one of the handiest little volumes available at a bookshop. Mr. Horrabin uses the technic of the newspaper map, eliminating all except the essentials, to spotlight key facts and key places in the world today. The 1939 edition has been revised to account for all recent developments in Czecho-Slovakia, Austria, Spain, the Mediterranean, Palestine, and South America.

BOY IS CHICAGO'S 8TH HEMOPHILIA VICTIM IN 5 YEARS

25 in City Known to Have Bleeding Disease.

BY DORIS LOCKERMAN.

With the death yesterday of Robert Cmiel, 10 years old, in Illinois Research hospital, hemophilia claimed its eighth victim in Chicago during the last five years.

Robert Cmiel.

Two of these victims were the only sons of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Cmiel, 5901 Gunnison street. The elder boy, Edward Jr., died 3 years ago, when he was 13. Since birth both boys had suffered from the periodic hemorrhages which characterize the disease. Robert had been confined to bed in his home since last September and was taken to the hospital for the third time last Sunday. Seven blood transfusions administered by Dr. Carroll Birch, attending physician, proved unavailing.

25 Sufferers in Chicago.

Twenty-five persons in Chicago are known to be suffering from this painful and baffling disease, for which there are many treatments, but no cure. All live cautiously, guarding their bodies from bumps and bruises which might cause intermuscular bleeding, shunning tooth extractions, fearful even of tiny scratches and bruises.

Mothers, forewarned by physicians, jealously protect their hemophiliac children the first five years of life, the period when 57 per cent of all bleeders die. Later they cannot attend school and never are permitted to play roughly with other children. Only 11 per cent grow to maturity, research proves.

Hemophilia is the most hereditary of all diseases. Medical authorities agree that nature has provided that it will go on forever, since it does not affect women, but is transmitted by them directly to their sons and indirectly, through their daughters, to their grandsons.

Disease Not Always Traceable.

"It is not always traceable," said Dr. Birch. "There are frequent sporadic cases where it crops up without a history. Mrs. Cmiel, who is of Polish descent, has no memory of any hemophilia in her family. She has a daughter, Lorraine, 14 years old.

"When she discovered that her boys were bleeders, she watched them constantly. They never were out of her sight. Yet these spontaneous hemorrhages would begin."

Frequently, according to Dr. Birch, scientists report a new treatment for the disease which is hailed as a cure. None, thus far, has been successful.

Illinois Research hospital, which has treated 111 cases in ten years, with but three deaths attributable to hemophilia, finds that blood transfusions stem the bleeding in some cases.

Ovarian secretion frequently is injected and the new vitamin K, extracted from soy beans, is given. Serum from horses sometimes is resorted to and injections of thyroid extract are administered.

WOMAN SLAYER OF STUDENT AT U. OF I. INDICTED

Urbana, Ill., March 3.—[Special.]—Mrs. Margaret Strothers, colored proprietress of a resort where a reveling University of Illinois student was fatally shot two weeks ago, was indicted on a charge of murder today.

The indictment was returned before Circuit Judge John H. Armstrong by a Champaign county grand jury which is investigating vice and political corruption in this university town. The inquiry is expected to continue for another month.

Mrs. Strothers, 52 years old, is charged with firing the shot which resulted in the death of William Spurrier, 20 years old, of Toledo, O. The shooting occurred Feb. 16 when Spurrier and five other students appeared after midnight at the Pullman hotel, which Mrs. Strothers operated.

The woman is expected to be arraigned some time next week. She has been held in the county jail since her arrest.

ALIENIST FINDS WOOD SANE WHEN HE SLEW FRIEND

Morris, Ill., March 3.—[Special.]—Elvin Wood was sane and legally responsible for his actions when he killed his best friend in what he planned as a kidnap plot. Dr. Marvin Sukov, Chicago alienist, testified to that effect today before Circuit Judge Frank H. Hayes.

Judge Hayes is hearing testimony to help him decide on the sentence he will impose on Ward's plea of guilty to murdering Abner Nelson, wealthy bachelor farmer. Wood said he killed his friend with the expectation of obtaining ransom from relatives who would believe he had been kidnaped.

Attorneys for Wood, who, like the alienist, were appointed by the court, obtained a continuance of the hearing until Monday. At that time, they indicated, they will present testimony to show the economic stress under which Wood labored. The judge is expected to impose sentence some time Monday.

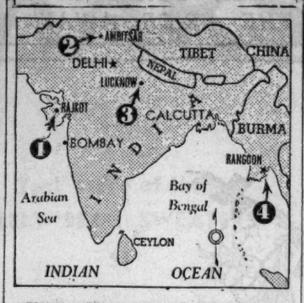
Trouble in India



While Mohandas Gandhi started a new fast in Rajkot (1) yesterday, new Hindu-Moslem riots in Amritsar (2), Lucknow (3), and Rangoon (4) took nearly twenty lives and forced the calling out of troops to quell the rioters.

RAJKOT, India, March 3.—(AP)—Mohandas K. Gandhi began his fifth hunger strike today, determined to continue "unto death" unless the native ruler of Rajkot state meets his demands for administrative reforms.

Mohandas K. Gandhi.

Gandhi, who is 69 years old, demanded that the ruler, Thakore Saheb Shri Dharmendrasinhji, give the people of the tiny western India state "a voice in the government." The ruler refused. Rajkot is about 800 miles northwest of Bombay.

While Gandhi prayed for the success of his mission, new disturbances in India caused two deaths. Troops were sent to Lucknow, 700 miles from Rajkot, after Hindus and Moslems had clashed there. Troops also were ordered to stand by at Amritsar, where one person was killed and sixteen injured yesterday. Fifteen persons have been killed and 200 injured in a fresh wave of Hindu-Moslem rioting, which started yesterday in Rangoon, Burma. Police and military patrols clashed several times with crowds of demonstrators.

GETS 1-20 YEARS ON GUILTY PLEA TO EXTORTION

Russell O. Davis, 28 years old, was sentenced yesterday to one to twenty years in the penitentiary by Judge William J. Lindsay in the Criminal court after he pleaded guilty to a charge of extortion by threats. Judge Lindsay, in a subsequent bench trial, found Davis not guilty on a charge of robbery.

Russell O. Davis.

Davis admitted in court that he sent a letter to Mrs. Ruth Friedlund Nilsson, 5900 Sheridan road, on Jan. 13, demanding $2,134. The letter threatened that acid would be thrown on Mrs. Nilsson and her two children by a former marriage, Betty, 13, and John Friedlund, 10, if the money was not paid.

Davis also had been accused of robbing Joseph Herda, night manager of the Belmont Plaza hotel, 505 Belmont avenue, of $20 on Jan. 1, but was able to prove an alibi.

OAK PARK BOARD MUST DRAW LOTS IN TRUSTEE MIXUP

Oak Park's six trustees must draw lots to see which three of them will continue in office for two more years and which three must run in a special election on April 4 to keep their places.

An order to that effect was issued yesterday by Judge Harry M. Fisher in the Circuit court in connection with a mandamus action filed by Milo V. Martin, an Oak Park resident. The suit was based on a 1935 law staggering the terms of trustees. No provision was made for long or short terms when the six trustees were elected two years ago.

The trustees are Ray Clark, Robert F. Glaesel, J. F. Hepler, Noel Maxson, Willis C. Wilcox, and Mrs. Dorothy C. Kerr. It is expected that the lot drawing will be held after the return of Mrs. Kerr from Florida.

OUSTED WELFARE OFFICIAL JAILED AT CROWN POINT

Joseph Marsh, former chief accountant for the Lake county [Indiana], welfare office, was locked up in the county jail at Crown Point yesterday on charges of larceny, embezzlement, and forgery. Authorities said he confessed forging the names of county officials to fake claims and collecting a total of $500. The welfare office supervises county aid to dependent children and the county home. March, who is 37 years old, was discharged from the welfare office last January. He lives at 5016 Magoun avenue, East Chicago.

RABBIT TESTS SHOW SILICOSIS IS PREVENTABLE

Toronto Doctors Report on Long Experiment.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ont., March 3.—Silicosis, dread disease of miners, can be prevented in animals through the inhalation of metallic aluminum powder, three Toronto men report.

Results of the studies of these men—J. J. Denny, metallurgical engineer of the McIntyre Porcupine mine at Schumacher, Ont.; Dr. W. D. Robson, chief surgeon of the mine, and Dr. Dudley A. Irwin, associate professor in the department of medical research of the University of Toronto—are contained in the March issue of the Canadian Medical Association journal, which will be released tomorrow.

Man May Be Helped.

The findings are held to point the way to prevention of what is regarded as one of the chief industrial diseases.

[Silicosis has been found to be an industrial menace in Illinois, New York, New Jersey, West Virginia, Ohio, and Missouri. According to Secretary of Labor Perkins, its threat constantly hangs over mine, foundry, quarry, and glass workers.]

The Toronto experimenters reported they produced silicosis in rabbits by exposing them to silicon dust for five months.

They found that none of the animals whose lungs on analysis contained 1 per cent or more of metallic aluminum showed any evidence of silicosis up to periods of seventeen and a half months. In contrast, they reported finding well developed silicosis within seven months in rabbits which breathed the particles without the aluminum dust.

Forms Protective Coating.

Their experiments, they reported, led to the conclusion that the aluminum reduced the damaging effect of the silicon by providing the particles with an insoluble, impermeable coating.

"To prevent silicosis, aluminum dust may be inhaled daily independently of the silicosis dust," states the report in the medical journal.

"The aluminum dust must be sufficiently concentrated in the inhaled dust to provide a minimum concentration in the lugs of 1 per cent at all times.

"The inhalation of aluminum dust in large quantities over long periods showed no effect on general health of the animals and no evidence of toxicity or damage to tissues."

Tiny Particles Used.

To be effective, the scientists said, the aluminum dust should be grease free and of a size below five microns. A micron is a millionth of a meter.

The experimenters said they had no evidence to indicate how long the aluminum coating would make the silicon inactive in the lungs.

SET $17,500 BAIL FOR MAN INDICTED WITH EX-JUDGE

New York, March 3.—[Special.]—Declaring that "this charge goes to the fundamentals of justice," Federal Judge John C. Knox today set bail at $17,500 for George M. Spector, insurance man indicted yesterday for conspiracy with Federal Judge Martin T. Manton, who resigned when under fire.

George M. Spector.

Spector, a heavy set man, 40 years old, pleaded not guilty to charges of conspiracy to obstruct justice, conspiracy to violate the bribery statute, and conspiracy to deprive the government of the services of a judicial officer.

The indictment returned by the federal grand jury yesterday charges that Manton and Spector, with other persons not known, conspired to bribe Judge Manton.

Manton today underwent an operation at St. Vincent's hospital. It was announced that he withstood it well.

Dog Warns of Gas Fumes Too Late to Save Owner

Merrick, N. Y., March 3.—[Special.]—Loya Lane, 13 years old, heard the family dog barking frantically as she neared her home on her way from school today. When she reached the house she found the door locked and smelled gas fumes coming from the place. She crawled through a window and found her father, Ralph Lane, 55 years old, unconscious on the floor. Police were unable to revive him.

U. S. INDICTS 9 PERSONS IN FAKE PASSPORT RING

Couple Held in Russia Among Defendants.

New York, March 3.—(AP)—The bizarre story of persons masquerading under fictitious names across an international stage was climaxed today by a federal indictment naming nine persons in an alleged fake passport ring.

Among the defendants were the missing Adolph A. Rubens, or "Donald L. Robinson," self-styled New York writer, and his wife, Ruth Marie Rubens, who federal agents said entered Russia in 1937 on a fraudulent passport.

Envoy Sees Mrs. Rubens.

Although an American envoy later talked to Mrs. Rubens in a Moscow prison, where she was held on suspicion of spying, federal investigators said they did not know whether the couple still was alive.

Others named were Aaron Scharfin, formerly an employé of the Egyptian consulate in New York; Ossip Garber, a 5th avenue photographer; Edward Blatt, New York attorney, and four identified only as John Blank, Ivan "Doe," Dimitri "Doe," and Alexis "Doe."

The indictment charged the group with conspiring to violate the federal passport act and alleged they carried on their activities in New York, Chicago, Merrill, Wis., and in Canada, Sweden, Switzerland, Yugoslavia, Austria, Germany, Czecho-Slovakia, and Russia.

Birth Certificates of Dead.

It charged the group obtained from the New York City health department birth certificates of deceased persons and used them in obtaining passport applications, and aided others in getting false visas in foreign countries.

Original investigation of the "Robinson" passport led first to the office of Albert Marinelli, city clerk where it was certified. Marinelli resigned after District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey accused him of associating with criminals.

SHOT IN TAVERN BY POLICEMAN; DIES OF WOUNDS

John McDonald, 9157 Loomis street, who was shot by Policeman John P. Welch during a quarrel in a tavern at 1129 East 43d street Thursday morning, died of his wounds in the Chicago hospital last night. He was 43 years old. Welch, who was suspended after the shooting, was held in bond yesterday by Judge Matthew D. Hartigan in the Felony court. His case was continued to April 12. Before he died, McDonald told police that Welch mistakenly construed a remark he had made and that this led to the quarrel and the shooting. Welch is 44 years old and lives at 4700 Drexel boulevard. He will be directed to attend the inquest today.

Policeman John P. Welch.

DISMISSES SUIT TO HALT SKARDA ACT PAYMENTS

Judge John J. Lupe of the Superior court yesterday dismissed a suit brought by Attorney Edwin E. Cowen seeking to restrain County Treasurer John Toman from disbursing fees and agents' commissions in tax receiverships under the Skarda act. Judge Lupe sustained the motion of Assistant State's Attorney Jacob Schamberg for dismissal, ruling that he had no jurisdiction in the case.

The county treasurer, under the Skarda act, is empowered to act as receiver of tax delinquent properties. Attorney Cowen charged that the authority of the treasurer to appoint agents and managers was dropped from the act when it was amended by the legislature on July 8, 1933.

Health Dangers in March

Most people consider March the most dangerous month of the year, because the change of seasons imposes extra hardship on a great many people.

Do not be misled by occasional sunny days. Colds are prevalent, and thousands still suffer from the after-effects of colds. Neglect of health precautions now may lead to more serious conditions.

Start building up your system by taking Father John's Medicine. Its wholesome, nourishing ingredients, rich in vitamins, help increase strength and vigor. It has been used for 84 years for colds and to aid in developing strong, sturdy bodies.

THIS WAY TO RECOVERY.

Senator Harrison has issued a statement calling for a drastic downward revision of government expenditures. The senator speaks with all the authority that he commands as chairman of the senate's finance committee and as a leader of the conservative wing of the Democratic party. He asks for a conference of all kinds of Democrats to work out his program in the hope of avoiding "economic confusion and chaos."

Mr. Harrison's program is as admirable as it is simple. Reduce appropriations, particularly those of the emergency establishments, by 10 per cent, he says. Taxes which are a deterrent to investment should be repealed or reduced. The debt limit should be left at 45 billions, where it is today, rather than increased to 50 billions, as Mr. Morgenthau desires.

The statement might better be called a manifesto from the conservative wing of the Democratic party. It is a declaration of principles upon which, as a good party man, Mr. Harrison believes that the Democrats can be reunited. By implication, Mr. Harrison has issued an ultimatum. He has served notice on the totalitarian, wastrel wing of the party that it must yield on the specified points or take the consequences. Mr. Harrison and his colleagues are party men but they are also patriots and they will not lead their country into destruction for the sake of party harmony.

This is not the first occasion upon which Mr. Harrison has shown the quality of his courage but it can safely be said that at no time in his career has he done more to earn the gratitude of his country. He sees with great clarity the destruction of both liberty and national wealth which the continuance of present policies will necessitate. He is convinced, as any one who knows the history of depressions in this country must be, of the futility of seeking recovery through excessive spending. We have had many depressions, but none of them has been as prolonged as this one; from none of them has the recovery been so halting. This is the only depression which we have attempted to cure by expenditures on a monumental scale, and after six years of the treatment the patient is still flat on his back.

Mr. Harrison and those in congress who share his independence of mind recognize that impatience is growing throughout the country. The people are demanding a change and the demand is wholly reasonable. If the doctor won't change his treatment, there will be a new doctor.

Recovery will come rapidly if the energy and resourcefulness of the nation are released. The government must encourage business men and investors to take risks instead of continuing to discourage initiative with excessive regulation, crushing taxation, and the threat of even higher taxation in the future. Mr. Harrison knows what is holding the country back. He offers the only remedy.

WEAKENING THE FEDERAL BENCH.

The normal ambition of a lawyer is to head a firm, and on his way to be a member of a firm. It is normal also for the head of a firm to aspire to be a judge. It has been said: "Those who can, do; those who can't, teach." Professors of law therefore are the least capable lawyers, and by his effort to buy up the law schools by appointing professors to the federal judiciary Mr. Roosevelt is lowering the level of judicial ability. The judiciary should be drawn from practitioners who have had the vitality essential to success in practice and the knowledge and experience of practical affairs. It should not be filled up with legal metaphysicians and theorists with little respect for the practical workings of law in the controversies between citizens whose rights and interests are at stake.

AMBULANCES AND RED LIGHTS.

Sixteen children, just dismissed from school, were more or less seriously injured a week or so ago by an ambulance which, according to the police report, was proceeding against the trafic signal at a Washington boulevard intersection.

The driver seems to have thought that the emergency was so great that he was justified in violating trafic regulations. He counted upon his siren to clear the road for him, but another car got in his way. He struck it a glancing blow and thereupon lost control of the ambulance, which jumped the curb and struck the children.

There are few emergencies which justify running the lights. A police squad pursuing dangerous criminals fleeing in an automobile cannot be expected to wait for the lights to change, though even in such cases the police should not disregard the risk of injuring innocent citizens. The fire department responding to an alarm may also be justified in running the lights. Perhaps a few times in the course of a year the condition of a patient in an ambulance may be so desperate as a result of hemorrhage or something equally serious that a few minutes more or less may make the difference between life and death.

But ordinarily the little time that may be lost in obeying trafic laws will do no irreparable injury to the patient. On the other hand, the screaming of the siren and the excitement of an accident, if one occurs, may do him harm. Except in very great and very obvious emergencies squad cars, fire apparatus, and ambulances should observe the normal trafic laws.

PIUS XII.

The promptness with which the college of cardinals made its selection of the successor of Pius XI. is not only a tribute to the prestige and distinguished service of Cardinal Pacelli but also significant of a harmony in the high counsels of the Catholic church and firm continuity of policy of utmost importance to its peace and welfare. It may be assumed that the policies of Pius XI. will be sustained and pursued by Pius XII. who, as chief adviser of the late pope, stood closest to him and had an outstanding part in the effectuation of his purposes.

It is notable likewise that this momentous choice has fallen upon one who has been mainly concerned with the difficult and delicate international relations of the church in this troubled time and in despite of, perhaps because of, the objections of powerful governments with which the church has had acutely unsatisfactory, if not dangerous, differences.

It must be a source of satisfaction and confidence to Catholics throughout the world, and indeed to those of other faiths, that the choice of the college of cardinals was so promptly and unhesitatingly given to Cardinal Pacelli, whose character, experience, and special gifts seem to have best fitted him to bear the heavy responsibilities of his great office.

TELL IT TO SERGEANT YORK.

Senator Marvel M. Logan of Kentucky has popped to the front in Washington, armed at all points, again to make the world safe for democracy by defending every inch of French territory in Tunisia and every native who now salutes the British raj. Mr. Logan says he would furnish England and France with everything they need to whip the dictators and equip them to take the job off our hands. Mr. Logan agrees with Mr. Roosevelt that America's first line of defense, whether we all know it or not, is in France and Great Britain.

Mr. Logan's home state and its neighbor, Tennessee, furnished some notable fighters in the world war after the recruiting officers had been able to explain to the mountaineers, including Sergt. York, that the big fight in foreign lands of which the people knew nothing was a good fight and that the side of providence was clearly revealed. The mountain people didn't know where the fight was and when they first heard they had to go to it they hid away in the coves, not because they were scared but because they didn't understand why they should be dragged away from their homes and set to fighting people with whom they had no quarrel.

Fighting to them had always been a thing of intimate personal interest, and although their hands were familiar with rifles it was contrary to their principles to kill people they didn't know when they had nothing to gain by doing so, had not been injured, and weren't mad. Being persuaded that, however unreasonable it might seem to them, they nevertheless had a stake in this war they submitted, and Sergt. York proved how good they could be in action.

Nevertheless, they didn't understand it, and although at the time they were regarded as very simple minded people the years have increased their reputation for sanity and many millions of Americans now join them in wondering what it was all about.

Senator Logan's mountaineer constituents may again ask him what is all the shootin' fur. He might again tell them that their mountain democracy is seriously endangered by the question of whether Tunisian Arabs shall live under the French or the Italian flag. He might explain to them that a certain number of Asiatics are governed by French officials, that some Chinese are valuable to the British empire, that South Africa has black men who used to belong to Germany and are now incorporated in the Union of South Africa, that Italy has not acquired as many natives of Africa as it thinks its dignity needs, that Alvin York fought so well he took Germany's colonies away from it, and that therefore another peril confronts the American democracy. The people must be prepared to go back to France, to North Africa, to Hongkong, where the free people of Kentucky are in danger.

The mountaineers were persuaded in 1917 and they may be persuaded in 1939. However, there are other senators, such as Clark of Missouri, Walsh of Massachusetts, and Johnson of California, who are making it plain to the United States that this talk about democracy being threatened boils down to a disclosure that the only thing at stake is colonial empire. The democracy of Togoland is threatened.

THE BOY WASHINGTON.

[Indianapolis News.]

The doubtful honor of making the worst guess of the year goes to Grant Wood, Iowa artist, for his statement that the 6 year old George Washington he intends to paint "has got to be smug." Little is known of Washington's boyhood, but if that little proves anything conclusively, it is that he was not a smug boy. It is surprising that one so interested in modern trends in art has not noticed the modern trend in the writing of history and biography—that he turns to the absurd Parson Weems for information. A smug George Washington of 6 could be no other than the boy who hacked has father's cherry tree and could not tell a lie; he could not be the boy who dreamed of a life of adventure upon the high seas.

There was a tang of the sea in his blood and his father, Capt. Augustine, doubtless told him such tales as to make six Virginia plantations seem like a prison to little George. This restlessness was so great that George was 14 before Fairfax could write to Lawrence Washington: "George has been with us and says he will be steady and thankfully follow your advice as his best friend." George kept that promise and talked no more of running away to sea, and was rewarded, when he was 16, with release from the life of luxurious indulgence and set out, with a commission from Fairfax, to survey the west. If "the child is father of the man," there was no smugness in the lad of 6 who gave the world this adventurous man of 16. Clearly, the boy Washington is no subject for Grant Wood, who attributes his precise style to a "straight laced, Puritanical bringing up." If he wishes to paint his own boyhood into a picture he should choose another subject. He might even call it "Grant Wood at the Age of Six."

DATES ON BUILDINGS.

What is the oldest building in Chicago? A camera fan, in search of subjects upon which to practice his hobby, brought up this question recently, and pending a report from the Historical society we will call a specialist in ancient edifices to the witness stand.

Thomas E. Tallmadge, the architect, has been going about town for years, searching for dates on buildings. He is an authority on the subject. The earliest date he has found is 1850. This does not mean, of course, that some ramshackle shanty, old roadside tavern, or former suburban mansion may not be older than that. Now, Tom, go on with the story:

"The earliest date I have been able to collect is 1850, on a two story frame building on Milwaukee avenue just west of Halsted street. It is owned by Adolf Bender, who uses the premises for the sale of store and barroom fixtures. The date, however, is probably misleading, for this district was swept by the fire of 1871, and the building itself is of the vintage of the early '80s. Possibly the dated cornice, which may be easily seen, came from an earlier building on this site.

"Between Harrison street and North avenue, the lake and the river, you will find no dates earlier than 1872, for this area was completely devastated by the fire. There ought to be plenty of earlier dates on the west and south sides.

"The fashion for placing dates on buildings ran through the '70s and into the '80s. After that, probably because owners realized that dates might be evidence of deterioration in case of a sale, they suddenly went out of fashion except on churches and public buildings. The richest hunting ground for these dates is North Clark street from Chicago avenue to Lincoln park."

We Sleep with This Under Our Pillow.

Well, sire, re certain critiques or quasi-critiques of what is printed and not printed in the Line:

Some years ago, more than it cheers me to remember, twenty-five odd, when I was wasting parental time and money at Andover, the Gilbertian Bert Leston was Tayloring the Line, and there were comments to the effect that "Alas, there are no more Eugene Fields!"

When Mæcenas made Horace a column conductor, Roman readers were crabbing that Quintus H. Flaccus printed too much prose, printed too much verse, printed too many old time contributors, printed too many brand new ones, reprinted too much stuff, didn't reprint enough stuff, et cetera, ad inf., ad naus.

So go to it, sire; hew to the grand old Line and let the rips fall where they may.

En passant, I hate to admit it but [life is a goat farm, full of butts] your changes in titles and structure make a big improvement in anything of mine that ever basks in the limelight-like Line light!

PURSUIT AND CAPTURE.

As on the stage there leaps a maid so lithe
And flexible, yet trembling all the while
At some unseen endangerment. Still blithe
The ballet sways. With strides of lusty grace
The male pursues fair Beauty all about
The narrow stage's confines. On her face
The fear of virtue lost is shining out
With yet the faintest coloring of thought
About the eyes, that her pursuer may
By subtle undulations still be brought
To speed the chase and end the game her way.
Woman pursued, the male will ever find,
Is less pursued in fact than in his mind.

Awful Argument Against Alcohol.

Those interested in curious alliterative literature need not search beyond Chicago. In 1882 the Rev. James Nelson Hulme published in Chicago a book called "Alliterated Temperance," the text of which consists entirely of words beginning in "A." Its ninety-two pages contain more than 2,000 words. Its title page describes it as "an alliterated allocution against alcohol and all alcoholic admixtures."

The Great Ten Cent Tree.

The Angel oak, on Johns Island, near Charleston, S. C., is believed to be over 1,000 years old. Dimensions: circumference, 21½ feet; height, 60 feet; longest limb, 76 feet; spread, 150 feet. It is named after a family that once owned it. The present owners, named Bolt, are in modest circumstances, and charge 10 cents a head when visitors want to inspect it or picnic on the quarter acre covered by its shadow. It is a live oak, Quercus Virginiana.

DELAY MAY MEAN DISASTER IN APPENDICITIS.

APPARENTLY many of us have forgotten all about appendicitis. Long ago it ceased to be a seven days' wonder. With the patient in skilled hands and in modern hospital surroundings, safety is the rule, provided the disease is recognized speedily. No longer is the surgical procedure looked upon with apprehension, as it was two or three decades ago. Nevertheless it is sufficiently technical to call for great accuracy, a clear knowledge of the various steps, and trained coöperation on the part of assistants and nurses.

The strange part of it all is that the mortality from this malady remains high. In fact, it is one of the commonest causes of death. Probably the chief reason is that no one wishes to call a physician or race to the hospital on the appearance of every slight pain in the abdomen. But indifference can amount to neglect—and it frequently does. Procrastination then becomes deadly and finally when the desperate condition of the patient is realized the most expert surgery may be futile.

Laxatives have added to our fatalities and a campaign with the slogan "Pain in the 'tummy' does not call for castor oil or any other cathartic" would save thousands of lives. We can visualize what a purgative will do to a swollen, pus filled appendix. The structure may be as thick as one's thumb, half again as long, gangrenous, ready to burst—when along comes a preëmptory order from some powerful drug that the entire intestinal tube must contract vigorously. The ensuing pressure bursts the inflamed organ—dumping pus, bacteria, and fecal matter into the peritoneal cavity. No longer is the illness appendicitis. It is now peritonitis, which all too often travels over a goodly portion of this delicate lining and covering membrane.

The typical attack is ushered in with distress in the stomach area. After a while this drifts to the lower right side of the belly and may be accompanied by a mild sense of nausea without actual vomiting. The temperature is not high and, while the pulse may be increased in rate somewhat, nothing tangible or different from episodes of mild indigestion may mark the incident.

The tendency is for the patient to ascribe his discomfort to something that he has eaten and he is ready to fix the blame upon some inadequately cooked or overly rich edible or recall that he gorged on some special dish. In cases of food poisoning we generally have severe vomiting and diarrhea as well. While either may be present in acute inflammation of the appendix, neither symptom is as marked. The drowsy patient lies quietly in bed and resents being disturbed. The knees are drawn up instinctively to relieve the tension on the abdomen. There is tenderness on the right side, and the white cell count will usually be elevated—indicating the existence of infection.

In most instances the person is stricken without warning. The disorder may grumble along for several hours—even for two or three days—occasionally subsiding without untoward results. But to allow one of these seizures to take its course is about as prudent as an attempt to run a heavy train over a swaying bridge. Removal as soon as the diagnosis can be made is the only sensible course to follow, although operation within the first ten or twelve hours may meet the situation in time. A few blazing types will come to a climax within three or four hours. Casualties mount as delay lengthens.

The most dangerous complication is peritonitis. In fact, in most general hospitals 75 per cent of all patients suffering from this latter ailment are victims of neglected appendicitis. When this occurs the goal is a walled off abscess—one which is confined in a pocket so that the pus cannot wander throughout the abdomen. Later this region may be drained and no attempt made to search for the source of the trouble.

There is no emergency other than acute hemorrhage that calls for so much wisdom, judgment, and speed. Far more awareness on the part of an intelligent public must come if we are to lower the present high ratio of tragedies from this disease.

"O, DOCTOR! MY FEET!"

Among the many volumes dealing with the welfare of our pedal extremities none excels in readableness and informational value "O, Doctor! My Feet!" by Dudley J. Morton, M. D. [D. Appleton-Century company, New York, 1939, pp. 116, $1.50]. The conversational narrative is easy to follow and practical suggestions are offered generously.

Nurses, physical directors, and those working in the field of preventive medicine will find Dr. Morton's "pointers" of special interest. In addition shoe salesmen who take their jobs seriously will be better able to assist their customers through a study of this little book. And, of course, the average layman will find many common sense suggestions.

GROWTH ON LEG.

O. D. writes: I have a growth on the right leg below the knee. It has been there for about eight years. What is this and will it ever cause trouble?

REPLY.

An X-ray is suggested in order to arrive at an accurate diagnosis. Such protuberances are frequently the result of injuries in childhood wherein the covering of the bone [periosteum] was bruised. The ensuing enlargements are usually harmless.

AFFECTS MILK SECRETION.

G. writes: Can a nursing baby be affected by the emotional conflicts of the mother?

REPLY.

Emotions may have a definite effect upon the secretions and character of breast milk. In many cases one encounters a nervous mother and a nervous child. This is probably an hereditary characteristic.

IT OFTEN HELPS.

X writes: In case of sciatica is it well to apply a hot water bag to the parts affected?

REPLY.

The application of heat is often beneficial to any form of rheumatism or neuralgia. Rest is equally important. Foci of infection should be given attention.

PLEDGES ABOUT TAXES.

Michigan City, Ind., Feb. 27.—It is reported that Mr. Roosevelt promises [not in writing] that there will be no more new taxes.

Comes now Mr. Morgenthau and asks congress to raise the legal limit of the public debt to 50 billion dollars and he hastens to tell us that it does not mean inflation.

He's not fooling me. I'm dying of laughing. If I can but catch my breath, I'll tell myself that raising the public debt's legal limit implies New Deal intention to continue to spend, and New Deal spending is inflation, and inflation means more taxes and more new taxes!

I'm not laughing now!

MEMORANDUM TO MR. DIES.

Chicago, Feb. 25.—Attention, Martin Dies! Why not introduce in the present session of congress the following:

"It shall be a felony for any member of a foreign organization, except officials of foreign governments, to wear any uniform or symbol, or to give any sign or salute, pertaining to such organization, or to display any flag or banner thereof, in any parade or public gathering in the United States of America or any of its possessions."

And incidentally, Martin, let those who berate the purpose of your committee rave on—unless they, too, because of ulterior purposes, should require your investigation. No real American will oppose any investigation of "un-American activities"—a fact that you might bring to the attention of the White House!

THE SALES TAX.

Chicago, Feb. 23.—In complaining about the dictatorship tendency, why is it that you never refer to the imposition of the sales tax, the most vicious, oppressive, and tyrannical tax ever levied in all history? Recently I heard a public speaker charge that no tyrant in all history heretofore has dared to tax the food that went directly into the mouths of the people, and that it took so-called supporters of democracy to contrive and promulgate such a vicious thing, to show that we were ready for the assertion of full dictatorship as soon as conditions made it advisable.

TEST OF SINCERITY.

Chicago, March 1.—If Thomas Courtney is really sincere in his desire to smash the Kelly-Nash gang he will most certainly join forces with Dwight Green. In our precinct alone there were present eight paid members of the gang and at least five outside workers. Also the three Democratic election officials are Kelly-Nash men, making a total of sixteen, only one of whom pays taxes as a homeowner. The public seems unaware of the hundreds of dollars spent by Kelly-Nash precinct workers at each election. And that money comes from no other place than our taxes.

RIBBING THE REPUBLICAN COMMITTEE.

Dowagiac, Mich., Feb. 28.—The Republican national committee reports they already have enough electoral votes in the bag to insure a G. O. P. victory for 1940. Not only that, but they list several other states as being a toss-up and several as being close to the borderline, frontier or whatever you choose to call it. This prognostication would be just as funny as Moon Mullins had the committee claimed all the states excepting Maine and Vermont.

ANOTHER RAILROAD DID IT.

Chicago, Feb. 28.—I have read with interest your editorial in yesterday's issue entitled "One Railroad Did It" calling attention to the removal of control of the Illinois Central Railroad system from New York to Chicago.

In the event you are not already acquainted with the fact I believe you will be interested in knowing that the Chicago Great Western Railroad company has always been controled and operated from Chicago and the territory which it serves. We have not had a director on our board residing east of Chicago since 1930. Since the organization of the present company in 1909, it has consistently been the practice to select directors from Chicago and the territory wect hereof served by the rails of the carrier. Meetings of directors have been held principally at Chicago but also in cities served by our rails such as Kansas City, Omaha, Des Moines, St. Paul, Minneapolis, etc.

The officers of the Chicago Great Western Railroad company have always felt that this policy is for the best interests of the railroad and the communities and people which it serves. Perhaps your editorial would better have been headed "Two Railroads Have Done It" rather than "One Railroad Did It."

LIFE AMID THE DICTATORS.

Chicago, Feb. 28.—Citizens of dictator nations must be as meek as sheep, as patient as oxen, as hard working as horses, as humble as worms, as sacrificial as cows, as obedient as trained monkeys, etc. If faithful and ambitious, these citizens may rise to be commissars before being shot for getting ambitious.

TRAINING THE NAVY'S FLYERS.

Ottumwa, Ia., Feb. 26.—I am amazed at the way your editorial writers sit down and blithely dash off editorials about which they know nothing.

I am referring now to the editorial about the navy aviators who were lost in the fog over Pensacola. How much do you really know about the training our aviation cadets get? Nothing, evidently. If you are going to write, for gosh sakes, find out something about it before you sit down to tell the world that there is so much lacking in our navy flyers' training.

I have a son who completed the course at Pensacola and I know a little bit about it. I would not presume to criticize the officers or the training. I know that it is the finest training any aviator can get and I raise my voice in a long howl against your unfavorable editorial. Every precaution is taken against accidents; the record of the station at Pensacola is remarkable. Look it up, why don't you?

NAMES ON AUTOMOBILES.

Chicago, Feb. 27.—If the state legislature would pass a law with provisions for all vehicles, pleasure or otherwise, to carry the owner's name and license numbers in neon it would no doubt cut down the rate of hit and run driver cases, reckless driving, and promote careful driving. Such a law, providing that it is passed and enforced rigidly, would prove helpful, I think.

Some may kick about the expense of such a system, but compared to a human life or limb it is but a trifle. Money which they may spend foolishly otherwise could be made to be advantageous not only to others but also to the car owner.

TITLES TO PROPERTY.

Chicago, March 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—When my father died, leaving no will, he left a small piece of property, assessed at approximately $1,300. I am interested in knowing [1] what procedure to follow in order to get a clear title to this property.

2. Some time ago an attorney advised me that all that was necessary was to have all heirs quitclaim their share to me, have the deed recorded, and the property would then be in my name.

I have done this and would like to know [3] if it is possible for me to now have the abstract brought up to date [4] showing me as the owner of the property? I am now acting as trustee. There are no encumbrances against the property of any kind other than the yearly taxes and water assessments which have been paid by the heirs proportionately, on due dates.

5. I have a prospective purchaser of the property at the present time, but have given him no encouragement in regard to sale, as I did not know if I was in a position to give him a clear title.

L. A. P.

1. Unless seven years have gone by so as to bar claims, probate would be necessary in order to produce a readily salable title.

2. He was in touch with the facts at first hand, and hence was in a better position to advise you than we are.

3. Yes.

4. A person examining such an abstract would raise the question as to your father's possible creditors.

5. We suggest that you tell him the actual facts and have him ascertain from his attorney whether the attorney would be willing to pass the abstract in reliance on affidavits that there are no creditors, and stating the facts as to heirship.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

PAYMENT OF LEGACY.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Feb. 22.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My daughters, when not of age, were left $1,000 each by their grandfather in his will. Bank was made administrator of will.

1. Their mother, who was the guardian, accepted Chicago real estate bonds which proved a total loss. There was no administrator appointed for the girls.

2. Who would be responsible for this loss?

O. F.

1. We assume that you mean that the bonds were accepted as a substitute for the $1,000 legacies. Ordinarily a bank would not pay a legacy to a minor without having a court guardian appointed. You do not make clear what steps were taken.

2. Depends on facts that are not before us. You might try going over your facts in a personal interview with an attorney.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

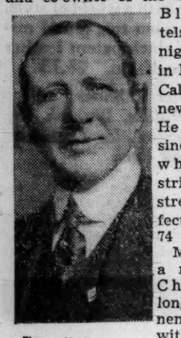
TRACY C. DRAKE OF HOTEL FAMILY IS DEAD IN WEST

Succumbs at 74 in Winter Home; Ill Since June.

Tracy C. Drake, former president and co-owner of the Drake and the Blackstone hotels, died last night in his home in Laguna Beach, Cal., according to news dispatches. He had been ill since last June, when he was stricken with a streptococcus infection. He was 74 years old.



Tracy C. Drake. [Lewis-Smith Photo.]

Mr. Drake was a member of a Chicago family long and prominently identified with the hotel business. He retired from active business in 1932, after receivership proceedings against his properties. In recent years he had been spending winters in California.

Trained by Father.

His training in the hotel business was given to him by his father, the elder John B. Drake, who came to Chicago in 1855 as steward of the old Tremont house. He soon became proprietor of this hotel and eventually leased the old Grand Pacific hotel. Tracy Drake managed his father's estate for several years and then joined his brother, John B. Drake, in the hotel business.

In 1908 the brothers organized the Drake Hotel company and built the Blackstone hotel. In 1919 they formed the Whitestone company and built the Drake. In 1912 Tracy Drake, aided by his brother, succeeded in obtaining a judicial voidance of city ordinances banning dancing in public restaurants. Tracy Drake tested the ordinances by permitting dancing in the Blackstone dining rooms.

During the war Mr. Drake was chairman of the hotel division of the Chicago district for the United States Food administration. He was actively interested in civic affairs and did not try to shun the ordinary duties of citizens. In 1922 he served as a juror in the Criminal court.

Depression Hits Interests.

His hotel interests suffered during the depression, and in 1932 he was appointed receiver for the Blackstone after the institution of equity receivership proceedings against the Drake company as operator of the Blackstone. He resigned as receiver six months later.

He and his brother thereafter for several years fought a losing battle to enforce an agreement with the new operators of the hotel that guaranteed them free food and suites in the Drake, plus $15,000 yearly salaries.

Surviving Mr. Drake are his widow, the former Annie Daughaday; two sons, Carlos and the Rev. Francis Drake, a Congregational minister, and a sister, Miss Helen Drake. Mr. Drake was born in Chicago.

REWED WIFE'S RENO DIVORCE DECLARED VOID

New York, March 3.—[Special.]—The Appellate division ruled today that Mrs. Alicia du Pont Glendening Llewellyn Kent still is the wife of Harold Sanford Glendening and that, according to the laws of New York state, she is living with her present husband "in open and notorious adultery."

Mrs. Alicia Kent.

The court, in a unanimous opinion, reversed a State Supreme court order appointing a referee to decide the custody of Alan Sanford Glendening, 15 years old; forbade the mother to remove the boy from New York state, and ordered her to keep the boy from personal contact with her present husband, George Ruddle Kent, former Irish Guardsman. [The Supreme court in New York City is comparable to Circuit courts of Illinois.]

Glendening, an attorney, started his suit last fall for custody of the boy, who has been with the mother ever since a Reno divorce in 1926. Glendening succeeded in having the Reno decree declared worthless in New York.

Stock Yards and Handlers Sign One Year Agreement

A one year labor agreement between the Union Stock Yards and Transit company and the Stock Handlers' union, a C. I. O. affiliate, was signed yesterday. The agreement was the final settlement of the dispute that caused a thirteen day strike at the stockyards last November and December. Yesterday's agreement was said to provide for a forty hour week, time and one-half for overtime, vacations with pay, and a minimum wage scale of 60 cents an hour, except for beginners, who will get 55 cents an hour.

Order Drive to Halt Sale of Obscene Books, Pictures

As a result of complaints from civic organizations and neighborhood groups Commissioner Allman yesterday ordered a police drive to halt the sale of obscene pictures and printed matter. Outlying districts were directed to ask the coöperation of newsstand operators and storekeepers. Numerous arrests were made recently in the South State street district for violation of a city ordinance prohibiting the sale of objectionable literature.

FITZGERALD HITS GAMING CHARGE; ASKS SHOWDOWN

Lansing, Mich., March 3.—[Special.]—Gov. Frank D. Fitzgerald today demanded an immediate showdown on charges that there was a tieup between his administration and organized gambling. He called upon a Battle Creek minister, who made the charges, to either prove or retract them at once.

At the same time the governor sent Attorney General Thomas Read and Capt. Laurence Lyon of the state police to Battle Creek to make an investigation.

The Rev. Amos B. Bogart, pastor of the Uptor Avenue Methodist church, in a letter to the governor threatened him with a recall movement unless he "cracks down" on gambling. It stated that an unnamed group had employed five trained investigators to look into the situation throughout the state and that they had turned up deals between notorious racketeers and those close to the governor to protect organized gambling in Michigan.

Bogart demanded that Fitzgerald order a grand jury investigation. He said his group consisted of some twenty-five ministers and professional men, but he refused to identify them.

LAY HALF MILE OF HOSE TO FIGHT FLAMES ON FARM

Firemen of three suburban villages laid 2,500 feet [nearly half a mile] of hose to a creek yesterday to get water to fight a fire on the farm of Arthur Swanson on Mannheim road south of Touhy avenue.

Eight small houses used as mushroom nurseries burned. The loss was estimated at $15,000. Chief Walter Lagerhausen of the Des Plaines department reported that his men fought the flames for eight hours. Firemen from Mount Prospect and Park Ridge assisted. It was explained that heavy insulation of the building walls—necessary because the culture of the mushrooms was carried on through winter—caught fire and smoldered for hours as water was poured on them.

MRS. ELLEN DOYLE, 96, DIES IN LAKE FOREST; BORN IN A LOG CABIN

Mrs. Ellen Melody Doyle, 96 years old, believed to be the oldest resident of Lake Forest, died yesterday in her home at 516 Oakwood avenue in the suburb.

Mrs. Doyle's father, Patrick Melody, was a pioneer resident of what is now Lake Forest, going there in 1840. Mrs. Doyle was born Oct. 24, 1842, in a log cabin on the property, which still is known as Melody farm. The farm was purchased years later by the late J. Ogden Armour, packer.

Mrs. Doyle is survived by her daughter-in-law, Mrs. John Doyle, a widow, five grandchildren, and three great-grandchildren. Her husband, Thomas Doyle, a grocer, died 27 years ago. Funeral services will be conducted at 10 a. m. Monday in St. Mary's church, Lake Forest.

WOMAN IS FOUND DEAD; DRINKING COMPANION HELD

Authorities in Michigan City, Ind., were trying last night to solve the mystery of the death of Dorothy Boener, 30 years old. She was dead in bed, unclothed and bearing evidence of a beating, when police answered a call from Frank Freyer, a farmer with whom she had lived for two years at his home four miles east of town.

Freyer, who is 50 years old, told police that he and Miss Boener came home intoxicated Thursday night and that she fell, striking her head. Later, he said, she went to bed. Because blood was found on Freyer's clothing and in his car, he was held for investigation by Julian Warner, Michigan City police chief, and Arthur Keller, Indiana state police detective.

THIEF PLACED ON PROBATION.

Ralph La Chance, 1326 Jackson boulevard, was placed on probation for one year yesterday by Judge Matthew D. Hartigan in the Felony court on a charge of petty larceny. He took some watches from a broken window in a jewelry store.

U. S. JURY INDICTS 18 FOR CEMETERY LOT SALE FRAUD

Seventeen men and a woman, alleged to have swindled several hundred persons in the middle west of $160,000 with a cemetery lot scheme, were indicted by a federal grand jury yesterday on charges of using the mails to defraud. All the defendants were connected with the First Commonwealth Trustees, with offices at 10 South La Salle street.

Assistant District Attorney A. Bradley Eben said the accused represented themselves as able to buy 1,000 cemetery lots at Twinsburg, O., and sell them at a profit for investors. The victims were persuaded to trade good securities for interests in the lots, and then the securities were sold by the concern, Eben charged. The lots, he said, were worth much less than the company's agents said they were.

Among those named in the indictment are Robert Stickney of Boston and New York, general manager of the firm; Mike Gordon of Cleveland and Canton, O., salesmanager; Mrs. Helen B. Nichols of Oak Park, a trustee, and A. C. McHenry of Oshkosh, Wis., an attorney. The others indicted are salesmen.

26 Indicted on Charges of Illicit Alcohol Fraud

Twenty-six persons, one a woman, were indicted yesterday by the federal grand jury before Federal Judge John P. Barnes on charges of defrauding the government through the manufacture and sale of illicit alcohol. In all 1,700 gallons of untaxed spirits and large quantities of mash were seized by federal agents in raids resulting in the arrests of those indicted.

OBITUARIES

Mrs. Julia Augusta Coy.

Mrs. Julia Augusta Coy, a resident of Illinois for more than 100 years, died yesterday in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Mary G. Weddell, 610 North Washington street, Hinsdale. She was 103 years old.

Mrs. Coy was born in New York state on June 13, 1835, and was brought to Illinois when she was three years old. The family settled in Newark, Ill., at a time when Indians roamed the nearby prairies. In 1859 she was married to Irus Coy, an attorney for the Union stockyards. The couple moved to Chicago in 1875 and for many years lived in the neighborhood of 39th street and Michigan avenue. Mr. Coy died in 1896.

Mrs. Coy was a descendant of an early American family, which traced its activities in this country to 1638. In addition to her daughter, two sons, Lincoln and Harry Coy, eight grandchildren, and six great-grandchildren survive.

5 POLL OFFICIALS DENY CHARGE OF VOTE TAMPERING

Three women and two men who served as election officials in the 33d precinct of the 24th ward during the April, 1938, primaries, testified in their own defense yesterday before County Judge Jarecki. They are on trial on contempt of court charges arising from alleged irregularities in the polling place.

The five denied there had been any tampering with ballots or attempts to give illegal assistance to voters. The defendants are Paul Lidovsky, Eugene Steiner, and Mrs. Rose Fishman, all election judges, and Mrs. Estelle Litwin and Albert Brooks, clerks. The hearing will continue today.

Lester Maxey, colored, of 3257 Cottage Grove avenue, was arrested yesterday by state's attorney's police and charged with inducing another Negro to vote under a false name in the 19th precinct of the 2d ward in last Tuesday's primary. Maxey pleaded not guilty before Judge Jarecki. Bond was set at $2,500 and a hearing was set for today.

HUGO DIEMER, 69, DIES; LA SALLE U. FACULTY MEMBER

Hugo Diemer, director of management training at La Salle Extension university since 1920, died yesterday in his home, 10633 Hoyne avenue. He was 69 years old.

Mr. Diemer had been on the faculty of Michigan Agricultural college, the University of Kansas, and Pennsylvania State college. He was a major in the world war. In 1925 he was president of the Chicago chapter of the Society of Industrial Engineers, of which he was national vice president from 1930 to 1933. He was one of the founders and the first chairman of the Chicago Management council and was the author of five books on business.

Surviving are a son, Theodore H., and three daughters, Natalie, Mary, and Mrs. Dorothy Thompson. Services will be Monday in Jamestown, Ind.

NEW HIGH SCHOOL IS PLANNED FOR SOUTHWEST SIDE

James B. McCahey, president of the board of education, announced yesterday that plans are being made for a new million dollar high school in the neighborhood of 35th and Halsted streets. The school will accommodate 2,000 pupils who now belong in the Englewood High school district. Because of lack of space they attend five branch schools. Don C. Rogers, director of building survey for the school board, is inspecting sites for the new building. He will report to the board next Wednesday.

More Swing Definitions.

Joe (Wingy) Mannone, trumpeter of the old New Orleans school at the Off Beat club, has two definitions of swing:

NO. I.

Swing is individual or collective instrumental improvisation harmonically concordant with a predetermined series of chord sequences, and superimposed over a background of consistent four-four rhythm, with slight dynamic emphasis placed on each second and fourth pulse.

NO. II.

Swing is a conglomeration of a bunch of guys jamming ad lib, and the only guys who can do it are the crack men and those who really mean it. Otherwise they're no good; they don't swing. Also the guys you play with have got to think you swing. If they don't, you don't. And if you wanta swing you hafta forget about money and everything but your horn; it's got to be everything in the world to you.

Cuff Notes.

Last June William Blees, who plays the obnoxious George in What a Life, was told by George Abbott he could have the part if he could learn the lines and be ready to go on two days later. "But I graduate from Dartmouth day after tomorrow," said Blees. He wired the college head and was was told to go with the show if he wanted to; that he could "get his diploma any time. . . ." Jessie Royce Landis will take Miss Lawrence's rôle in Susan and God opening Monday in Buffalo.

Plan Benefit as Finale for Easter Parade

BY JUDITH CASS.

OVER a luncheon table in a private dining room of the Tavern club yesterday some members of the women's division of the Salvation Army completed plans for a novel benefit. It is to be an Easter Bonnet breakfast at the Drake hotel following the traditional Easter parade.

Prizes will be awarded to the four women wearing the prettiest bonnets; the woman wearing the outstanding corsage will be rewarded, and the four best dressed men at the party will be given prizes.

Artists, architects, and fashion experts will be asked to make the difficult decisions as to the prize winners. Proceeds of the affair will go to the Salvation Army institutions in which the women's division has a special interest: the Home and Hospital for Unwed Mothers, the Woman's Emergency lodge, the Fresh Air Camp for Women and Children, and the Opportunity Shop.

Mrs. William S. Monroe is division president and Mrs. Charles S. Clark is first vice president. Mrs. Doris Chapman, a vice president of the board, is chairman of the breakfast, which she is planning along the lines of a successful one given in New York last Easter for the benefit of three charities. Mrs. Thomas R. Gowenlock, Mrs. Henry Paschen, Mrs. Norval Pierce, Mrs. William E. Sparrow Jr., Mrs. Robert F. Bensinger, Mrs. F. Harney Bassett, Mrs. Thomas J. Fleming, Mrs. Edward R. Fifield, Mrs. Edward J. Buchan, Mrs. Joseph F. Ross, and Mrs. William Snyder are among others who direct the activities of the women's division.

Group to Enjoy Week-end of Skiing.

Following a brief visit with his fiancée, Miss Frances Jeffery, and her aunt, Miss Frances Whedon, Harris Fahnestock Jr. returned to Boston last night. If he had been able to remain over the week-end he would have been one of a group of young people leaving today for La Crosse, Wis., to spend the week-end skiing with the Snow Chase club.

With a foot of snow, and more promised, Miss Jeffery, Miss Frances Bell, Miss Margaret Wilder, the Stewart Boals, the Gilbert Scribners, and their daughter, Nancy, and several others are expecting good sport today and tomorrow.

This will be a day for celebrating at the Winnetka home of Mrs. R. Joseph Rich. Her elder daughter, Miss Bette Rich, is coming home today after having spent several months at the Passavant hospital recovering from injuries received in an automobile accident last fall.

The Alliance Française is giving a luncheon today for M. Henri-Emile Malherbe, the official lecturer of the alliance. The party will be given at 1 o'clock at the Blackstone hotel following a talk by M. Malherbe at 11:30 at the Alliance. His subject will be "Claude Farrere." M. Malherbe is on his way east after a visit to the San Francisco fair.

Frode Jensens Guests in Florida.

Dr. and Mrs. Frode Jensen are visiting her sister, Mrs. Hibbard Casselberry, and Mrs. Stuart J. Templeton, and her mother, Mrs. William E. Casselberry in Winter Park, Fla. The Jensens will be the special guests at a barn dance the Hibbard Casselberrys are giving tonight. Mrs. Templeton will remain in the south for a month.

The Edward J. Berminghams have returned from a brief but successful quail hunting expedition to Alabama.

Mrs. Jay Morse Ely is at her home near Thomasville, Ga., to spend a month. Adrienne Ely, who is at Dobbs Ferry, will join her mother for the Easter holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. James C. Hutchins and their daughters, Miss Margaret Hutchins and Mrs. John J. Borland II., have gone to Boca Grande, Fla.

Nancy Brown to Be Bride

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Miss Nancy Brown, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. E. V. L. Brown of Winnetka, will be a spring bride. She is to be married to Clarence Boyd Jones of Evanston on April 22. It will be an afternoon wedding in the Winnetka Congregational church, with a small reception following at the Brown home.

Mickey Rooney Has Swell Cast in Twain Story

"HUCKLEBERRY FINN."

Produced by Metro-Goldwin-Mayer.
Directed by Richard Thorpe.
Based on story by Mark Twain.
Presented at the United Artists.

The Cast.

Huckleberry Finn	Mickey Rooney
The "King"	Walter Connolly
The "Duke"	William Frawley
Jim	C. Rex Ingram
Mary Jane	Lynne Carver
Susan	Jo Ann Sayers
Capt. Brandy	Minor Watson
Widow Douglass	Elizabeth Risdon
"Pap" Finn	Victor Kilian
Miss Watson	Clara Blandick

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Love is not blind and there are times when a player's most ardent fans willy nilly cease from fanning. Which preludes the statement, reluctantly made, that I, who am one of Mickey Rooney's most sincere admirers, did not care for him as Huckleberry Finn.

Why?

I really can't say. He just doesn't seem in character. His performance is finished enough—maybe TOO finished. Or does he play Mr. Twain's beloved urchin with his tongue in his cheek? Whatever's the matter the rôle struck me as being poorly tailored to the boy.

It's been a long time since I read the story, but to me the picture appeared to hew right loyally to the Twain original. Certainly backgrounds and costumes seem authentic and the piece has plenty of "atmosphere."

Huckleberry, who has found a home with the Widow Douglas and her sister, spends school time hours fishing and smoking his old pipe. The story picks him up on the day before school is to close for the summer—a day upon which the widow fondly hopes he will be promoted to the next grade. . . .

That night his drunken father appears, demanding money from Mrs. Douglas if she is to have the continued pleasure of caring for his son. . . . The lady promises she'll endeavor to raise it. . . . Huck runs away meets up with the slave Jim who is seeking freedom—and is, unknown to himself, suspected of the murder of Huck who is supposed to be dead. . . .

The picture deals with the wanderings and adventures of the two—their meeting with the "king" and the "duke," Huck's intervention in their proposed swindling of one Mary Jane and Susan, and the manner in which he is finally able to come to the rescue of the good Jim at a moment when the latter is receiving an urgent invitation to a lynching party.

The scenes in which Huckleberry plays Juliet to the "king's" Romeo are tiresome horseplay. Otherwise the film is well directed.

Young Rooney has excellent adult support. The most outstanding performance is contributed by Rex Ingram ["De Lawd" in "Green Pastures"] as Jim. He's just swell!

See you tomorrow.

Marian Anderson to Sing at Washington, D.C., School

Washington, D. C., March 3.—(AP)—The board of education reversed itself today and voted to permit Marian Anderson, Negro contralto, to sing in the Central High school auditorium on Easter Sunday. Before the board's first decision to bar the singer the Daughters of the American Revolution denied her use of their Constitution hall. The high school is for white students.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

A Glamor Girl Talks Back.

[Hollywood notables are contributing columns during Ed Sullivan's vacation.]

BY MARLENE DIETRICH.

Hollywood, Cal., March 3.

When Ed Sullivan placed me on his list of guest columnists I think he rather expected me to talk about stars, pictures, and the glamor world of Hollywood. He is going to be fooled. I want to talk about a side of Hollywood that is seldom touched upon—the business side. It is a side in which I have always been interested.

We're a lot like the butcher, the baker, and the candlestick maker here in Hollywood. When we gather in the evenings to discuss topics of the day we, too, talk shop. Sometimes, when you see pictures in the paper bearing the caption "Informal Hollywood Group at Gay Party," don't be too sure of its frivolity. The pros and cons of the industry outnumber the light banter as topics of conversation about two to one.

At a dinner party the other night one of the guests, a producer, commanded the attention of every one when he said, "You know, within two years you will find Spanish taking front rank as Hollywood's most popular foreign language." Immediately every one wanted to know why. It is the common belief that folks in Hollywood study French in their spare moments as an addition to their cultural development. "That's all going to be changed," said the producer. "You're going to find Spanish grammars lying on the dressing room tables around the sets and in home libraries."

"Do you remember a couple of years ago," he said, "when Clark Gable took a trip to South America?" We recalled that Clark had returned with glowing tales of a cordial reception by press and public alike. "You don't catch the significance of it. Not many of us did," the producer continued. "I suppose you think it was an accident that Tyrone Power recently made a trip to South America. Not on your life. Somebody—some very wise somebody—thought it was a good business idea to send Power down there. That's my interpretation of it, and you can discount all the other stories which gave his trip an aspect of either rest or romance. South America no longer is a place where one goes after robbing a bank. Not for us in the motion picture business. And if you people who do the acting are smart you'll study South America, you'll learn some Spanish and Portuguese, and you'll open a few books which will teach you something about South Americans.

"Take it from me, there will be more of you flying down to Rio, to Buenos Aires, Caracas, Bogota, and other centers of our sister continent." I pressed him for an explanation. "Producers and stars alike are beginning to discover that in South America lies a film market potentially as great as the one here in the United States," he said. "The fear among motion picture people that European unrest eventually will destroy a major portion of the existing film market has disappeared. Why worry about Europe when there are more than a hundred million customers, movie-minded, waiting receptively in South America for Hollywood pictures?

"Hollywood hasn't given a whole lot of thought to Brazil, Argentina, Colombia, Venezuela, and their neighbors. Pictures were booming in the United States. Huge productions returned their cost in the domestic market and then went on to Europe to pick up their profit. The picture is changing, and the future, I am convinced, must be a planned one, looking toward new markets.

"I recommend," said the producer, "that we send as many stars as possible on tours of South America to learn first hand the temper and customs of the people. I think producers should vacation there instead of in Europe and attempt to determine what stories and stars are most popular. It might pay Hollywood to get together and recruit a special survey unit to carry on this work for a year or two."

The next day after having heard this I got my first couple of books on the subject of South America. The first dealt with Venezuela and Colombia. Here's what I read at first glance: "Both Venezuela and Colombia today are in the state of commercial development that existed in the United States immediately after the civil war, the beginning of the great railroad building era that ushered in an enormous wave of material prosperity. Rich in minerals, agriculture, and native vegetation of marketable varieties, their futures promise a development that can be compared only to the western march of North America seventy-five years ago."

I began to see the truth of what I had been told the night before.

Only Four American Women Will Bow to British King This Year

LONDON, March 3.—(AP)—Only four American women will be presented at the court of King George and Queen Elizabeth of Great Britain this season. The American embassy will maintain the practice inaugurated last year of restricting presentees to families of American officials or residents of London.

The presentations will be at the first court on March 9. The presentees:

Mrs. Vinton Chapin, wife of the second secretary of the United States embassy, whose home is Dublin, N. H.

Mrs. Samuel A. Greenwell, wife of Maj. Greenwell, assistant United States military attaché in London, of San Antonio, Tex.

Miss Barbara Mead, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Mead of Old Greenwich, Conn.

Miss Alfreda Huntington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Constant D. Huntington of Hadley, Mass.

Faddish Diets Out; Exercise for Streamlines

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Time was, and not so long ago—not long enough for the children to have grown up and gotten married—when two women couldn't get together but they were comparing diets. If it was a group that was convening, maybe a political group, a reform group, a parent-teacher group, you didn't listen long before a voice would come floating your way bearing a tale of the "marvelous new diet, my-dear-you-should-try-it."

Now, what do you think is the conversational theme now when a girl or two or three or four of 'em get together? Exercise, my streamlined strugglers, is the answer! You find a new one, I find a new one, and we're off at the slightest provocation. Proving that the means to a streamlined figure may be undergoing a change, but the theme remains as to how to own one. Which is well right now with the spring suit right around the corner.

If you know a better one you can tell me. But I'll tell you this one for the spreading waist and the abdomen.

Stand erect. Pull yourself up tall and flat as you can, back and front. Your hands are down at sides. Now, begin to raise them front, forward, and up high overhead. While raising the arms, bend your knees down, down as you stretch up higher and higher with your hands and arms. What you're actually doing is having a tug-of-war between your uppers and lowers, your long stretch being the rope. Drop hands to position and begin again. When you bring arms up overhead stretch them back and up, not just up.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Maybe our own personal intense love of the desert has something to do with our enthusiasm for some new toiletries for men. That's not as completely disjointed as it sounds. One of the scents used in this sequence of fine preparations, packaged the way men's preparations ought to be packaged, is called "sage brush." And it IS the scent of sage brush, true as truth!

It's a fragrance any man would like. Lord knows it isn't a flower fragrance, or sweet, or sharp. It has the clean, wind swept, sun baked note that is what we remember best about the Arizona desert. It's a little hazy or smoky, too—and men will like that.

Toilet water for men in the fragrance of sage brush is one toilet water men will use, even those who scoff at the very idea. Lots of men are using it already; it's a decided hit in the east, where the new line originated.

And you might be surprised to know that there are now sachets for men. Not satin, beribboned affairs, but tailored pillows in corded silk that are destined to be tossed in with the clean shirts. The sachets are in the sage brush we like so well, and in a couple of other odors men like, among them a fine pine and a most unusual scent called "green walnut." It's a true green walnut, too, but sharp and pungent and less subtle than our pet.

This whole line is well styled; men will approve the brown and beige packaging, and they'll like the toilet water and after shave lotion bottle. It's a sturdy affair, designed especially for handling with wet hands, ridged at the sides. Even the top is ridged so it can't slip beneath wet fingers.

Add Veil to Bit of Straw; That's a Spring Hat

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Tipsy little tidbits of gaudy color, worn over the face and with long, long mists of veiling tangling at the back or the sides, make the early spring straws something to see. Such straws in the wind of fashion are becoming heartbreakers, as feminine as lipstick and as bewitching as a new moon. These unquestionably are the most provocatively flattering creations ever called a spring hat.

The nosegay hats are just that; sometimes a pair of huge roses on a rubber leash, but at other times fancy little affairs trimmed with lovely colored ribbon with picot edging.

Shiny black straws have perky bows of citron yellow, pale chartreuse green, cerise, or turquoise. Fire truck red straws have a cloud of navy blue veiling, a good three feet long, fluttering in the breeze. Saucy sailors slant over one eyebrow and have a bunch of white daisies stuck right in front. Scorched toast tan straws have black or navy blue bows or cornflowers. Dramatic lengths of tissue thin silk jersey hang down the backline of tiny turbans in dark colored rough straws.

The new hats are all so darn silly you can't resist them, try as you will.

Feathers do an effective job of high trim on saucy little dabs of brilliant colored straws. Tiny small crowns, peaked effects, and the airy flattery of colored veiling make the millinery finds in straws not only tantalizingly desirable but the best spring tonic in the stores.

The Blind Side

By Patricia Wentworth

[Copyright: 1939: By Patricia Wentworth Turnbull.]

SYNOPSIS.

Ross Craddock's father, now dead, turned Craddock house into flats, and had installed his old maid cousins, Mary and Lucy Craddock, in a flat apiece on either side of the one occupied by Ross. After Mary's death Lucy prepares to leave for a change of scene. Their cousin, Peter Renshaw, is staying in Mary's flat while he settles her estate. A cruel note from Ross orders Lucy to vacate her flat. Confronting Ross, she learns it is because she objects to his attentions to her foolish young cousin, Mavis Grey. Lucy tells Peter she wishes Ross were dead. He advises her to take the trip she'd planned. Just as she is leaving Lucy gets a phone call from her cousin, Lee Penton. Lucy gives Lee the keys to use her flat while she is away. Rush, the porter, admits Lee. He mutters belligerently against Ross. After Rush, Lee has a time dismissing Mrs. Green, the charwoman, who says she is ill and needs a drink of brandy. Peter Renshaw attends a night club with friends and runs into Mavis with Ross.

INSTALMENT VI.

A JEALOUS ROW AVERTED.

A last look back into the room showed Peter that Mavis and Ross were still together. They were not dancing now, but sitting out under an electric fan. The light just overhead shone through a many colored prism upon Mavis' silver dress and the champagne in her glass. Marvelous heads girls had nowadays, but it looked to him as if she had had just about enough. Perhaps a little more. Anyhow it was none of his business.

On the steps he collided with a large young man who said "Sorry," and then clutched him.

"Peter!"

He surveyed Bobby Foster without enthusiasm. The clutch became a bruising grip.

"Peter! Is she still in there?"

Peter's diagnosis was that Bobby had had quite as much to drink as he could carry, and that he was spoiling for a scene. He slipped a hand inside his arm and began to walk away.

"Who is in where?" he inquired soothingly.

Bobby stopped dead and struck an attitude.

"Do you know that she was coming out with me, and when I went to fetch her she'd gone with that—that——"

"I don't know what you're talking about," said Peter, most untruthfully.

A hand like a ham came down upon his shoulder. Most of Bobby Foster's weight appeared to be resting upon it. He swayed on a pair of unsteady legs and said in a broken voice.

"Mavis—he's stolen her—cut in on me and stolen her——"

Peter frowned. Bobby was a good fellow if a bit of an ass.

"Look here, Bobby," he said, "it's simply foul in there—what you want is nice fresh air. You come along with me. If you feel you've got to, you can tell me all about it."

Bobby took no notice.

"I'll knock his head off!" he said in alarmingly loud tones. "Knock it right off and kick it into the gutter!" His voice rose to a bellow. "Shooting's too good for him—that's what I say! The dirty swab! Ouch!" He sprang back with extraordinary agility, managed to regain his balance, and demanded with indignation, "What'd you do that for?"

"It's nothing to what I'll do if you don't stop making such a row."

Mr. Robert Foster nursed his left arm, made several attempts to pronounce the word jujitsu, and fell back upon "Damned dirty trick!"

"Apologize or I won't go another step. Do you get that? Apologize!"

"You know, if I were you I should go home," said Peter.

"Would you?"

"Yes—and I'd go to bed."

Mr. Robert Foster became suddenly overcome with emotion.

"Ah, but then you haven't lost the only girl you ever loved. And I have. And I've not only lost her, I've had her stolen from me. And by a dirty swab with pots of money. Pots, and pots, and pots of money. And what I say is, shooting's too good for him." He dropped suddenly back into the commonplace. "And now I'll go home."

"Yes, I should," said Peter with relief.

Having got Bobby into a taxi before he could change his mind, he continued on his way.

It was a little short of 12 o'clock when he got back to Craddock house. Mary Craddock's Dresden china clock was striking the hour as he came into the flat and shut the outside door with a bang.

It was more than an hour later that he waked with great suddenness. Waked, or was awakened? For the moment he wasn't sure, but the more he thought about it the more it came to him that something had waked him up. He put on the light and looked about him. The clock made it half past one.

He got up and looked into the sitting room. There were some heavy portraits there. One of them might have fallen. But old David Craddock in neckcloth and whiskers still gloomed between the windows, his wife, Elizabeth, stood stiff in puce brocade, whilst over the mantelpiece his daughters, Mary and Elinor, in white muslin and blue ribbons, played with an artificial woolly lamb.

He went back to the bedroom and listened. He could hear nothing, but that impression of having heard some loud and unfamiliar sound was very strong. The bed stood with its head against the wall which separated this flat from the next. Ross Craddock's sitting room lay on the other side of it. If something had crashed in that room it might very easily have waked him from his sleep.

A crash—yes, that was what it had been. The impression was getting stronger all the time. He hesitated for a moment, and then went to the outer door and opened it. A light burned on the landing all night long. Rather a dingy light, but sufficient to show him the empty lift shaft, two flights of stairs, one up, one down, and the perfectly bare landing with Lucy Craddock's door facing him across it, and Ross Craddock's door on his right facing the entrance to the lift. There wasn't the slightest sound of anything stirring. The whole great block might have been uninhabited except for himself.

He was just stepping back, when the door of Ross' flat was wrenched open and Mavis Grey ran out. Her silver dress was torn. She tripped and stumbled over it as she ran, and it tore again. Before Peter had any idea what she was going to do she flung herself into his arms, and before he had time to say more than "What on earth——" Ross Craddock stood in the open doorway staring at them.

He stared, and he stood there swaying as if he were drunk.

"Look here, hold up. What's happened?" Peter asked.

She was clutching him and sobbing violently.

"O, Peter! O, don't let him touch me!"

Peter said, "It's like that, is it? What have you done to her? Mavis, pull yourself together. Has he hurt you?"

"Of course I haven't," said Ross.

He laughed in a confused sort of way. He had one hand to his head. He dropped it now and held it out palm upwards. The palm was darkly stained. Blood ran down his face from a cut above the eye. He laughed again and said heavily:

"I was the one that got hurt."

"Well, we can't have a scene about it here," said Peter. "Come in if you've anything to say."

Mavis sobbed and clung to him.

Ross said, "Thank you, I've had enough." He stood there and watched them, swaying.

Peter stepped back and banged his door. He was in a state of pure rage. This would happen as soon as Lucy had gone away. And a bit of pure luck if no one had heard Mavis sob. She had made enough noise over it in all conscience. He removed her arms from about his neck, put her firmly into Mary Craddock's big armchair, and said:

"You'd better tell me what's happened."

Mavis let her head fall back against the cushion.

"Something to drink——" she said faintly.

Peter brought her cold water. She revived sufficiently to register indignation.

"I don't call water something to drink!"

"If you'd stuck to the water wagon you wouldn't be here tonight," said Peter grimly.

Mavis shuddered. She was suddenly young and disarming.

"You don't seem to notice what a lot you're drinking when every one's doing it, too, but it does make you do things you wish you hadn't afterwards—doesn't it."

"It has been known to."

Foolish Wife of Model Mate Suspects Rival

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

"I am in the mid-thirties and have been married to my man for seventeen years. My friends and relations consider him a model husband. He gives me his whole salary. He helps me with the work at home when ne is around Saturday and Sunday. Yet he is indifferent. He never kisses me; never puts an arm around me. He tells me to my face that he is over loving me. But I know that he loves our only child passionately and this is, perhaps, the reason for his being so good in the other things.

"I have everything I want. He never goes away from home alone nights, and not because I don't want him to go. He simply does not care to go. Could he be in love with another woman? His indifference makes me so unhappy.

"I love him and the idea of losing him drives me insane. What can I do to win his love? "UNHAPPY."

When we read a communication such as yours, Unhappy, we marvel at the talent some women have for messing up their lives. Also, we are startled at the manner in which they can build up in their minds a case against a man with all the evidence pointing to his innocence.

Lordy, what more can a woman ask of life than to have everything she wants, a man considerate enough to help her on his days off, a man who never wanders from home?

Is it that she wants to see him enmeshed in an affair over which she can berate him? Does she feel, perhaps, that because other women are not running after him she has been cheated out of something? We can't figure you ridiculous women out who can't see and appreciate the sterling qualities.

Wanting a man to keep on telling you he loves you after seventeen years of marriage bespeaks a not-grown-up mind. You annoy him, no doubt, with the perpetual craving for applause.

Leave him alone and let him work up a fervor for your kisses by himself. Trying to force them is pretty irksome.

If you want your children to drink milk, drink it yourself. Parents directly influence the milk drinking habits of their children by their own consumption of milk, a recent survey of more than 5,000 school children in New York indicates.

Little girls tend to follow the examples set by their mothers and little boys imitate their fathers in the quantity of milk consumed, this study showed.

NEW KITCHEN GADGET: An apple slicer that cuts fruit into eight neat sections, removing the core at the same time. Apples prepared in this way are attractive and easy to eat.

SOLUTION TO KITCHENETTE BAKING PROBLEMS: An electric oven, well insulated and with controled heat, which may be plugged into a convenient outlet and needs no special wiring. Compact, neat, and equipped for all kinds of oven cooking, including broiling, it's a blessing for the woman who likes to bake, roast, and broil, but hasn't the proper equipment in her little kitchen.

SOMETHING NEW IN LUNCH BOXES: This one is electric. A hot meal may be had at noontime if there's an outlet handy. Three single portion covered containers hold the food and beverage which can be reheated in a twinkling. These are located in the top of the box. In the bottom is room for the sandwiches and cookies, as well as the cord with which to "plug in." The whole thing is average lunch box size.

GARDEN FRESH CANNED GOODS: A new canning process sterilizes and cooks food in the can so quickly that all the freshness of flavor is retained. At least one store in Chicago carries these vegetables, which are brand new on the market.

NEW IMPROVED STAINLESS STEEL KITCHENWARE: Beautiful stainless steel utensils have been designed with copper bottoms. This remedies the sole objection to stainless steel, uneven heating. Copper, you know, is an excellent conductor of heat, although not practical for the whole of a utensil which receives constant use. The new kitchenware offers many a possibility for wedding gifts which will be exclaimed over, then put to good sturdy use.

The bill to outlaw the use of tomatoes in Maine clam chowder has aroused a good deal of controversy among gourmets and gourmet-cooks. One of the latter has sent in a time-tested favorite recipe, which contains tomato soup. This is it.

"Cut ½ pound salt pork in small dice and cook slowly with 2 or 3 chopped onions, 2 cups diced potatoes, 1 cup chopped celery. Add 1 quart or more boiling water, ½ can concentrated tomato soup thinned with ½ cup water, 2 or 3 beef cubes, a little powdered thyme or poultry seasoning, some paprika or cayenne pepper, 1 tablespoon of Worcestershire sauce, some dried parsley, and, lastly, 18 or 24 prepared clams, chopped in a wooden bowl with 2 cups cracker meal. Salt and season to taste." This recipe makes approximately a gallon.

Our contributor prepares the clams the night before by scrubbing and packing round side down in an enamel pan, then covering with water and bringing to a boil, when the clams will open. She cools them, removes them from the shells, and strains the liquid to be used in the chowder next day.

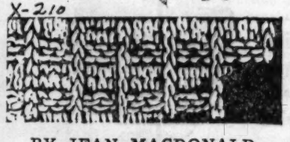
Knitted Sweater Styled to Please 16 Year Old Boy



BY JEAN MACDONALD.

It is time some one gave definite consideration to the 16 year old boy, who unquestionably is clothes-conscious. Suits are of major importance, but the correct accessories for any and all occasions rate second in prominence. The good looking hand-knitted sweater is zipped down the front and has a small turnover collar. The stitch is easy to knit, is a thoroughly masculine one, and is a change from the usual stockinette stitch.

For instructions for knitting the sweater for the 16 year old boy, No. X-210, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Welcomes Two Pleasing Shows to Art World

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

Two interesting exhibitions opened yesterday. At the Arts club is a group of three shows: Paintings by John Kane and Maurice Grosser and wash drawings by Herman Webster. At the Lakeside Press galleries, 350 East 22d street, are paintings and drawings by John Steuart Curry, the third important American exhibit this gallery has put on, the previous two being comprehensive exhibits of the works of Thomas Benton and Grant Wood.

Of the three exhibitions at the Arts club the most delightful is that of drawings by Mr. Webster, an ex-Chicagoan who has lived so long in Paris and New York he has broken nearly every tie that bound him to us.

Mr. Webster was at one time an etcher, but the close work that that craft entails became gradually too hard a strain upon his eyes and he changed to drawing. For this we can be glad. No more delightful, charming, sensitive, stunning work could be imagined than is found in his current exhibit. Like Rembrandt, you think, or, like Goya, and then something better than any similitude sweeps to you from them and you know that these pictures are like nothing but themselves, the perfect expression of a gifted craftsman.

Mr. Webster has drawn upon most of Europe for his material and you will recognize pieces of Venice and Rome and Paris here and there, each perfectly rendered. His dearest love, however, is windmills and a series of these gives you many reasons for their hold upon his imagination and affections.

The paintings by John Kane, in the large gallery are remarkable chiefly for their price, which has grown since his recent death into four figures. Kane, as you remember, was a house painter who amused himself by painting pictures on Sundays and in his spare time. Modern art, which favored the primitive, took him to its bosom shortly before his death and favorable and increasing publicity has done the rest. The pictures are crude, tight, hard, but are possessed of that naïve charm which nearly any untutored utterance in paint can give.

The paintings by Maurice Grosser are infinitely better done. They are the product of a painter, not an amateur. Still life is a favorite theme and stunning arrangements with grapes, eggs, pineapple, figs, and beans, shells and stones, greet one. A few portraits attest to his ability at getting a likeness and turning out an attractive composition.

The John Steuart Curry paintings at the Lakeside gallery are well worth seeing. Curry began as an illustrator and his dramatic canvases still have a flavor of illustration, though on a magnificent scale. They recount the epic struggle between man and nature as Kansas knows it. Tornado and cyclone are real dangers. On the other hand there are farm scenes with fertile, flat fields and there is the thrill to ordinary living that religion and sports may bring. Mr. Curry shows them all to us. His circus studies are vigorous and forceful.

The drawings are, sometimes, more convincing than the large canvases. His self-portrait and a portrait of a woman in blue, above the elevators, are two of the finest things in the show.

ENGAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd G. Gage of Wilmette have announced the engagement of their daughter, Mary Cornelia, to Pierre Marot Purves, son of Mrs. Austin M. Purves of Philadelphia, Pa., and the late Mr. Purves.

Miss Gage is a graduate of Ferry Hall in Lake Forest and of Wellesley college. Mr. Purves attended the University of Pennsylvania and took graduate work at the Sorbonne in Paris and at Princeton university. He received his doctor's degree at the University of Pennsylvania and now is connected with the Oriental institute at the University of Chicago.

WEDDING

The wedding of Miss Janice Loeb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Meyer Loeb of Washington, D. C., to Morton S. Kaufmann, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel B. Kaufmann of 5120 Harper avenue, will take place on March 30 in Washington. Mr. Kaufmann and his bride will make their home in Washington. Mr. Kaufmann was graduated from the University of Michigan and the University of Louisville.

House Frock Has Full Skirt

WOMAN'S AND MISS' FROCK.

You can be right in the swing of things with a full skirted house frock. The style lends chic as well as freedom and comfort in walking. Whereas the skirt of this dress is plentifully shirred, the waistline is snugly fitted, and smartly so. The bodice adheres to the practical surplice lines, and adopts a soft collar that may be left plain or be edged with any trimming you like. The always practical rickrack is an ace possibility. The sleeves of this dress are puffed at the shoulders, and may be left plain or have cuffs to match the collar.

Prints of all types, stripes, and plain colors make up well. The collar and cuffs should contrast, if you use them.

Style No. 2521 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20, and 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measurement.

Ballet Returns to Full House at Auditorium

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo moved into the Auditorium theater last night for a three day, five performance engagement. Immediately the old building was packed with enchantment and—just as important to the management—with thousands of eager customers.

Opening this first bill was the romantic, melodramatic "Giselle," a thing of blasted trees, lonely graveyards, thwarted love and all the rest. It was followed by the "Bluebird" dance from "Aurora's Wedding," wherein the wonderful leaps and bounds of classical ballet have been preserved in compact form for the edification of a new generation.

After these two violently contrasting pieces came a ballet which is as different from them as they are from each other—the sparkling, naughty "Gaité Parisienne," with more gleaming thigh and more wanton skirt waving than the rest of the répertoire combined can offer.

The audience had chance after chance to greet its favorite dancers and to hurl volleys of applause at them over the footlights. There was Alexandra Danilova, light as air and much more comely, coquetting with saucer eyed Massine and dancing that intoxicating waltz with Frederic Franklin. On each visit Massine's art—a combination of pantomime, dancing, and a third more subtle ingredient of his own—seems richer in exquisite detail than ever before.

Louise Meiszner, 14 year old St. Louis born pianist, played a debut recital in Kimball hall last night. Her list comprised works of Bach, Beethoven, Chopin, Schumann, Debussy, Dohnányi, and Liszt.

Judging by the first third of her program, Miss Meiszner is a pianist with a sturdy technique, a fine singing tone, and complete stage confidence. But the Bach A minor prelude and fugue and the Beethoven "Pathetique" sonata do not yet mean anything to her personally, and she strove vainly to make them significant to her listeners by means of countless arbitrary hurryings and lingerings, increases and decreases of volume, and great sharp accents. Naturally, the pieces lost their serenity.

The Chopin nocturne in G major was much better.

Many Factors Help Adjust School Child

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

School problems come in thick and fast. Since they come from many different towns, cities, and rural centers, they necessarily come from parents whose children are in schools of many different sorts with different ways of teaching. Among them are public school systems, some of which are definitly progressive, others backward, and also private schools of both sorts. This difference in teaching methods, in attitudes toward the child and his parents, and in the cooperation that can be gained for pupils having individual difficulties, makes it far from easy for me to give practical advice. When you add that there always will be children who always will have trouble with academic subjects it is easy to see that I cannot, in either personal replies or in this column, make suggestions that will solve all these problems.

After all, it takes a number of things to make school life a successful experience for children:

1. A child's health and home training figure, as well as the parents' feeling about his school and studies. That is, parents should certainly cooperate with the school, but likewise that contact should be welcomed by principal and teacher.

2. The teacher should love her work, understand children, know how to teach, and be able to arouse and hold the children's interest.

3. The school or the school system should be in tune with advanced ideas on education, which still have far to go. That means the school should be geared to the child's needs in the world of today.

4. And there should be enough flexibility and expert psychological service for the child who is in physical or intellectual difficulties to be helped out of them.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1939: By Ely Culbertson.]

It has been truly pointed out that a player may never relax for a moment at match-point duplicate. At rubber bridge, when the declarer can see that his contract is ironclad, he cannot be greatly blamed for being casual about overtricks at twenty or thirty points each. At duplicate, however, these overtricks may be, and usually are, the crucial factor in determining top scores. In a recent New York eight-table duplicate game seven declarers complacently bid and made four hearts on the following hand. Only one declarer made an extra trick. This gifted individual received seven match-points on the board, the others had to be satisfied with three points each. Thus, as will be seen, a difference of four match-points resulted from a mere overtrick!

North, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

♣ K 10 9 5 3

SOUTH
♠ A ♠ 2
♥ K Q J 10
♦ 5 3 2
♣ 8 4 2

At all tables the contract was four hearts, the bidding usually proceeding:

North	East	South	West
1 diamond	Pass	1 heart	Pass
3 hearts	Pass	3 no trump	Pass
4 hearts	Pass	Pass	Pass

Strangely enough, the opening lead was the same at all eight tables, namely, the spade king. In most cases the South players permitted this to hold, hoping for a Bath coup [a spade continuation up to the A-J], but invariably, at the second trick, West shifted to the diamond queen. Seven declarers promptly put up dummy's king, cashed the club ace, entered the South hand with a trump, and ruffed a club. They repeated this process a second time and then had to use the spade ace for entry to their own hand in order to draw the outstanding trumps. At the end they were left with another spade and a diamond loser, hence had to be content with exactly four-odd.

Top score was won in the following manner: The spade king was permitted to hold the first trick and, when West shifted to the diamond queen, this was ducked. Declarer saw that if the diamond suit were to break 3-3, the ducking play would be valuable in that he could later discard a spade on dummy's fourth diamond. There might, however, be an additional value in passing the diamond queen. West had shown the king and queen of spades by his opening lead. If he also had four diamonds, an interesting situation might develop.

After West held the second trick with the diamond jack, he shifted to a low club. Dummy's ace won and declarer entered his own hand with a trump to the ten, to ruff a club. The nine of hearts was overtaken with the jack and declarer's last club was ruffed with the trump ace. Now, the spade ace was utilized for an entry and declarer cashed the king and queen of hearts. On the first of these, West safely discarded his last club, but on the second was in deep water. He could not give up the spade queen without establishing declarer's jack, nor could he let go a diamond without presenting dummy with three diamond tricks. Not being sure who held the spade jack, and feeling that it was more important to guard the diamond suit, West let go the spade queen. Declarer cashed the jack of spades and then collected the ace and king of diamonds for fulfillment of the contract and an extra trick.

The passing of the second diamond trick had been the crucial point in this play. It had resulted in a squeeze on West between spades and diamonds.

INDIANA, OHIO CARRY BIG TEN RACE TO FINISH

Loss for One Would Break Title Tie.

Final bids of the Indiana and Ohio State basketball teams for the Western conference championship will be made tonight when the Hoosiers meet Michigan in Ann Arbor and Ohio plays Purdue in Columbus. These contests will hold chief interest among three listed for tonight, the third of which brings Chicago and Wisconsin together on the Midway.

Indiana and Ohio have won nine games and lost two. Each has beaten the other in their home and home series. Indiana's hopes of gaining the title appear to be brighter than Ohio's, however, as the Hoosiers face in Michigan one of the two cellar teams. Ohio, on the other hand, will be confronted by a Purdue team that has won its last two contests and which dealt Indiana one of its two defeats.

See Record Crowd in Columbus.

It is reported that the Ohio-Purdue game will attract a crowd that will break the Ohio home attendance record of 10,641, set in a Purdue-Ohio game in 1924. All except a few general admission tickets for standing room have been sold.

The game also is expected to see Capt. Jimmy Hull, Ohio forward, capture the Big Ten individual scoring title. Hull has scored 149 points, two less than Lewis [Pick] Dehner of Illinois, which has completed its season. John Schick probably will start with Hull at forward for Ohio, Sattler will be at center, and Bob Lynch and Dawson at guards. Bob Igney and Tom Dickinson, forwards; Capt. Gene Anderson, center, and Fred Beretta and Elwood Yeager make up the probable Purdue starting lineup.

Indiana, team scoring leader of the conference, is expected to roll to an easy victory over Michigan. The Wolverines have won only two of ten Big Ten games and, aside from Chicago, have the poorest scoring record in the conference.

Chicago Meets Wisconsin.

Indiana's starting five will include two men who have been teammates since grade school days, Capt. Ernie Andres, guard, and Bill Johnson, forward. They played together for four years at Jeffersonville [Ind.] High school before enrolling at Indiana. Bob Dro, forward; Bill Menke, center, and Marvin Huffman, guard, will complete the starting Indiana team.

Chicago, cellar occupant along with Michigan, is more likely to emerge than the Wolverines. Its opponent, Wisconsin, has won but four of eleven Big Ten games. The Badgers whipped Minnesota their last time out, however, while Chicago was routed by Illinois. The Maroons may have to play without Chet Murphy, guard, who has been ill with mumps.

In the final conference games next Monday night Northwestern will meet Michigan at Ann Arbor, Minnesota will play at Iowa, and Chicago will be at Purdue.

MANN OUTPOINTS KNOX; COMISKEY HELD TO A DRAW

New York, March 3.—(AP)—Natie Mann, New Haven heavyweight, scored his fifth straight victory tonight by outpointing Buddy Knox of Dayton, O., in ten bruising rounds in Madison Square Garden. Mann weighed 191¾, Knox 190¾.

A disappointing crowd of 5,142 saw Mann left jabbed dizzy during the first five rounds. Finally he began finding the range with his right hand shots and took the last five rounds in a row on the Associated Press score card, which gave him an edge of six rounds to three, with one even.

For the first time in his twelve fights, Patrick Edward Comiskey, Paterson, N. J., heavyweight, failed to come out on the winning end as Gene Bonin, a rough New Haven husky held him to a six round draw. The fight was the first Comiskey has fought at six rounds. All his others were scheduled four rounders, but only one went that far. He had won ten of his eleven previous starts by knockouts.

DI MAGGIO SIGNS; REPORT SALARY BOOST TO $27,000

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 3.—[Special.]—The New York Yankees' list of 1939 holdouts was reduced to three today with the announcement by Manager Joe McCarthy that Outfielder Joe Di Maggio has signed his contract. Di Maggio, a holdout after the season began last year, was reported to have been given a salary of $27,000, a raise of $2,000 over last season. The absentees from the champions' roster now are Joe Gordon, Frank Crosetti, and Red Rolfe.

This is the earliest date that Di Maggio has signed his contract since joining the Yankees in 1936. He held out until March 20 in 1937 and didn't put his name on the dotted line until April 25 last year.

HARTNETT MAPS A NEW BRAND OF SPIRIT FOR CUBS

All for One, One for All, Is Gabby's Theme.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 3.—[Special.]—Come this time tomorrow and Gabby Hartnett will have his entire pack of young and old, skilled and medium skilled Cubs on location on Catalina Island.

Traveling Secretary Bob Lewis came over to the mainland ahead of time today that he might better underwrite the complete comfort of the fifteen members of the second squad in their voyage across the channel to Mr. Wrigley's magic isle. Mr. Lewis will meet the Santa Fe train at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow morning bearing a huge gonfalon with Manager Hartnett's new slogan:

"One for all and all for one; just one big happy family of contented Cubs."

Hartnett Goes in For Spirit.

Despite the size of the banner some of the lettering was a bit crowded and almost illegible in spots. But the spirit of Hartnett's defending champions was there. And a nifty slogan it is, too, all agreed.

Ever since the second day the first squad of Cubs went into training, Manager Hartnett has been chortling about the rousing spirit of camaraderie he believes will characterize the National league defending champions this season.

The Cub skipper expects the formation of no new scheming cliques with the assembly of the entire squad. Of course there will be the usual amount of pal stuff, but ganging up on the boss, sometimes a menace in the past, isn't even considered a mild threat by Gabby.

One type of more or less bitter rivalry Hartnett will seek to preserve. He doesn't want earnest pitchers to have too much good will for puny hitters and he doesn't expect bruising hitters to be overly cordial to pitchers, who can't protect plump leads built up by the batsmen.

The Boys Will Go Social.

Carrying out the friendship theme, Gabby will not ask the newcomers to don their costumes tomorrow afternoon. Instead of sweating on arrival day the infielders and outfielders will join the battery men at tea in the Hotel St. Catherine at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. The first squadders' ninth drill will be cut to an hour to enable the fellows to participate in the welcome at the dock.

The new arrivals will be thrown into high gear the minute they show up Sunday. The batting cage will be in position as soon as the players reach the training field and soon after they will be swinging against the best pitching that can be served them.

In the Wake of the News

We Give You Illinois.

Dick Bowles should have studied the map of good old Illinois before he began raving about Kansas and its namesakes of famous cities. The Prairie state has Pittsburg, Madison, Charleston, Atlanta, Omaha, Jacksonville, Lansing, Oakland, Newark, Rochester, Washington, Manhattan, Toledo, Monticello, Mount Vernon, and Philadelphia to name a few, to say nothing of an Ohio, a Virigina, an Oregon, and a Wyoming. Wait a minute, this will stop him: We also have a Kansas. Let this be a geography lesson to him.

GOLDEN GLOVES SEMI-FINALISTS RESUME DRILLS

Return to Fight Before 21,000 Next Friday.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

In widely scattered gymnasiums from Cleveland to Kansas City, 32 amateur boxers will resume training today in preparation for their attempts to win Golden Gloves titles next Friday in the Chicago Stadium. This group of 32 consists of the fighters who were left standing when the Tournament of Champions ended last Wednesday. Four survive in each weight division.

These boys will box before 21,000 in Friday's semi-finals and finals. Every seat in the world's largest indoor arena has been sold. Boxing fans who were late in ordering tickets for this event, which is sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., may still get to see the best of these fighters in action in the Intercity Golden Gloves bouts with New York, which will be held in the Stadium March 29.

Chicago's Seven Work Out.

Chicago's seven representatives in the semi-finals took light workouts yesterday, some in the C. Y. O. gymnasium, others in the Savoy A. C.

Chicago has two in the flyweight division, Al Noto and Willie Moon; one in the bantamweight, Frank Bausone; two in the featherweight, Homer Williams and Joe Dupont; one in the lightweight, Johnny Pleasant, and one in the middleweight, Curtis McDaniels.

The out of town fighters swept the welterweight, light heavyweight, and heavyweight classes clear of all local contenders. Cleveland placed a fighter in each of these divisions.

The north side was the only section of the city that failed to send a boxer through to the semi-finals. Noto and Dupont qualified from the west side, Williams and Pleasant from the south, and McDaniels from the northwest. Moon and Bausone qualified automatically for the Stadium bouts because they are C. Y. O. champions.

Cleveland Likes Its Light Heavy.

Cleveland has high hopes of taking the light heavyweight title with its powerful representative, Jimmy Reeves. Joe Murdock of Detroit, Tony Plesha of Grand Rapids, and Shelton Bell of Dayton will furnish strong opposition, however.

In every weight class the towns represented are highly diversified, Chicago being the only city to place more than one boxer in any one division. The survivors include boys from 13 of the 46 out of town centers where newspapers coöperated with Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., in the sponsorship of Golden Gloves eliminations.

Stagehand Has 8 Rivals in Hialeah's Widener Test

Miami, Fla., March 3.—[Special.]—Nine thoroughbreds will parade to the post tomorrow as the Florida racing season reaches its climax with the fourth running of the $50,000 Widener Challenge Cup at Hialeah Park.

Earl Sande.

Maxwell Howard's Stagehand is certain to go to the post a heavy favorite. Racing circles are certain that the odds at post time will be no better than 7 to 10. Stagehand became a standout when the Glen Riddle farm's War Admiral was withdrawn because of illness.

Stagehand's victory in the McLennan handicap in his 1939 debut showed he was ready for the Widener. Far back at the half mile pole, he came with a rush to win drawing away. The McLennan was at a mile and a furlong. The Widener is a furlong farther, but the longer the race the better Stagehand seems to like it.

Two Added to Field.

Two horses were added to the field today. They are Warlaine and Xavier of the Wesley Sears farm. Others named are Tomara stable's Teddy Weed, in the No. 1 post position; Calumet farm's Bull Lea, Mrs. W. Plunket Stewart's Pasteurized, Marshall Field's Sir Damion, B. F. Whitaker's Mythical King, and Francesco of the Darby Dan farm.

Stagehand appears to be a much better horse than in 1938. He has picked up weight, and Trainer Earl Sande has him ready to run the race of his life. Since the McLennan triumph Stagehand has trained brilliantly. There will be little excuse for him if he loses, provided, of course, that racing luck breaks even and the track is fast. If it is muddy, Stagehand may have trouble. Sande says he doesn't like soft underfooting.

Stagehand was the world's leading money winning thoroughbred last year with earnings of $189,710. His total winnings are now $196,110. After whipping Seabiscuit in the Santa Anita handicap last year, Stagehand went on to take the Santa Anita Derby, the Empire City handicap, the Narragansett Special, and the Governor's handicap at Narragansett.

Sir Damion Has Speed.

While the general belief is Stagehand will win the Widener in decisive manner, the race may furnish plenty of thrills. Sir Damion, for instance, has so much speed he may take the lead from the start. There is some question as to his ability to run ten furlongs, but Don Meade, who will ride him, thinks the Field horse will not find the route too much for him. Pasteurized, the Belmont Stakes winner last year, is temperamental, but if he is in a running mood he may give Stagehand gruelling competition.

Bull Lea should be considered a strong contender because he was beaten only a neck by Stagehand in the McLennan in track record time of 1:48 1/5. Bull Lea whipped Stagehand in the James C. Thornton Memorial at Narragansett last August.

A crowd of 25,000 is expected.

Snead Wins by Stroke in Golf Playoff

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 3.—(AP)—Sammy Snead, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., won the St. Petersburg open golf championship today, defeating Henry Picard, Hershey, Pa., in a twenty-five hole playoff.

Snead and Picard shot 69, three under par, for the first eighteen holes after tying at 207, nine under par, for the fifty-four holes of the tournament. Snead won the playoff at the twenty-fifth hole by sinking a four foot putt for a birdie two. Picard took a three.

Snead's victory gave him top money of $700 and his first major tournament victory in many weeks. He was the leading money winner of 1938.

Although Picard missed out on a third straight tournament triumph, second place money of $450 boosted to $3,150 his winnings for the last two weeks. He took top prize of $2,000 in the $10,000 Crescent City open in New Orleans two weeks ago and his first at Thomasville last week brought him another $700.

It was the longest playoff in the history of the St. Petersburg open, which has produced overtime play for four straight years.

Leonard Dodson of Springfield, Mo., defeated Harry Cooper of Chicago in the 1936 playoff. The next year Harry Cooper won from Horton Smith, Oak Park, Ill., and Ralph Guldahl, Coral Gables, Fla. Last year Johnny Revolta of Evanston, Ill., defeated Chandler Harper of Portsmouth, Va.

Today's cards:

Par—Out	443	445	354—36
Picard	444	444	254—35
Snead	343	445	345—35
Par—In	444	435	435—36—72
Picard	334	425	445—34—69
Snead	345	325	435—34—69

Kalamazoo, Mich., March 3.—[Special.]—Armour Tech won its fifth consecutive swimming meet tonight by beating Kalamazoo college, 49 to 26.

DODGERS CALL ON JUDGE LANDIS TO SPANK MUNGO

Clearwater, Fla., March 3.—[Special.]—Fed up with Van Lingle Mungo's tantrums, the Brooklyn ball club has filed a complaint with Kenesaw M. Landis, commissioner of baseball, concerning the problem pitcher's off season activities. Landis, at his winter headquarters in Bellair, Fla., tonight ordered Mungo to report for questioning. The conference probably will take place tomorrow.

"We merely called the commissioner's attention to the fact that Mungo has violated the terms of his contract," Vice President Larry MacPhail revealed.

Cites Examples Against Mungo.

"Mungo was given a month on a half salary—about $1,800—and permitted to go home last fall on the understanding that he would not engage in any form of athletics during the winter and that he was not to throw a ball until he reported to the Dodgers' training camp.

"Mungo broke the agreement on two counts. He managed and played with a basketball team he organized at Pageland and he was an instructor at Joe Stripp's school in Orlando. These seem to be pretty strenuous activities for a fellow who has been complaining about a sore arm for the last two years and has been paid at the rate of $100 an inning while we've been nursing him."

Spurns $5,000 Contract.

Landis, who has certain jurisdiction over ball players throughout the year, can slap a fine, a suspension, or both on the big pitcher.

Mungo may meet with MacPhail here and discuss his contract. The big fellow, who has been threatening for five years to develop into one of the great pitchers in baseball, was paid $15,000 a season in both 1937 and 1938, but he was offered a contract calling for only $5,000 this year.

Gordon [Babe] Phelps, star catcher, signed his contract today. Fred Sington, another holdout, reached camp and practiced, but did not agree to terms.

18 NOMINATIONS FILED FOR SANTA ANITA FEATURE

Kayak II. and Cravat Likely Favorites.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., March 3.—The world's richest race, the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap, will be run on a fast track at Santa Anita Park tomorrow, according to late forecasts this afternoon. This is significant news because earlier predictions had been for rain—much rain.

Owners of mudders, like Jacola and Thanksgiving, were obliged to put away their oars and watch the prices shorten on the probable favorites, Townsend B. Martin's Cravat and the C. S. Howard entry—those two South American stars, Kayak II and Sorteado, which will be carrying on best they can the colors that would have been borne by the indisposed Seabiscuit.

Winner Likely to Pay 4-1.

Standout facts in the overnight guess box are:

Sixteen to start—goo or good. Eighteen had passed the entry box today.

Winner almost certain to pay 4 to 1 or better with six horses probably getting the bulk of the betting play.

Probably 60,000 attendance.

The same uncertainty that has marked the preliminary steps prevail almost up to the gong. However, weather predictions varying as they are, it seems certain that the field, with but two exceptions, is gaited to almost any condition. Moving up in regard in the event of mud are Thanksgiving, Jacola, Gosum, Sorteado, War Minstrel, and even Mrs. Emil Denemark's Melodist, one time show winner to War Admiral in a Kentucky Derby.

Three May Be Withdrawn.

The betting minds, with no great name horses present to inspire them, are in pretty much of a hodge podge. The public seems to have a liking for at least six horses which are certain to get the major portion of the $500,000 expected to be bet on the handicap.

It is expected that with the settling of the weather uncertainty three of the eighteen horses now listed to start will be missing at post time. Based on fifteen actual starters the load of dough will accrue and be distributed as follows:

Added by the Los Angeles Turf club	$100,000
107 nominations at $100	10,700
Eighteen entered today at $250	4,500
Additional $750 to start [fifteen starters]	11,250
Estimated stakes	$126,450
Extra to winning trainer	10,000
Total	$136,450
Division of purse:
Winner	$91,450
Second	20,000
Third	10,000
Fourth	5,000

Fifth Running of Race.

Olimpo, Methodist, and Amor Brujo are doubtful starters in the event of a fast track for the fifth running of the mile and a quarter race.

If last year's attendance record is not surpassed it will not be for lack of facilities. Since last year the clubhouse has been enlarged and space has been provided in the parking area for 22,000 more autos than could be accommodated a year ago.

The handle for the handicap last year was $406,994, with the day's total reaching $1,635,069. Because the Santa Anita Derby on Feb. 22 was off as compared with a year ago, officials of the horse park were not willing to predict a boost in this year's handicap totals. Others, however, predicted a half million dollar handle for the feature, basing estimates on the wide open nature of the starless entry list.

There was sunshine on the track throughout today's card, though the tops of the nearby mountains were obscured by black clouds. The weather bulletin received late this afternoon read: "Partly cloudy Saturday with showers in the mountains, but no rain is expected over the flat country. There may be a small amount of rain tonight."

FIELD HORSES—Amor Brujo, Plaza, and Olimpo.

HAWKS, STILL IN RACE, BATTLE TORONTO LEAFS

Sixth Place at Stake in Tonight's Game.

New York, March 3.—[Special.]—The Chicago Blackhawks, their hopes of gaining the Stanley cup playoffs of the National Hocky league considerably revived by their handsome 3 to 1 victory over the New York Rangers last night, left here this evening for Toronto, where tomorrow night they will battle the Maple Leafs for the last time of the regular season.

Hawks Confident.

The triumph over the Rangers still left the Hawks in last place, a half game behind the Montreal Canadiens, but Coach Paul Thompson and his team, who hadn't won a game in their last five appearances, felt that it was just the tonic they needed.

The mathematics of the situation favor the Hawks, for the Canadiens will be idle while the Chicagoans are meeting the Leafs tomorrow night. Even a tie against Toronto would raise the Hawks to a sixth place deadlock with the Flying Frenchmen, and thus set the stage for a real battle Sunday, when the Canadiens will invade the Chicago Stadium. A victory tomorrow night will give the Hawks a clear hold on sixth place, and a half game margin over the Canadiens, whom they have beaten four times in six meetings thus far. They meet for the eighth and last time of the regular schedule in Montreal on March 16.

Chance for Revenge.

As far as the Leafs are concerned, the Hawks would enjoy trouncing them more than any other team in the league at this writing. In their last argument at Chicago, Toronto allowed the Chicagoans to take a three goal lead, then came back to lick them, 4 to 3, in an overtime. In seven games to date, Toronto has won three, Chicago two and two have ended in ties.

The Canadiens' invasion of the Stadium Sunday will bring the league's leading scorer in Hector [Toe] Blake, who is out in front of all scorers by a four point margin over Sweeny Schriner of the New York Americans.

Spencer Whips Balmer for 4th Victory in Row

Fight Decisions

At Omaha, Neb.—Carl Vinciquerra beat Charley Berlanger, [6].

At West Palm Beach, Fla.—Pietro Georgi knocked out Ralph Chong, [3].

At New Britain, Conn.—Mike Kaplan beat Joe Ghnouly, [10].

Gene Spencer, South Chicago 131 pound boxer, stretched his string to four victories by beating Johnny Balmer of Peoria in a five round bout in White City last night. The decision of Referee Phil Collins and Judges James Lynch and William O'Connell was unanimous. Joe Lubin, Chicago heavyweight, pounded out a decision over Al Globe of El Paso, Tex., in the five round secondary feature. In other matches George Palmer stopped Pete Ferrand in one round, Fernie Bacca knocked out Lyle [Kid] Mason in the first, and Art [Swede] Lind beat Johnny Shaw in four rounds.

While fans still were talking yesterday of the exciting fights held in the Coliseum Thursday, Promoter Irving Schoenwald did some figuring which revealed that the all-star show realized a profit of approximately $3,500.

Matchmaker James C. Mullen said the next date available for a fight in the Coliseum is April 6. He is negotiating for a ten round bout between Milt Aron, former Dubuque, Ia., sectional Golden Gloves winner, and Tony Canzoneri, former lightweight champion, who is making a comeback as a junior welterweight.

Aron successfully defended his No. 1 welterweight rating in this state by knocking out Johnny Barbara in the ninth round of a scheduled ten round event in the Coliseum Thursday.

Tony Musto, who defeated Henry Wacker in a ten round slugging match, also is available, probably against Tom Kennealy or Buddy Knox. Musto, called the Spoiler, will rest about three weeks before returning to action. Yesterday his managers refused an offer to meet Tom Beaupre in Dallas, Tex., March 17. Meanwhile Wacker has been given an enforced layoff due to a broken left hand. The hand is said to have been injured in the second round.

Billy Marquart, the Winnipeg lightweight, received a cut on each eye during his triumph over Pete Lello in the opening ten round contest which may necessitate cancelation of a listed eight rounder against Jess Ackerman of St. Paul in Rock Island next Wednesday. F. M.

Ackerman, M'Grath Meet in Lake Shore Handball Final

Harry Ackerman Jr., 17 year old handball player, will meet Ray McGrath this afternoon for the Lake Shore Athletic club title. Ackerman upset D. F. Ryan, seeded player, and McGrath defeated Edmund Loftus, defending champion, to enter the final round. Loftus and Ryan will meet to decide third and fourth places.

Lincoln-Belmont 'Y' Mat Team Beats Wheaton, 33-3

The Lincoln-Belmont Y. M. C. A. wrestling team defeated Wheaton college, 33 to 3, last night in the Lincoln-Belmont gym. Ken Lange of Lincoln-Belmont, holder of the city and state Y titles, pinned William Pass in three minutes and five seconds.

MISCELLANEOUS.
Campion at Mount Carmel, 8 p. m.

The Crane, Phillips, and Lane senior basketball teams triumphed yesterday in Chicago Public High School league quarter-final playoff games.

Lane's 34 to 23 victory over Marshall was a surprise. Marshall was unable to stop Forwards Isaac and Heinrich of Lane, and between them this pair scored 29 points. Phillips defeated Hyde Park, 24 to 16, breaking a 5-all tie in the first period, and Crane won from Lake View, 26 to 20.

Latin Wins, Finishes 2d.

Chicago Latin's heavyweights concluded their season by defeating North Park academy, 36 to 29, to take second place in the Private School league. The Latin attack was led by Burke with six baskets and two free throws.

The Oak Park heavies tied Morton for the Suburban league title by beating Evanston, 43 to 28, in their final game. Morton and Oak Park each won ten and lost two, and split their series, Morton winning the first and Oak Park the second.

The St. Ignatius seniors, who clinched the divisional title last week, finished their twelve game schedule in the north section of the Catholic league with a 25 to 24 victory over St. Philip. Durkin's two free throws clinched victory.

St. George Juniors Win.

St. George's juniors defeated Fenwick, 29 to 18, to go into a tie with Weber for the north section lead. In the south section the De La Salle juniors, divisional champions, won their tenth in eleven starts, beating St. Mel, 44 to 15.

Leo stayed in the south section senior race by winning from St. Rita, 35 to 31. Mount Carmel, idle, has won ten and lost one while Leo now has won nine and lost two. Lineups:

Mrs. Chatt Wins Tribune Casting Title

Mrs. Howard Chatt last night continued her string of victories in Tribune casting tournaments, scoring a 96 in the ladies event of the Tribune competition at the National Boat and Sports show on Navy Pier.

It was the third straight time that Mrs. Chatt captured the first place trophy in Tribune tournaments, having won in last year's show and also in the outdoor show held in January in the International amphitheater.

Miss Florence Morrisey was second with a 94, and Mrs. C. H. Nickelsen and Mrs. J. S. Miller tied for third with scores of 91. Mrs. Nickelsen won the castoff.

All three of last night's winners will compete for the Chicagoland championship tonight on the pier, as will other winners of casting events held during the week. The title events will start at 7:30, with trophies to be awarded to the three high scorers.

Junior casters, boys and girls 16 years of age and under, will compete for trophies and medals in the event to start at 2:30 this afternoon.

Today and tomorrow are the final days of the boat and sports show.

BOZEMAN BEATS M'COURT TWICE IN CUE TOURNEY

Cleveland, O., March 3.—(AP)—Jay Bozeman of Chicago defeated Charles McCourt of Cleveland twice today in the national three-cushion billiards tournament. He won the first match, 50 to 36, in fifty-five innings, and the second, 50 to 31, in forty-seven innings.

LAYTON WINS TWICE.

New York, March 3.—(AP)—Johnny Layton, Sedalia, Mo., defeated Arthur Thurnblad of Kenosha, Wis., twice today in the national three-cushion billiards championship. Layton trailed at the start of each game, but rallied to win, 50 to 29, in forty-six innings this afternoon and 50 to 38 in fifty innings tonight.

DENTON, REISELT SPLIT.

Philadelphia, Pa., March 3.—(AP)—Tiff Denton of Kansas City beat Otto Reiselt of Philadelphia, 50 to 41, tonight in fifty-four innings to break even in his two matches here in the national three-cushion billiard tourney. Reiselt won this afternoon, 50 to 48, in fifty-seven innings.

Dion Wins Five Round Fight in Madison A. C.

George Dion of Kankakee, Ill., won the five round feature bout from Bill Betts, south side middleweight, in the Madison Athletic club's amateur boxing show last night. Ray Brown, south side bantamweight, was awarded a five round decision over Earl Merritt of Marquette park in the main supporting contest. Other results:

James Smyles beat Charles Manna [3]; Ray Maher stopped Ed Lewis [3]; Marion Christopher knocked out Frank O'Brien [2]; Joe Mochal beat Art Palaadino [3]; Rueben Linker stopped Teddy Thomas [2].

8,000 CHEER AS JAM SESSION (ON SKATES) BEGINS

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The semi-annual roller skating Derby, née the transcontinental marathon on wheels, was sent on its careening way last night in the Coliseum before a typically hysterical throng of more than 8,000, who began assembling in a jam of their own along Wabash avenue an hour before the event officially started.

It was fitting that the new version of this sport which cut its teeth in Chicago should return to the site of its nativity. Four years ago Leo A. Seltzer, a bright young citizen of Portland, Ore., came to town with the transcontinental Derby, a strong competition in which gents and their lady partners skated from coast to coast. They passed through Salt Lake City, East Dubuque, and West Orange, all in the same building.

Chicago vs. New York.

This was all very interesting, and drew customers from all walks of life, but it lacked the true element of real athletic competition in the eyes of its founder. So it is that Mr. Seltzer has devised the semi-annual Derby, an intercity contest between teams representing Chicago and New York, conducted on a point basis.

Where mere mileage was the important factor in the transcontinental edition of the Derby, speed and skill will be predominant between the hours of 8 and 11 each evening until the Derby is over on the night of March 26. Each city will be represented by five men and five women skaters. Points will be awarded in impromptu jamming, as in bicycle racing, and also in two special open house sessions, which will begin at 9:25 and 10:55 nightly.

A Sports Melange.

The Derby is a composite of several sports, as Mr. Seltzer gleefully pointed out last night. There is the blocking element of football, the jamming side of six day bike racing, and the speed of every other sport involving the use of the limbs. There are even penalties and boxes for serving same, as in hocky.

Marquette's Track Team Beats Chicago

Marquette's well balanced track team defeated Chicago, 71 to 28, in the Midway fieldhouse last night. The Hilltoppers won nine of the eleven events and scored slams in the mile and two mile runs.

Most notable performance of the evening was the vault of 13 feet 6¾ inches by Earl Stolberg, Marquette junior. Stolberg never before had cleared more than 13 feet.

Bob Shurilla, another Marquette junior, was high point man of the meet, with firsts in the broad jump and the 70 yard low hurdles. Davenport of Chicago was runner-up in scoring with second places in the 60 yard dash, broad jump, and low hurdles.

Summaries:

ONE MILE RUN—Won by Wickersham, Marquette; Francis, Marquette, second; Papuga, Marquette, third. Time, 4:27.2.

60 YARD DASH—Won by Black, Marquette; Davenport, Chicago, second; Beaudry, Marquette, third. Time, :06.4.

440 YARD DASH—Won by Carr, Marquette; Butler, Marquette, second; Powell, Chicago, third. Time, :51.2.

70 YARD HIGH HURDLES—Won by Wasem, Chicago; Foster, Marquette, second; Schwope, Marquette, third. Time, :08.9.

TWO MILE RUN—Won by Francis, Marquette; Papuga, Marquette, second; Wickersham, Marquette, third. Time, 9:47.

880 YARD RUN—Won by Pruski, Marquette; Monahan, Marquette, second; Merriam, Chicago, third. Time, 2:01.2.

POLE VAULT—Won by Stolberg, Marquette; Bertsch, Marquette, and Davidson, Chicago, tied for second. Height, 13 feet 6¾ inches.

Lash, Cunningham Meet at Two Miles in I. C.-4A Meet

New York, March 3.—(AP)—The eighteenth intercollegiate A. A. A. A. track meet will be held tomorrow night spiced with a duel between Glenn Cunningham and Don Lash in a special two mile race.

Despite Lash's preoccupation with his attempt to lower his two mile record at Dartmouth, March 15, and Cunningham's complaint that he is not trained for the distance, neither Greg Rice of Notre Dame nor Tommy Deckard figures to whip the master miler or the world's indoor two mile record holder.

The struggle for the intercollegiate team title is wide open. Manhattan is the favorite to extend the supremacy of metropolitan squads. Columbia won the last two years and Manhattan the three preceding years.

The New York university team, with Fordham, Columbia, Harvard, and Dartmouth, should give Manhattan its sternest competition. Harvard and Dartmouth, shy on individual performers but with teams of thirty-two each, have enough numerical strength to make trouble.

MICHIGAN MAT TEAM DEFEATS MAROONS, 22-6

The University of Michigan's wrestling team last night defeated Chicago, 22 to 6, in Bartlett gymnasium. In the feature match D. Nichols, Western conference 175 pound champion, defeated Capt. Ed Valorz of the Maroons. The summaries:

121 POUNDS—Weidig, Michigan, pinned Young, Chicago.
128 POUNDS—Parmelee, Chicago, beat Whittemore, Michigan.
136 POUNDS—W. Thomas, Chicago, beat Sawyer, Michigan.
145 POUNDS—H. Nichols, Michigan, beat C. Thomas, Chicago.
155 POUNDS—Combs, Michigan, beat Litleford, Chicago.
165 POUNDS—Morgan, Michigan, pinned Webster, Chicago.
175 POUNDS—D. Nichols, Michigan, beat Valorz, Chicago.
HEAVYWEIGHT—Savilla, Michigan, beat Brown, Chicago.

3 N. U. TEAMS TO COMPETE IN DUAL CONTESTS

Three Northwestern university athletic teams will see action at home today. The wrestling and fencing teams meet Michigan and Chicago, respectively in Patten gymnasium at 3 o'clock and the swimming team meets Ohio state in the New Trier high school pool tonight. All three Wildcat opponents are Big Ten champions. The Buckeye swimming team holds not only the conference title but also the national A. A. U. championship as well. Michigan's wrestling team and Chicago's fencers are undefeated and will be strong contenders in Big Ten meets next week.

Ohio is a heavy favorite to defeat Northwestern but several events should produce close competition. In the diving Al Patnik, Ohio's national champion, will face Tommy Powell, Northwestern's star sophomore who has compiled an excellent record this year.

STOCK HOLDINGS OF PURE OIL CO. BOARD DISCLOSED

H. M. Dawes Owns 12,012 Common Shares.

The Pure Oil company yesterday disclosed the stock holdings of its directors in soliciting proxies in connection with the annual meeting of stockholders April 8.

Henry M. Dawes was paid $65,000 as president of the firm in 1938, and on Feb. 1, 1939, owned 12,012 shares of its common stock, and 2,250 shares of 5 per cent preferred stock, the statement showed.

The proxies, it was explained, will be voted for the election of thirteen directors. New nominees for board posts were listed as Charles S. Chesston, New York, and Joseph W. McIntosh, Warrenton, Va. If elected, they will replace W. C. Fairbanks, Indianapolis publisher, and N. H. Weber of Chicago, a Pure Oil vice president.

Cheston Has Interest.

Cheston, partner of Smith, Barney & Co., underwriting firm which has handled some of Pure Oil's financing, was shown as having a beneficial interest in 8,236 shares of preferred stock. McIntosh was listed as the owner of 600 common shares.

Robert W. McIlvain, vice president, was paid $55,000 in 1938 and held 54 shares of stock. Rawleigh Warner, vice president and treasurer, was paid $47,450 and held 914 shares.

They were nominated for reëlection as directors. Other nominees and their share holdings were listed as: Sewell L. Avery, 500; Philip R. Clarke, 100; B. G. Dawes, chairman, 2,504 shares of common, 219 of 6 per cent preferred, and 200 of 5 per cent preferred; J. A. Elkins, 7,500; John H. McCoy, 100; Joseph E. Otis, 100; C. B. Watson, 1,829 common and 600 of 6 per cent preferred, and L. S. Wescoat, 100 shares. No other salary payments were disclosed.

OTHER SALARIES REPORTED

New York, March 3.—[Special.]—The American Tobacco company in 1938 paid George W. Hill, president, a salary of $331,349, according to a proxy notice of the annual meeting, scheduled for April 5. Hill is the largest holder of common B stock among the seventeen nominees to the board of directors. He owns 2,331 shares.

In 1938 the International Business Machines corporation paid Thomas J. Watson, president, $431,742. Frederick W. Nichol, a vice president, received $76,053.

The Union Pacific Railroad company said that the fifteen nominees to the board of directors owned none to 20,947 shares. The largest amount was held by E. Roland Harriman. Fannin W. Charske, chairman of the executive committee, received total remuneration of $63,905. Carl Gray, vice chairman of the board of directors, $62,925, and William M. Jeffers, president, $60,555.

Investors' Guide

Saturday, March 4, 1939.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune.]

ABOUT AVIATION STOCKS.

Investors' Guide: From looking over the present prices of aircraft stocks I think I missed the boat. Last July I was on the point of buying the stock of an airplane manufacturer, but couldn't make up my mind which company to pick. Will you please give me a comparison of prices at the end of last week, Feb. 25, with prices seven months before for these common stocks: Boeing, Curtiss-Wright, Douglas, Lockheed, North American, and United Aircraft. How do the price changes compare with the change in the Dow-Jones average of thirty industrial stocks during the same period?—D. T.

Answer: All six stocks you mention advanced more than the Dow-Jones average of thirty industrials in the seven months' period. Here is the comparison:

	Closing price, Feb. 25, July 25, Per cent
	1939.	1938.	Increase.
Boeing	$31.37½	$30.37½	3.2
Curtiss-Wright	6.75	5.87½	14.9
Douglas	74.12½	53.50	38.5
Lockheed	34.25	14.12½	142.5
N. American	18.75	10.75	74.4
United Aircraft	41.62½	29.75	40.0

The average price increase for the six stocks was 52 per cent. The Dow-Jones average advanced from 144.91 to 146.82, a gain of 1.5 per cent.

NORTHERN STATES POWER.

Investors' Guide: How will the recapitalization plan of the Northern States Power company of Delaware affect my holdings of preferred stock? I understand a stock shakeup has been forced by the public utility holding company act of 1935, and am wondering whether to hang onto my stock or sell it.—R. B.

Answer: Your preferred stock is not directly affected by the plan at all. Northern States Power, a large holding company in the Standard Gas & Electric system, has changed its stock capitalization as a step in simplifying its setup under the terms of the utility holding company act.

The revamping, however, applies only to the class A and class B common stocks. The $7,292,000 of B stock held by Standard Gas and Electric was written off the books and the par value of the A stock was reduced from $100 to $25 a share. These changes created a paid in surplus of about $33,000,000 against which more than $30,000,000 of chargeoffs were made, mostly for writedowns of security values.

No change was made in the $78,000,000 par value of 6 per cent and 7 per cent preferred stock.

JOCKY'S UNIFORM.

Investors' Guide: I am a jocky. May I deduct the cost of my uniform in figuring my income tax?

Answer: Yes. The cost of a uniform, usable only for work, is deductible.

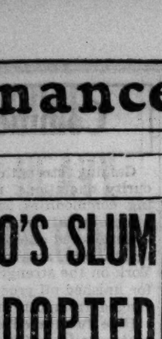
CHICAGO'S SLUM PLAN ADOPTED IN KANSAS CITY

Private Rebuilding Program Sought.

BY HOWARD WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Kansas City, Mo., March 3.—Kansas City business leaders today adopted as a pattern the plan for slum clearance and rebuilding of depreciated areas developed by the Chicago Building congress.



Paul D. Angell.

After an address by Paul D. Angell, secretary of the Chicago Building congress, before the Kansas City Real Estate board, officials of the latter organization announced they would take to the legislature at Jefferson City a slum clearance bill similar to that which the Chicagoans expect to present to their state assembly this month.

Angell had been invited to come here to explain in detail the "public service building corporation" plan of rebuilding so-called "blighted" areas with private capital. Because of the nation-wide interest that has been awakened by the proposal of the Chicagoans, real estate and building men in this city sought to get first hand information on it.

Chicago Group to Aid.

Angell said the Chicago Building congress would comply with the request of Kansas City business leaders to make available the data developed by his organization.

"We are bitterly opposed to bills pending before the Missouri legislature which would create municipal housing authorities to make possible the construction of government subsidized, tax exempt housing units in Kansas City by the United States Housing authority," said V. J. O'Flaherty, president of the Kansas City Real Estate board.

"On the other hand we have felt that while opposing such projects—which we believe to be economically unsound—we should have some alternative plan to offer for the rehabilitation of dilapidated areas of our city. Until the public service building corporation plan was advanced in Chicago we had never heard of a workable plan for the rebuilding of rundown districts on a large scale. We believe it is the answer to the problem that has challenged all large cities for years.

Could Be Done Privately.

"The best feature of the plan is that it can be done with private capital, and instead of being a drain on the taxpayers it would actually ease their burdens by restoring property values in districts that do not carry their share of the tax load."

The essential feature of the public service building corporation plan, Angell said, is the setting up of a vehicle by which privately financed corporations can acquire land in slum areas without paying prohibitive prices to a minority of holdout property owners. The proposed legislation would empower public service building corporations to acquire land by condemnation just as electric and gas public utility companies acquire it. Subject to the supervision of a state commission such companies could buy land at a fair price in designated slum areas after they had previously acquired a majority of the necessary property by the ordinary option or purchase methods.

Has Been Publicly Approved.

The principle back of this plan has already been publicly approved by Acting Governor John Stelle of Illinois and Democratic and Republican leaders in both houses of the Illinois legislature, as well as by leading Chicagoans.

Because the Kansas City real estate men had expressed especial interest in the government's so-called low cost housing plan, Angell presented figures showing the tremendous cost of reclaiming even small parts of slum districts by this method.

He added, however, that the Chicago building congress was not offering the public service building corporation plan as an alternative to the low cost housing projects of the United States Housing authority. He said that the congress was convinced that if the necessary legislation can be obtained private capital will be able to undertake a construction program in depreciated areas which would dwarf by comparison the amount of construction which can be attempted by the government with public funds because of the heavy subsidies required in the government projects.

Source of Ill Health and Crime.

"The slum areas of our cities," Angell said, "contribute the largest share of our ill health, crime, and juvenile delinquency. Most epidemics originate and flourish within these districts and spread their deadly contagion over the rest of the community.

"Infant mortality, communicable diseases—such as measles, scarlet fever, infantile paralysis, tuberculosis, and the venereal diseases—notably syphilis—prevail very largely in these districts of our cities and constitute the chief problem of social control.

"These slum conditions are universally condemned by public opinion. In recent years the legislative, judicial, and executive branches of our federal and state governments

Stocks Spurt; Fairer Deal Is Business Hope

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 3.—Stock market prices spurted fractions to more than 2 points today in more active dealings. All sections took part in the advance. Many individual issues made new highs for the year. Volume ran to some 1,016,765 shares.

The list started higher, then ran into sporadic periods of selling, but continued to push higher to close at the best levels of the day. The fact that activity diminished during the selling was interpreted favorably.

Rated an important factor in the bullishness pervading the street today was the expectation that in his address tomorrow President Roosevelt will go further than other administration spokesmen in advocating business "appeasement."

Some Traders Skeptical.

Nevertheless, an inclination was reported in some quarters to doctor the optimism with a dose of caution. Questioning the sincerity of the changed administration attitude, these quarters were said to be waiting for action instead of more words.

Another well received token, it was generally agreed, was the appointment of Gen. Robert E. Wood, chairman of Sears, Roebuck & Co., as an aid to Secretary of Commerce Harry L. Hopkins.

Business news, including the improvement in the automobile producing and retail trade fields, was regarded as another stimulant to traders.

On the international front the admitted lessening of tension in Europe and the strong peace plea by the new pope were considered conducive to improved sentiment in all trading spheres.

Industrial Shares Take Lead.

Industrial shares assumed leadership of the market today. Chrysler was especially strong, rising 2⅝ points. General Motors spurted 1 point in the most active demand of the day. The steel group showed gains running to 2 points, with United States Steel, Bethlehem, and Youngstown Sheet and Tube the leaders.

United States Rubber attracted considerable attention and advanced 1⅜ points. Other rubber issues made substantial fractional gains.

Farm implement shares turned strong and active. Deere and International Harvester went into new high ground with gains of 1 and 2⅜ points, respectively. Other heavy machinery stocks showed advances running to 2 points.

New York Central paced the rails higher with a gain of ½ point in active demand. Union Pacific advanced 1 point.

NLRB EXAMINER IS OVERRULED IN SWIFT & CO. CASE

Washington, D. C., March 3.—[Special.]—The National Labor Relations board today overruled one of its trial examiners in dismissing an assortment of charges against Swift & Co., packing firm.

Disregarding recommendations of Albert Lohm, trial examiner, the board dismissed charges that the packing company had unfairly discharged or reduced the pay of 17 employés at a plant in National City, Ill. Lohm had recommended reinstatement of five employés and reimbursement of several others for back pay.

The board ordered the company to "cease discouraging membership" of its employés in the United Packinghouse Workers union, an affiliate of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, and to "cease dominating and supporting" the Swift & Co. employés' protective association.

STORES' SALES DIP 5 PER CENT BELOW YEAR AGO

The nation's department stores in the week ended Feb. 25 did 5 per cent less business than a year ago, the weekly report of the federal reserve board revealed yesterday. Declines were reported in all districts of the reserve system except in Boston, Atlanta, and Minneapolis.

The seventh [Chicago area] district reported sales fell 5.3 per cent below those of 1938. Stores in Chicago proper had 4.2 per cent less volume. Detroit declined 2.9 per cent, Indianapolis, 13.6 and Milwaukee, 9.2.

Business Books

"Federal Aid for Relief," by Edward Ainsworth Williams. [Columbia University Press, New York. Price $3.25.]

Work and objectives of the Federal Emergency Relief administration from May, 1933, through 1935 are discussed in this new volume by Edward Ainsworth Williams, formerly on the FERA staf. It is to be published March 11.

As a background the book summarizes the relief methods prevailing before 1929, the emergency methods put into operation by states and cities from 1929 to 1933, and the early federal relief activities before the FERA. This agency was supplanted by the Works Progress administration and the Public Works administration.

"Buyers Guide Section of Commerce Magazine," published by Chicago Association of Commerce.

The Chicago Association of Commerce today begins country-wide distribution of a guide to Chicago made or Chicago distributed wares. The directory lists the commodities or services available through about 7,200 local companies doing an estimated annual combined business of more than 6 billion dollars. There are 3,102 classifications covering more than 35,000 listings.

Rails Bicker Over New Fast Train to Coast

A fight has developed over the new train—the Exposition Flyer—to be placed in operation between Chicago and San Francisco in June, it was learned yesterday. The Burlington, Denver and Rio Grande Western, and Western Pacific railroads announced the new train, which is to make the trip in 57 hours. The Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, and the Northwestern railroads have filed a complaint with C. E. Johnston, new chairman of the Western Association of Railway Executives. Officials of the various roads refused to comment on the differences. However, it was said the three complaining roads object to the fact that the new train is not to be an extra fare train, although it will make the run in 57 hours.

C. E. Johnston.

Cite Tacit Agreement.

It is asserted there has been a tacit agreement that all trains running to the coast in less than 60 hours shall be extra fare trains.

The Burlington and its two companion roads argue that the Exposition Flyer is an entirely new train traveling over a new route and competing with long established trains. Consequently, if it is made an extra fare train it will have greater difficulty in attracting customers.

The mileage to be traveled by the Exposition Flyer will be 2,532, compared with the 2,260 miles of the North Western, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific route. The Exposition Flyer's bid for business is being made on a basis of the scenic country through which it will pass. It will not attempt to match the fast schedule—39 hours and 45 minutes—of the City of San Francisco, streamliner of the three objecting railroads.

Call Conference on Objections.

A conference on the objections has been called for Wednesday in Johnston's office in the Union Station building.

The Burlington and its companion roads are reported to have the support of certain other lines which describe the new venture "as a progressive effort to get more business for the rails." One road is reported to have been asking its representatives in the south to mention the new train as offering one route to the San Francisco fair with the return by another line.

SEN. KING SEEKS RETURN OF GOLD TO MONEY SYSTEM

Washington, D. C., March 3.—(AP)—Senator King [D., Utah] proposed today the return of gold coins and gold certificates to the nation's monetary system. King's bill would:

Repeal the law prohibiting the ownership of gold coins or bars in the United States.

Authorize the government, whenever it wishes to avoid further accumulation of gold stocks, to pay for gold purchased only with United States $10 and $20 gold pieces, or for convenience, in gold certificates redeemable in gold coin to the appropriate extent.

Authorize the unlimited coinage of gold hereafter tendered for coinage at the weight per gold dollar fixed by law.

In a statement, King said enactment of his measure would "be a substantial step toward restoring the confidence of our people in the currency and in the credit of the United States."

New Financing Expands, but Is Below Year Ago

New York, March 3.—(AP)—New financing for the week ended March 2 totaled $19,827,690, Poor's Publishing company reported today, compared with $8,911,750 for the preceding (holiday) week and $57,806,000 for the comparable week a year ago. Of the current week's total 64 per cent was new capital. The total was divided as follows:

	This week.	Last week.	Year ago.

STEEL WORKER TOTAL HIGHEST IN 10 MONTHS; JANUARY PAY ROLLS UP

New York, March 3.—(AP)—The American Iron and Steel institute reported today that nearly 451,000 employés, the largest number in ten months, were at work in the steel industry during January. The total was 449,000 in December and 475,000 in January, 1938.

January pay rolls totaled $59,348,000, compared with $59,254,000 in December, and $47,578,000 in January, 1938.

Wage earners in January and December worked an average of thirty-two hours a week, compared with 22.9 hours a week in January, 1938.

NEW YORK BANK CUTS INTEREST ON FHA LOANS

New York, March 3.—[Special.]—The Bowery Savings bank today announced a reduction from 5 to 4¼ per cent in its interest rate on selected mortgages insured by the Federal Housing administration. It applies on selected homes in suitable locations either newly built or to be built.

Action by the Bowery bank was expected to start a general reduction by leading institutions which have specialized in such loans. The reduction is explained as a natural development resulting from the tremendous pressure of idle bank, insurance, and other funds seeking employment.

NO CUT IN ILLINOIS.

Illinois banks are not cutting interest rates below the Federal Housing administration maximum of 5 per cent for insured mortgages, John R. O'Connor, state director for the FHA, said yesterday. In some isolated cases under special conditions the rate has been cut to 4½ per cent, but never lower. Unless construction gets under way on a big scale and competition grows keener there is little likelihood of Illinois banks reducing their rates, O'Connor said.

REPUBLIC STEEL URGES NEED FOR PRICE INCREASE

Cleveland, O., March 3.—(AP)—The Republic Steel corp. told stockholders today "increased prices practically throughout the steel industry are sorely needed to permit a reasonable return on investment." T. M. Girdler, chairman, and R. J. Wysor, president, said in the report for 1938:

"In June, 1938, general price reductions throughout the industry became effective without decrease in labor costs. Further price reductions were made by the industry about Oct. 1 on some products, and were effective on a very considerable part of the tonnage manufactured and sold during the latter part of the year. Increases in the volume of business in the latter part of the year were insufficient to offset the effect of reduced prices."

Republic previously reported a loss of $7,997,825 for 1938, compared with profit of $9,044,147 the preceding year.

20 Markets Seek Changes in Security Act

New York, March 3.—[Special.]—With the purpose of agreeing on possible amendments to the security act of 1933 and the security act of 1934 which they believe would make the laws more workable, representatives of twenty stock exchanges will meet on March 13 and 14 in Washington, it was announced here today.

The conference will deal principally with drafting amendments to the 1934 act, although it is possible that the meeting may recommend rewriting those sections of the two laws which duplicate each other.

Will Ask Congress' Action.

After the representatives of the exchanges agree on a program—it is a general idea of the officials of the various security bodies that there should be a unanimity of opinion—they will consult with the Securities and Exchange commission.

Then, if the plan is favorable to the governmental agency, congress will be asked to enact the necessary amendments. It was made plain that there is to be no change in the spirit of the law or in the regulations protecting the investing public.

Contends Rule Is Too Broad.

One of the provisions in the 1934 act which the exchange representatives believed should be changed concerns the anti-manipulative feature. Various people believe that this provision is too broadly stated and too difficult to interpret.

Another provision which the exchange officials may try to alter is that governing purchases by "insiders." Many believe this section restricts trading by officers of companies too much.

CHICAGOANS TO ATTEND.

Kenneth L. Smith, secretary, and Jess Halstead, general counsel, will represent the Chicago Stock exchange at the conference to consider revision of the federal securities laws, it was announced yesterday.

HOME BUILDING AS YEAR STARTS BEST SINCE 1929

New York, March 3.—(AP)—The first seven weeks of 1939 experienced the largest value of residential construction contracts for that period since 1929, the F. W. Dodge corporation, building statistics, reported today.

Contracts for residence building in that period totaled $139,433,000, a gain of 110 per cent over the $66,483,000 for the like period of 1938.

February's gain was 18 per cent above January's figure, compared with a normal seasonal gain of 10 per cent, the agency calculated.

SEC. HOPKINS NAMES GEN. WOOD ADVISER ON BUSINESS RELATIONS

Washington, D. C., March 3.—(AP)—Secretary of Commerce Harry L. Hopkins has appointed Gen. R. E. Wood of Chicago as his official advisor on business relations.

Gen. R. E. Wood.

Gen. Wood, a former army officer and now chairman of the board of Sears, Roebuck & Co., will serve for about four months, without title or administrative duties. He accepted the job on condition that it be temporary.

Wood is a former member of the commerce department's business advisory council. His job will be to help Hopkins find out what he can do to help business and also to tell business what it can do to promote government-business coöperation.

Wood is in Washington attending a census bureau meeting. He declined to comment on business or government or the relations between them, on the ground that he was out of touch with recent events.

Wood said he would return to Chicago within a few days and start catching up on the situation; then would return here for whatever work Hopkins may want him to do.

GEN. ELECTRIC LIFTS DIVIDEND; '38 PROFIT DIPS

Votes 25 Cents; Nets 96 Cents a Share.

Although 1938 earnings of the General Electric company were less than half those of 1937, directors of the company yesterday authorized an increased dividend payment.

A preliminary report placed net income at $27,729,000, equal to 96 cents a share, compared with 1937 net earnings of $63,546,762, or $2.21 a share. A dividend of 25 cents a share was ordered paid on April 25 to stockholders of record March 17. Shareholders received 20 cents on their stock in each of the three preceding quarters. A year ago the board voted 30 cents a share.

The company announced bookings for the first two months this year increased 25 per cent to $51,800,000, from $41,300,000 a year earlier.

Many Report Lower Profits.

Sharp reductions were disclosed in the 1938 reports of many other concerns, including some companies that are leaders in their fields. Only a few were able to show improvement.

United States Rubber company, issuing its first report on a fully consolidated basis as effected last June, had net income of $5,885,887 for the year ended Dec. 31, 1938. This figure is not strictly comparable with that of 1937, when net profit was $8,607,903, the company said. Including only those subsidiaries whose accounts were taken into the 1937 consolidated report, the 1938 net income would be $3,798,119, the statement explained.

Net sales in 1938, under full consolidation, were $154,935,755, and the 1937 total was $186,253,188. The company began 1938 with a deficit of $10,471,626, and closed the year with capital surplus of $11,229,616. Among the various surplus adjustments, the company credited the account with $85,222,791 as a result of a change in par value of the stock, and charged off $57,662,404 in patents and good will previously carried as an asset.

Consolidated Aircraft Gains.

Against the generally lower trend, Consolidated Aircraft corporation reported the largest earnings on record. Net income last year was $1,535,100, equal to $2.55 a share, against $462,659, or 68 cents a share in 1937.

Petroleum refinery corporations experienced varied results. Barnsdall Oil company reported 1938 net profit of $2,837,897, compared with $1,903,029 in 1937, representing $1.26 and 84 cents a share in the respective years. The 1938 earnings were the largest since 1930.

Frank Phillips, chairman of the Phillips Petroleum company, announced 1938 net earnings approximated $10,300,000, equal to $2.32 a share, but said inventory adjustments would reduce that to $2.03 a share. Actual earnings in 1937 were $24,113,874, or $5.42 a share.

Ashland Refining Earns Less.

Consolidated net earnings of the Ashland Refining company amounted to $566,241 in 1938, against $694,228 in 1937, or 56 and 70 cents a share, respectively.

Operations of the American Locomotive company in 1938 resulted in a net loss of $1,302,194, contrasted with 1937 net earnings $6,113,218, or $4.75 on the common stock.

The annual report of the Belden Manufacturing company showed a net loss of $101,711 for 1938 against net profit in 1937 of $393,265, or $1.63 a share.

Operations were conducted at a profit in the last quarter of the year, according to H. L. Rogers, vice chairman of the board. "At present," he added, "incoming orders are considerably above the rate of a year ago, but are too close to the break-even point to insure continued profits."

The company, which produces electric cords and similar equipment, with its principal plant in Chicago, also disclosed salaries of officers. Whipple Jacobs and C. S. Craigmile, vice presidents, were the highest paid officers in 1938, receiving $10,940 and $9,846, respectively.

Foreign Trade in U. S. Stocks Is Held Small

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 3.—Trading in American securities by foreigners is of little import in fluctuations on American stock exchanges, John W. Hanes, undersecretary of the treasury, said today.

John W. Hanes.

Hanes forcefully contradicted the long lasting supposition that sharp climbs or falls in the stock market were due largely to foreign buying or selling. He said foreign influences on the market have been overemphasized and have reached the status of a fallacy.

The undersecretary expressed his opinion on the subject in chatting informally after a house committee hearing today. He had been deprived the privilege of discussing foreign influences on the market at the hearing by a sudden adjournment of the committee when the house convened for the day's work.

Ready to Testify.

He was ready to testify before the house committee on coinage, weights and measures, considering a bill for extension of the dollar devaluation and stabilization fund powers, when the adjournment was taken.

"Wall street must have a reason for everything on what happens in the market," Hanes said, "and when it can find no reason for a decline attributes it to short selling or foreign influence."

These old reliable alibis have been overworked, Hanes indicated in expressing regret that he did not "have a crack" at the foreign bugaboo before the house committee.

The undersecretary is regarded as an authority on the subject, because he is a former Wall street broker, and prior to coming to the treasury was a member of the Securities and Exchange commission. The SEC daily reports to the treasury on buying and selling by foreign countries.

Foreign Investment Estimate.

Hanes said that these reports have shown that foreign trading has amounted to as little as 1 per cent of volume. Compared with a reported 10 billion dollar foreign investment in America in 1936, Hanes estimated that total foreign investments in this country today—including stocks, bonds, real estate and other property—total not more than 5 billion dollars.

Of this he estimated that 2 billions are in stocks. Even if the entire 2 billions were liquidated by frightened foreigners it would not seriously affect the market's condition, in Hanes' opinion.

He did not know the division of the remaining 3 billions of the estimated foreign investment because the SEC and the treasury have been concerned only with investments subject to the more severe fluctuations. The treasury was interested particularly in tracing the enormous influx of gold during the European crises of the last year.

Can Be Used for Investment.

It was brought out at the hearing that the government has little control over this foreign gold other than to see that it is not used in violation of the Johnson act, which prohibits the extension of credit to nations which have defaulted on their world war debts to this country. The gold may be used privately, however, for investments in this country or for goods and services.

Just before Hanes was to be called to testify Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau said that the foreign investment situation was no cause for alarm. Representative August H. Andresen [R., Minn.], had asked Morgenthau whether extensive foreign holdings had not got this country into "a dangerous situation."

It is expected that Hanes may tell the committee of his findings on foreign investments when it meets again next week to consider the monetary bill.

OUTPUT OF AUTO PLANTS EXPANDS AS ORDERS GAIN

Automobile production this week was estimated yesterday by Ward's Automotive Reports, Inc., at 78,705 units, compared with 75,660 units last week and with 54,445 units in the like 1938 week. Ward's said that the upturn should continue next week. Factory orders are beginning to reflect the opening up of retail sales with the cessation of the unseasonable weather of the last few weeks, the service said.

Retail sales of Nash during the first twenty days of February showed a 33 per cent increase over the like 1938 period, W. A. Blees, general sales manager of the Nash Motor division of the Nash-Kelvinator corporation, said. Sales in the 1939 period totaled 2,132, compared with 1,605 in the like 1938 period.

BOND MARKET RIGGING DENIED BY MORGENTHAU

Big Fund Never Used for Arms, He Says.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 3.—Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau declared today that the 2 billion dollar exchange stabilization fund never has been used to "rig the market" in government bonds or to finance foreign purchases of armaments.

Furthermore, he said, such practices never will occur while he is secretary of the treasury. In event of war the treasury would look to congress for instructions on the use of the fund.

He made these statements while testifying before the house committee on coinage, weights, and measures, which is considering a bill for extension of the stabilization funds and dollar devaluation control beyond June 30. Both powers expire on that date and Morgenthau is backing the President's request that they be continued to Jan. 15, 1941.

Asks About Use of Fund.

Representative August H. Andresen [R., Minn.] bluntly asked Morgenthau whether the fund was used to trade in securities or finance foreign countries. This was inquired into recently by congressmen when it was disclosed that the government had coöperated with the French and British governments in the purchase of planes and other supplies in this country.

Morgenthau went even further than that by declaring that "not only has this fund never been used for that purpose, but as far as the government is concerned "we've never rigged the government bond market."

"We have never used trust funds except for investment," he continued without a specific request to explain from the committee. "In 69 trust funds we have 3½ or 4 billion dollars of securities and I am very happy that these trust funds are worth more today than before we bought the securities."

Reveals Bond Trades.

He said he only bought once and sold once in government bonds for the stabilization fund account. He said he did buy up to 31 millions in government bonds to provide the fund with some income, but when it was no longer needed the bond holdings were reduced to 5 millions.

Andresen asked him if the fund had dealt in stocks.

"Legally I couldn't invest in stocks, and if I could I wouldn't," Morgenthau replied firmly.

He was asked whether the fund had been used to stabilize the currency of any other nation and whether there were any agreements with other nations to stabilize their currencies.

"The so-called tripartite agreement," said Morgenthau, "can be terminated by any one of the parties at any time. The United States government does not go into agreements to stabilize any country's currency."

He said that other countries can try to stabilize their own currencies, only with funds they have on deposit here, just as the American fund has balances abroad which may be used to stabilize the dollar.

Fund to Steady Dollar.

"The purpose I see in this fund," said the secretary, "is to keep a minimum of fluctuations in the dollar, and as I see it today the dollar is the most stable currency in the world. As far as it is my duty, I help other countries to attain that end, but always with their own money."

"Has any of the fund been used in any manner to finance foreign governments in the purchase of armaments or other supplies?" Andresen asked.

"I could answer under oath that the answer is 'no,' and as long as I'm secretary of the treasury it won't be."

Eager to get on the record his connection with the French plane deal in which the administration was accused of supplying military secrets to France, Morgenthau voluntarily pursued the subject.

Explains Plane Financing.

In connection with the so-called French planes, the French are paying cash, he said. The Bank of France has arranged for the New York Federal Reserve bank to pay the manufacturers of the planes recently ordered in this country. The money is, or will be, on deposit with the federal reserve bank, he said. The English have made the same arrangement, he said.

"I believe in the Johnson act, and as long as I am secretary of the treasury I will observe it," he continued. "There have been attempts to get around the act, but I've always opposed them." The Johnson act prohibits the extension of public or private loans to any nation in default on its world war debt to this country.

The committee had not finished quizzing Morgenthau by the time that the house convened so another hearing was planned for next week.

New York Bonds.

New York, March 3.—(AP)—A broad buying movement swept rail, industrial, and utilities loans to the crest of the current upswing in the bond market today. At the same time gains running up to 20-32ds of a point carried United States government obligations still further into record high territory.

Dominating the advance, bond analysts said, were increasing signs of a government-business rapprochement which, in turn, might lead to tapping for industrial needs the vast reservoir of idle bank funds. An economy drive in congress was also seen as a buying factor by many brokers.

Total transactions were $8,332,500, face value, compared with $7,332,400 yesterday.

Chicago Stocks.

Prices moved higher on the Chicago stock exchange yesterday and trading expanded to 30,000 shares. Deere & Co. moved into the active column and advanced more than a point to 22¾. Great Lakes Dredge, also advancing more than a point, reached 50⅜.

The Chicago Tribune average closed at 11.43, against 11.27 Thursday. Of the 110 stocks traded, 67 advanced, 19 declined, and 24 closed unchanged.

Commonwealth Edison led the list in volume and finished at Thursday's final level.

Bank Stocks.

Chicago bank stocks strengthened yesterday in slightly improved trading, dealers said. American National shares gained $4; First National $3, and Chicago Title $1. Continental Illinois stock declined 25 cents.

CARGILL CHIEF DEFENDS HEAVY BUYING OF CORN

Asserts Market Deals Were Legitimate.

The intricacies of spreading and hedging in the grain market were explored yesterday at a hearing before S. Abbott Maginnis, federal referee hearing charges growing out of the "corner" in September, 1937, corn futures.

S. Abbott Maginnis.

John H. MacMillan Jr., president of Cargill, Inc., big Minneapolis grain firm, insisted his large speculative accounts in the futures market were merely incidental to the company's normal merchandising operations.

He reiterated charges that the Chicago Board of Trade, in rulings against his firm which allegedly favored "shorts," manipulated prices downward, and as a result penalized farmers who otherwise would have received higher prices for their grain.

Adds to Voluminous Record.

MacMillan's explanations of spreading and hedging helped build up a record which has already filled 6,000 pages since the current hearing began in Washington last Nov. 28.

The hearing in the Hotel Sherman is on Cargill's price manipulation charges against the grain exchange. Yet to be heard are the board's counter charges, alleging Cargill violated board rules in obtaining a "corner" on the market, and allegations of somewhat the same nature made against the grain firm by Secretary Wallace.

Irving B. Goldsmith, counsel for MacMillan, read into the record excerpts from remarks made from time to time in other litigation by various grain experts, all of which he construed as upholding Cargill's operations as legitimate spreading and hedging.

Quotes Former Exchange Head.

These remarks included some by Kenneth S. Templeton, former president of the Chicago grain exchange; Jesse Livermore, noted "plunger" of a few years ago, and the late Siebel C. Harris, widely known Chicago grain man.

MacMillan remarked that the subject was "unbelievably complex." He denied any intention of gambling, asserting his firm had fully intended to accept delivery of actual corn after purchasing a reported 6¾ million bushels in the futures market.

Spreading, he explained, involves the simultaneous purchase and sale of identical grains on one or more markets, and is undertaken to minimize the possibility of loss. Hedging, he continued, usually involves the sale of futures to protect a "long" cash position.

But there are many variations of these examples, he said.

INT. HARVESTER TO MAKE CHEAP FARM TRACTOR

The International Harvester company disclosed yesterday that it will enter the low price tractor field in the agricultural industry. No date for the appearance of the new tractor has been set, but officials said it will be introduced as quickly as manufacturing facilities can be rearranged to provide for quantity production.

It is understood the new tractor will be built either at the Chicago plant or the Rock Island plant. About $3,000,000 is being spent on modernization of the Chicago works.

Price and specifications of the new tractor will not be made public for some time. However, it will be smaller than any model International Harvester has yet built.

Allis-Chalmers has built a tractor with rubber tires to sell at $495 and Deere & Co. late last year brought out a model to sell at $495. Deere is understood to be concentrating in the low priced field on its model H, which sells for $595 equipped with rubber tires. International Harvester's lowest price tractor has sold at $625 with steel wheels and at $835 for rubber tires.
